A BEAUTIFUL PICTURE

Those who attended the Chautauqua last Sunday afternoon will never witness a sunset without recalling the beautiful picture painted before their eyes by Chief Strongheart. The word picture was given as a climax to his interesting address when he compared the red sun, blue sky to the Stars and Stripes, and later the stars in the heavens resembling the 48 stars in the flag, showing that "Indians" had witnessed this scene thousands of years before the American flag was adopted. Very truly he claimed the American flag as theirs just as much as the white man's that we would be united—when the Indian was given his citizenship.

INTERESTING COMMERCIAL DISTINCTION

Mr. H. H. Dolley, The Rexall Druggist Awarded Position on 1920 Honor Roll of International Association of Rexall Clubs.

H. H. Holley, the local representative of the United Drug Company of Boston, exclusive distributor in Torrance of well-known and popular brands of toilet goods, candy, stationery, rubber goods, medicinal preparations and other drug store goods, has just received word from the company's headquarters that he is one of the leading druggists to gain a place on the 1920 Honor Roll of the International Association of Rexall Clubs. This association comprises in its membership all of the 10,000 Rexall Stores located throughout the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

The Rexall organization is co-operative. The druggists themselves own the factories in which their trade-marked merchandise is made, and each druggist possesses the exclusive selling rights to this merchandise in his community.

Rexall druggists are rivals only in their loyalty to their own company. Competition has always been keen among them for the best comparative records in the sale of their "controlled" goods. Each man wants to do better than his fellow Rexallites in towns of the same relative size.

Out of this friendly rivalry there sprung some years ago the annual Honor Roll. In this unique list of "super-Rexallites" the names are grouped into several classes, according to population figures, and each group is limited to 10 per cent of the number of towns or cities of that class represented in the Rexall organization of the United States and Canada.

The 1920 Honor Roll is the eighth to be published and contains 825 names. The association hopes in future years to include in the Honor Roll the Rexallites of Great Britain, where loyalty to the organization's aims is just as keen as on this side of the water.

The motto of the International Association of Rexall Clubs is "The Best in Drug Store Goods; the Best in Drug Store Service." In the past year alone this organization of progressive druggists has built or acquired seven additional manufacturing plants of mammoth size to supply the steadily increasing demand for its varied merchandise.

The next time you have an opportunity to call on Mr. Dolley ask him to show you this unique Rexall Honor Roll, and get him to tell you how he won his position on it.

RIGHT AROUND HOME

Inability to realize that we have just as good things here at home as they have elsewhere is what keeps the railroads running. There wouldn't be one-half as much money spent in travel if we could get it into our heads that this is just as much a garden spot of this nation as anywhere else. We get the idea that folks are doing better and have more somewhere else than we have—and we hand our money to the railroad company to take us there and show us. Then we find out, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, that we were wrong.

The season for traveling is here again. And at the outset we want to urge upon every one who feels a desire to take a trip to confine his travels to his home state, as near to his own county as possible. See what you've got right around home first. If you are growing dissatisfied it's largely because you haven't seen this section like you ought to see it; you've been looking over it to some far-off promised land. Get out in your own county for a few days, and over in the adjoining county, if you feel you must travel a little, and learn what your neighbor has and how he went about getting it. You can apply what you learn near home to your own business, but you can't always apply that which you see in some other section to this. It's human nature to grow restless in the springtime. But if you're wise you'll not let that restlessness take you so far from home that you'll some day be sorry.

C. N. TURNER AND WIFE TO RETURN IN MAY

Will Leave Liverpool on Fifth of Next Month Via Panama Canal For California

Venissieux (Rhône), France, March 26, 1921

Dear Mr. Editor:

With your kind permission I will write a short letter to our many Torrance friends. Will not attempt to tell of our interesting stay in Europe. Would require too much of your valuable space to do that. Your readers are no doubt familiar with recent developments here, and it is likely we will soon be obliged to return to the States again.

Germany's flat refusal to pay its indemnity has aggravated a situation that was already bad.

It is difficult to say just what will happen in Europe within the next few months. Things look decidedly gloomy, if not alarming. The streets are filled with soldiers, cavalry, artillery, etc., all needed for the Rhine. But, in spite of all this, Germany maintains a smiling and defiant attitude. Owing to these conditions the corporation I am with has decided to postpone work indefinitely, so, according to our present plans, we will sail from Liverpool for Los Angeles via the Panama Canal May 6. Will leave Venissieux April 1 for a trip through Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, Holland and England previous to sailing for home. We regret this rather abrupt but necessary ending of our stay in France.

We shall never forget the kind and cordial treatment of the French people and the many interesting things we have seen in this historical and romantic country.

Yours respectfully
CHARLES N. TURNER.
