Many Salesmen Seek Suckers; Don't Let One of Them Be You

(This is the fifth in a serlesies of articles entitled, "Don't Be A Sucker!" In the first four articles, readers were warned to check carefully before buying any product and "think it over" for a couple of days before committing themselves.)

By TOM RISCHE
Herald Staff Writer

A man once put an ad in the paper which declared only, "Last chance to send your dollar to John Doe" and give his address. Surprisingly enough, the man made a killing on this ad. He promised nothing to anybody, but lots of eager bargain hunters sent him their dollars anyhow. Another enterprising gentleman whom we'll call John Jones once put an ad in the paper declaring only that money was needed for the John Jones fund. He also cleaned up.

Suckers Pay

Why do people do such silly things? They're the suckers who think they are getting a bargain, and will oftentimes pay more than they should just because they believe a salesman who tells them that they are getting a bargain.

Of course, lots of people get stung because they fail to find out what they are buying or because they don't know what the law is.

Questions Asked

If a door-to-door salesman knocks on your door and tells you you are getting a bargain, you can listen to him, but for the sake of your pocketbook, find out these things before you cact:

1. Does the man have a Torrance solicitor's license?
2. Does he represent the firm he says he represents?
3. Is the product he is selling a good one?
4. Is the price you are paying for it better than you could get elsewhere?
5. What does the contract call for and is the interest rate within reason?
6. What does the Better Business Bureau know about him?

One way by which firms can dodge obtaining a Torrance solicitor's license is by calling or writing you a letter first on the phone and making an appointment to come to your home. These offers should be checked even more carefully.

Exceptions Cited

There are certain businesses engaged in interstate commerce which do not require a solicitor's card—for instance, insurance. But be wary of any solicitor who says he doesn't need a solicitor's card. It never hurts to check.

There are, of course, some salesmen that your own common sense would tell you are legitimate — those selling bread, milk, laundry, diaper, and similar products. These salesmen raly on serving you well or losing your business. If you are stung, it will be only for a small amount, and you know where to complain.

Mail Frauds

You can be gipped by mail as well as by the door-to-door salesmen. The March, 1957, issue of Goodhousekeeping contains much good information on mail frauds:

You are under no legal or social obligation either to pay for or return material received through the mail if you have not ordered it.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the items which are sent through the mail, with requests that you send back a donation. These include such items as aprons, fountain pens, neckties, flags, wallets, key rings, baby shoes, crucifixes, name stickers, license tags, and a variety of other material.

You do not have to pay for these items, even though you may receive threatening letters or requests playing on your sympathy. In fact, many of the "charities" which send out these items are not charities at all.

One variation of this racket is for a firm to send you a card announcing that it will send its product unless you write back and tell them not to. In this case, you are not obligated to pay for it either, unless you ordered it.

Good Housekeeping points out that you need not acknowledge the recipt of unordered merchandise, nor are you required to return or pay for it unless you use it. If the firm which sent it to you calls for it at your home within a reasonable time, you are required to return it to them. You can, however, charge for storage of the item.

Complaints Received

The Torrance Chamber of Commerce reports many complaints about a firm which offers to place a copy of your child's picture in the files of movie studios for possible movie work. The firm, of course, charges a high price for this service. What people should realize is that very few children are needed for the movies. The offer is legitimate, but the probabilities of a child's being chosen are very small.

Prospective buyers should be certain to read any offers carefully and listen carefully to what the salesman says. Letters may imply fabulous things, but when you read them carefully, many of them promise practically nothing. In many cases, practically nothing is what you get for your money.

"How I Gyp You"

There is also an eye-opening article in the June 29 issue of Saturday Evening Post, entitled "How I Gyp You," describing some of the questionable practices of many salesmen. It would be well worth reading.

Assemblyman Charles Edward Chapel has urged his constituents aware of any violations of selling laws to write to him about ways in which they have been gipped—either by unscrupulous salesmen or by unscrupulous "loan sharks." He currently is gathering information in an effort to plug some of the loopholes in the laws which allow businesses to operate on the borderline of legality.

Chapel points out that people who are "taken in" by advertisements are more often lured to stores by television ads than by newspaper ads. TV advertising cannot be controlled by the state because it is considered interstate commerce. Newspaper advertising, however, is under state jurisdiction, and generally contains fewer phony claims.

Minority Dishonest

Most businesses are honest, but it is the minority of dishonest people who make things hard for everyone. Only by checking carefully can the average person avoid being gipped by unscrupulous salesmen.

If you do get stung, don't suffer in silence. Talk to the police or the Better Business Bureau if you can't get satisfaction from the company. If necessary, se a lawyer.

Why be a sucker?

Council to Get Widening Plans For Prairie Ave.

Prairie Ave. may become a four-lane highway between 174th and 182nd St., if the City Council approves a recommendation of the Bureau of of Public Works.

Officials indicated Friday after a meeting with John Crain and John Kesson of the North Torrance Civic Improvement Assn. that they would recommend the widening of Prairie at the Oct. 8 Council meeting.

All but two property owners in the area have agreed to grant the city the easement for the street widening, officials reported. The city will pave the street and put in curbs, but property owners will have to put in their own sidewalks.

The NTCIA and the Perry School PTA have long sought action on the widening, since children must walk along Prairie to get to the school. There are no sidewalks along much of the street, and during rainy weather, the area in front of the school is a large mudhole.

Officials indicated the street widening also would help drainage problems.

Victim Says Burglar Missed Only $15 Here

Thieves who broke into his home and stole $20 last week overlooked $15—not $1500—Ollie Wierenga, 3933 W. 176th St., told Torrance police yesterday.

A HERALD story Thursday reported the missed cache at $1500, the figure contained in the official report on the matter.

The figure was given to the police in error, the victim said.
