MILITARY TRAINING IN JULY

Word has been received in Torrance by President J. W. Post of the First National Bank to the effect that a Citizen's Military Training Camp for the Ninth Corps Area will be held at the Presidio, San Francisco, and at Camp Lewis, Washington, for thirty days, beginning July 6.

The Ninth Corps Area includes the States of California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada. The attendance from each state will be based on their population.

The candidates whose applications are approved by the Commanding General will be assigned to camps nearest their homes.

Any male citizen of the United States between the ages of 16 and 35 years, who is of average intelligence and physically sound, is eligible to attend.

As the government provides transportation to and from the camp, it is expected that many of the young men of Torrance will make application for the camp. Previous military experience is unnecessary, and all meals, equipment, lodging, medical attention, uniform, laundry, athletics and recreation will be furnished by the government.

The attendance at the camps does not put any person under obligation for future military service.

Anyone interested in the camp and who would like to make inquiries regarding the same can apply to Mr. Post at the bank.

CALIFORNIA FARING WELL

California fared well during the reconstruction period. The soundness of its economic structure is evidenced in the fact that during the past year the state banks have increased their resources by over $123,189,000. The savings accounts have increased $9,326,000, and the gross deposits have passed the $1,250,000,000 mark.

There is marked activity in all the irrigation districts of the state, and an increased acreage is now being put under water that promises to add greatly to the wealth of California in food production. Many nationally known industrial enterprises have located in this state since the world war, and the high freight rates have contributed to the number of new enterprises in the way of branch concerns.

All sections of the Middle West report that California will be visited by a greater number of tourists and home-seekers this year than have invaded the state since 1914, and the railroads are preparing for the heaviest tourist travel westward that has occurred in many years. In the way of road building and public works there is a very large program contemplated for all sections of the state, and though there is a periodical summer quiet spell at this time among some of the industries of California, the general outlook is gratifying.

With Southern California conducting a great advertising campaign to attract settlers and tourists there and Northern California launching a movement to "sell" the northern end of the state, California bids fair to reap rich rewards along this line within the three year period of the campaign.

The free public employment bureau report that the unemployment problem is being greatly lessened, and that the number of idle men in the state has been reduced very considerably within the past few weeks. Compared to any other state in the Union, California is coming back with gratifying strides and normally is not so distant as may be imagined by those who are not close observers of the trend of the times.

Strong Drink

Sir James Castle, an eminent British surgeon, emphatically asserts that tobacco is the least harmful of the four social "vices." The other three in the order in which he names them are tea, coffee and alcohol. It would seem incumbent upon the true reformers to get together upon a program which shall free the world of its slavery of tea and coffee. John Barleycorn may have slain his thousands, but Thomas Tea and Simon Coffee have carried off their millions. Ask the doctor. He knows.

From the divorce suit testimony we occasionally read in daily papers it must be stylish in New York to grab the first thing that comes along, marry it and then settle for it afterward.

One nice thing about having only one necktie is you don't have to fight with your wife over which one you're going to wear to a funeral.

The danger in calling some men live wires is they are apt to take it too seriously and go out and shock the community.

THE POEM THAT WILL LIVE

Shakespeare did a little writing That the race is still reciting; Milton, too, did some inditing That we do not think of slighting. Chaucer did a little singing. Spencer's phrases still are ringing, Byron's stuff some praise is bringing.

Wordsworth's flights continue winging.

Burns' poems keep on going, Shelley's work still life is showing, Keats' numbers still are flowing, Tennyson we still are knowing. When these facts as does the ember

All the world will still remember "Thirty days hath September, April, June and November."

FIND SABER TOOTH

While blasting at the D. M. L. & B. Co.'s property last Saturday a five and one-half Saber tooth was blown to the surface. The debris came from a shaft thirty feet in depth. This specimen is the most perfect one yet found and is attracting much interest. A large bone, resembling a lower limb, was also saved from the wreckage, and in its petrified state shows a likeness to other bones found on the property.
