33 Pilots Nearly Ready For 'Powder Puff' Race

Airplanes are ready and start at 9 a.m., EDT on July 8, at Bader Field, Atlantic City, N.J., and terminate by official sunset PDT on July 11, at Torrance Municipal Airport. This race will

The All Woman Transcontinental Air Race is a handicap speed race limited to stock model aircraft with not less than 145 horsepower and not exceeding 400 hp. Fastest transcontinental crossing by the July 11 deadline will determine the winner, based on the assigned handicaps for each make and model of aircraft.

Pilots from this area will have an added advantage of being able to fly the route backwards and familiarize themselves with the terrain and landmarks along the course. Charts have already been plotted, but weather will be the determining factor how each contestant will fly the race.

Pilots can only fly between sunrise and sunset on visual flight rules, and time on the ground at designated stops will not be counted against them. Timers are located at each of these airports along the route to clock the planes in and out. This information is radioed each night to the terminus timing committee and the final computation of the race results is done by the Simplex Time Recorder system, sponsors report.

Electronics Technician 2/C Glenn E. Miller, USN, son of Mr. Edward L. Miller of 4610 Spencer St., has returned to Long Beach aboard the guided missile frigate USS Gridley after a seven month tour of duty with the U.S. Seventh Fleet.
