BASEBALL

(From the Utee News)

The Suburban League season has come to a close and our Utee Indians "brought home the bacon." Manager Hewson is able to wear the kind of a smile that don't fade. The last victory over the Pacific Red-Cuts closed the season, a loss would have meant the loss of the championship, so close was the standing of the clubs. Although the Utees were badly crippled at the close of the season by reason of a number of players going into the professional ranks, we nosed out our contenders by a measly half game. As we look back to same of the games we fail to find anyone who so particularly outshone the rest of the players that he could be called the hero. Many sensational plays were pulled off, and it would be unfair to try to pick the best player. There is "Terrible Templeton," who would get on base by hook or crook. Al would either hit, get hit, or get a base on balls so regular that we thought he was kidding somebody when he failed to reach first. We believe it can be said that Templeton was the most consistent player on the team. In saying this we are not unmindful of the wonderful playing of "Hook" Gomes. Gomes was a regular demon on bases and a hard hitter. When he reached over the fence and snatched what appeared to be a sure home run in the game with Leakes All Stars he made what was probably the most sensational play of the series.

Then there is Riggs, who batted first in the lineup, who "hit 'em" out regular and played third. He got more "hot ones" to handle than all the rest of them put together.

And don't forget "Tom" Mallott. Mallott, as captain, was always there—steady, a good, hitter and general all-around ready player.

"Smiling" Bill Weldener, catcher, saved many a bad throw by falling all over the surroundings near the home plate and hauling them in. Bill always wore that "Sunbeam Smile" which is so welcome in life, whether in baseball or business.

Beck, the P. M. P. contribution to the team, won't be forgotten. Beck plays ball with the ease and grace of a seasoned professional. He never got into the arguments which are an inseparable part of baseball, but was content to let the other fellow do the arguing while he did the playing.

"Red" Arnold, our "Sorel Dome" molder, gave a creditable account of himself after joining the team about half way through the series. "Don" Partridge joined the team too late to show up to advantage, but we take it for granted that he plays like he works, and in that even he "sure do play."

We will miss the games now for a while, but will look forward to another team next season.

In parting, let us say that on all sides much praise was heard for the team, and each player was given his just due. If the players could hear all the good things said of them they would feel satisfied that it was time well spent.

And to you, "Hewson," you old "War Horse," we say well done. We hope another season sees you with us and again piloting the "best" ball team.

ESSAY ON THE MULE

The mule couldn't help recognizing himself in this essay written on him:

"The mule is harder than the mule or turkie. It has two more legs to wal kwith, two more to lick with, and wears its wings on the side of its head."

IT WAS EASY THEN

The teacher, a lady of questionable age, was vhaing a hard time getting Johnny to memorize the names of the kings of England.

"Why, when I was your age," she finally exclaimed, exasperated, "I could recite the names of all the kings forward and backward."

"Yes'm," replied Johnny, unimpressed, "but when you was my age there wasn't nearly so many kings."

CASTOR OIL AND THE BOY

"I'm sorry, young man," said the druggist, as he eyed the small boy over the counter, "but I can only give you half as much castor oil for a dime as I used to."

The boy blithely handed him the coin.

"I'm not kicking," he remarked. "The stuff's for me."

THE LITTLE SCHOOL TEACHER

(The Children's Corner)
(By Aunt Hannah)

A tall, quiet girl whom we will call Beulah Neal sat in the open window gazing dreamily out over the beautiful landscape covered with trees and flowers. A silvery stream threaded its way toward the great Atlantic, while mountains in the distance made a charming background, but Beulah's thoughts were not confined to the spot of ground upon which her eyes were fixed, like the silvery stream they wandered in the hall of mental vision. She had just finished reading the story of Rosa - Lea, a fourteen year old girl who was a prize pupil in the school she attended. She bore the evidence of superior scholarship in her daily routine of duties, and when the gold medal was bestowed upon her everyone said as they congratulated her that the medal was most assuredly and unquestionably fairly won. Thanking her friends she retired to her home full of thoughts and plans—far beyond the ordinary girl. Weeks flew by and an advertisement came out that a teacher was wanted in Elmwood. Now, Rosa Lea was a very modest girl, retiring and non-committal in her nature. But she reasoned deeply with herself. So, she went to the superintendent of schools and told him she wanted to teach the country school that advertised for a teacher. There were for the position, but she took the examination and was given a first-class certificate, which decided in her favor. When she went to the vicinity where she was to begin work some of the people objected to her on account of her youthful appearance. An old farmer who was one of the trustees of the school said very abruptly, that gal can't teach. Look at her in short dresses nigh to her knees, but she has been given the place, let her show herself. And she did.

Well, the story of her success so wonderfully impressed Beulah Neal that she began to lay by bits of material that she said to herself, might help her to win out after she had finished school.

It isn't so much people's ignorance that does the harm as it is their knowing so many things that ain't so—Artemus Ward.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A simple dessert which may be given children is the following: Blueberry Pudding. — The amount of bread used for this pudding depends upon the size of the family. Layers of thinly sliced buttered bread in a shallow baking dish, pour over enough canned blueberries to cover. Place in a moderate oven and bake until thoroughly hot. Set away to cool and serve unmolded with cream and sugar.

Raisin Tapioca.—Soak one cupful of pearl tapioca overnight in cold water and cook in a double boiler in a quart of milk until soft. Remove from the fire and let cool slightly, stirring in three tablespoonfuls of butter. Heat two cupfuls of milk and stir into it three beaten eggs. Add to the warm tapioca. Stir in one cupful of sugar and one-half pound of seed raisins with the grated yellow rind of one-half a lemon and bake in a moderate oven for an hour, stirring occasionally until the consistency is even all through, then allowing to brown on top.

Apple Frappe With Maple Sauce.—Bake without coring or paring eight good-sized, good-flavored apples. Sift through a colander when soft, pressing out the part nearest the skin as this is the best flavored. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, a few cloves and cook, stirring carefully to avoid burning, until the mixture boils. Cool and freeze. Serve in flaring glasses with a garnish of red jelly and the following:

Hot Maple Sauce.—Cook together two cupfuls of maple syrup with one cupful of cream until the soft-ball stage is reached. Remove from the fire, set saucepan in hot water and dip a spoonful over the top of each glass of frappe.

Cake and Cheese Dessert.—Break into small custard cups of glass enough bits of cake to half fill. Add a few raisins, moisten with fruit juice, cover with a layer of grated cheese to nearly fill the cups. Place in a steamer to melt the cheese. Serve with jelly and whipped cream over the top.

Rann-dom Reels

IN THE SWIM

KEEPING up with the crowd is an attempt to stretch a $2,000 income over a $5,000 expense account. One of the first things a young married man encounters is a stern refusal on the part of his weekly salary to lap around the monthly bills and have anything left for gasoline. This is because anybody who has muscular strength enough to sign a relay of pink promissory notes can own an automobile and throw dust in the eyes of neighbors who did not buy until they could see where the money for an extra tire on the rim was coming from. One of the best tests of pluck and endurance a young married couple can have is to mingle in a crowd of plutocratic companions without wanting to pawn all of the wedding presents in order to keep up. The greatest treasure on earth is a wife who has social ambitions, but who does not find it necessary to dress like a style show model in order to get invited out. High society recognizes money, but there is a brand which would rather have a few brains than it does diamonds and tulle and chiffon velvet wraps.

Keeping up with the crowd in a small town is just as difficult as it is in a larger one, for in each case the crowd is split up into minute crowds.

eternally trying to move up a step or two and get into the wire-wheeled limousine class.

lets, ranging from champagne suppers to the peanut sandwich spread. The trouble is that few people are satisfied with the crowd nature and their income designed them for, but are eternally trying to move up a step or two and get into the wire-wheeled limousine class. Many a wife has tried to climb into this class and drag her husband with her, but before they were half way up their progress was impeded by the muffled accents of a foreclosed sale.

On the other hand, thousands of people who were born with nothing but a set of plain features and a few layers of horse sense are living in a state of unbroken peace without a solitary top hat or evening gown. As a rule, it will be found that these people can borrow money at the bank without having their collateral pawed over by the board of directors. When a man is unhappy because he is not leading the procession in a twin-six which will not be paid for before Mexico is pacified, it shows that the inside of his head needs upholstering with some different material.

It is all right to keep up with the crowd when you don't have to borrow short-time money in order to get by.

Astronomers have discovered a new star which is arousing unusual interest. It is known as the Nova Sagittarii star or "nova." Stars of this kind burst suddenly into flame and then fade away until they are invisible to the eye. Sometimes they can still be seen by powerful telescopes, while again they disappear entirely. Astronomers have many theories to account for the sudden disappearance of such stars, but they still remain a mystery.

YOU WILL LIKE TO TRY THESE.

THOSE who are fond of green peppers will like to try Green Peppers Stuffed With Rice. Take six small even sized green peppers, cut in halves lengthwise, wash and remove all seeds and white fiber. Scald with boiling water, boil three minutes, then drain. Boil rice in salted water until tender, using one-half cupful. Drain rice, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of poultry seasoning, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, or more to taste, one egg, and beat and mix well. Fill the pepper shells. Put one-fourth of a cupful of bacon fat, or four slices of bacon in the pan, bake until firm and lightly browned, using the bacon fat for basting. Serve with lamb fricassee.

Currant Bread.

Take two cupfuls of light bread sponge and work into it one-half cupful of butter and the same of sugar, which have been creamed together. Add one cupful of currants or two tablespoonfuls of caraway seeds. Let rise in a loaf. When light bake in a moderate oven. This is nice to serve with tea.

Buttermilk Custard Pie.

Cream a tablespoonful of butter with one cupful of sugar, add the beaten yolks of three eggs and stir in one cupful of fresh thick buttermilk; add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and fold in the egg whites beaten stiff. Pour into a deep plate lined with pastry and bake one hour.

Fruit Punch.

Make a sirup of one cupful each of sugar and water, cool and add the juice of an orange, the juice of two lemons, one-half cupful of apricot juice, one-fourth cupful each of prune and cherry juice; add two quarts of water and pieces of ice; garnish with cherries. This recipe makes two and a half quarts.

Hot Water Ginger Bread.

Take one cupful each of sugar and molasses, one-half cupful of melted fat, one egg beaten, a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of ginger, three cupfuls of sifted flour, and when all are well mixed add a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one cupful of boiling water. Stir until smooth, pour into a well greased dripping pan and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Apples Stuffed With Mincemeat.

Remove the cores from apples and fill the centers with mincemeat. Bake until the apples are tender. Serve hot with a cider sauce.
