

British Scientist To Speak

Noted British scientist and educator Sir Bernard Lovell will lecture on the "Exploration of Outer Space" Thursday, April 13, at El Camino College.

Admission to the program, scheduled in the men's gymnasium at 8 p.m., is $1.

The presentation is one of a series of lectures to be given in California by Sir Bernard. His topics in the series will include "The Individual and the Universe" and "Is the United States Running Alone in the Race to the Moon."

This past summer Sir Bernard became the first Western scientist ever allowed to inspect Soviet space centers and tracking observatories. He was invited by the Soviet Academy of Sciences for a three-week, 12,000-mile tour.

Sir Bernard, who is the director of the Jodrell Bank Observatory, scooped the Russians by releasing photos of their soft landing on the moon.

The distinguished scientist and lecturer is an honorary member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and received a citation from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for his contributions to the American Space Program.

'Neat' Thief Breaks Into Area Home

A burglar who neatly searched a home in central Torrance escaped Friday with goods valued at nearly $900. Harvey Schaefer, 53, of 2866 W. 226th St., told police the burglar entered his home between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Friday.

Police said every room of the house had been searched in "an orderly fashion." A portable television set, a radio, a camera outfit, and electric tools were taken. A cash box containing about $20 in coins also was taken.
