

On Cancer Claims

Assembly Turns Down Bill on Second Vote

Capitol News Service
SACRAMENTO—The state Assembly has rejected for the second time a bill which would have required special proof from cancer victims that the disease was caused or aggravated by their employment, in order to collect claims under workmen's compensation insurance.

The bill, AB965 by Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R. Pacific Palisades, has been refused passage in the assembly last Monday. However, the house granted Priolo the chance to have the vote reconsidered. The vote the second time around was 27 "ayes" and 42 "noes," with 41 "aye" votes needed for passage.

The bill would have excluded cancer-caused disability from workmen's compensation "unless clear and convincing evidence is presented that the cancer was caused or aggravated by the employment."

PRIOLO SAID employers were being harassed by workmen's compensation claims from cancer victims. He said originally he had introduced bills to require the same proof of job connection for disabilities resulting from heart disease or emphysema, but had dropped them.

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, said there were only a few cancer cases for workmen's compensation and these workers should not be required to present better evidence than applicants from other disabilities. Knox said "clear and convincing evidence" is a term reserved in the law only for one or two situations.

ASSEMBLYMAN E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, said passage of AB965 would make workmen's compensation carriers virtually immune to paying any claims for disabilities resulting from cancer.

Earlier this year a workmen's compensation appeals board referee allowed a claim on behalf of a man who had

Robbery Nets $160 For Pair

Two patrons of the Saratoga Bar, 1913 Carson St., became gunmen Tuesday when they held up the bar and patrons after the pair had played several games of pool in the bar.

The men escaped with more than $160 from patrons and the bar's cash register after they ordered patrons into a restroom using a sawed off shotgun as the bar was closing at 1:55 a.m.

Witnesses reported that one of the men, in a brown suit and beard and about 25 to 26 years old, came up behind Madeline Reynolds as she was closing the bar and placed the shotgun in her back.

POLICE REPORTED the gunman told her, "You go to the men's bathroom. I'm not kidding and keep moving."

Two other persons, Marilyn Thompson and Ralph Pratt, also were herded into the restroom.

The second suspect demanded Pratt's wallet, but settled for $1.59 in change after Pratt said he did not have a wallet.
