Speaking of slogans, we personally were struck by that of Glendale, epitomizing as it does an ideal place to live: "A Clean City, Kept Clean." Here's hoping Torrance never gets to where she has to roll up her sleeves and clean up anything within her city walls. May she begin right and keep so!

Mrs. W. G. Tryon of South Andreo was the victim of an automobile accident last Tuesday as she was driving between Torrance and Lomita. A Food Company truck stopped quickly in front of her without warning, and Mrs. Tryon's car crashed into the truck, causing nearly $100 damage.

It would seem that voters in Torrance on election of a school board are about "the scariest thing we're of," as Buster Brown would say. Let it not be said of Torrance that she is indifferent as to the issues nor ignorant of the candidates. We venture to prophecy that a year from now our citizens will be far more interested, possibly because of our Torrance Woman's Club.

Judge G. T. Graves and wife of Redondo, having leased their beach home, have purchased the beautiful home of Mr. Benj. Harwood on Cota street, and after making a few alterations and improvements there-in will come to Torrance to reside. Their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Carlson, will make their home there also, and Torrance's musical colony will be further enriched by Mrs. Carlson's coloratura soprano voice. The Harwood home lends itself charmingly to the purposes of a studio should Mrs. Carlson decide to resume voice teaching. Mrs. Graves will leave about the first of July for her home in Kansas to visit a few months with her mother, now past eighty years of age.

The regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors was held Wednesday evening in Steffen Hall, when thirty-five members were reported and other applications received, sufficient to bring the total up to fifty. Four visiting members from Los Angeles were present.

J. B. ACREE CALLED BEYOND

John B. Acree, one of the pioneers of Lomita, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. N. Tomkins, of Torrance, Saturday morning after an illness of over two years. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Renold & Van Nuys Undertaking Parlor, Pasadena. Interment in Mountain View Cemetery, Pasadena.

Deceased is survived by a widow, Mrs. Mae Tomkins; Mrs. Zella Roll of Santa Clara, Mrs. Pearl Doyle of Sacramento, Mrs. Quilla Dexter of Breckenridge, Texas; Mrs. Elizabeth Downer of Glendale, and Lambert Acree of Torrance.

He would have been 74 years old if he had lived until July 28.

COUNTRY CLUB MEETING

A special meeting of the Torrance Country Club was held in the office of the Dominguez Land Corporation last evening. The meeting was called by the directors for the purpose of affording the members of the club an opportunity to review the rules and by-laws which were prepared by a committee and approved by the board. As soon as they are adopted by the members they will be given to the press.

A digest of the progress of the club and also their present status was presented for the information of the members.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS

WRITE OF THEIR TRIP

(By HELEN NEILL)

On Thursday, June 2, the Domestic Science Class of the Torrance High School, in company with Mr. Barnett and Miss Collier, made an inspection trip of three of the large manufacturing plants of Los Angeles. The first one visited was Bishop's Candy, Cracker, Chocolate and Jam Company. The class was received very courteously and taken directly to the chocolate department where they observed the manufacture of cocoa and chocolate from the cocoa bean. We learned an interesting fact—that the cocoa beans are brought directly from the countries near the equator to the harbor at San Pedro. Each country supplies beans of a different flavor. Some very mild; others extremely bitter. The bitter and mild are mixed together to get the desired flavor. First in the process of manufacture they are cleaned, roasted to a beautiful reddish-brown color, the hulls taken off and ground into a liquid. It was interesting to note that the change from a solid to a liquid was caused by the beans being so rich in cocoa butter. This liquid was placed in a large press and all but 25 per cent of the cocoa butter pressed out. The residue is our commercial cocoa. If 55 per cent of the cocoa butter is allowed to remain in the mixture it is called chocolate. Sugar, nuts and other ingredients are mixed with the bitter chocolate and ground twenty-four hours under granite rollers, after which it is made into chocolate bars and other kinds of candy. A visit was also made to the other departments, where nearly every kind of candy on the market is made. The cracker and cookie departments were equally as interesting as the candy.

As the class left, each girl was given a can of Bishop's cocoa and a cherry flip, the last a pleasing addition to the enjoyable visit. One thing in particular that was striking was the fact that everything in the entire factory was scrupulously clean.

The second place we visited was the Globe A-1 Flour Mills, a very beautiful steel and concrete building with well-lighted and convenient offices. After resting a little we were introduced to the chemist. The first question which presented itself was: Why have a chemist in a flour mill? This was soon made perfectly clear when we were told that the wheat was of different grades, the very soft wheat making a poor flour and the extremely hard wheat making the very best quality of flour. This can be determined only by chemical tests. Such a test as this is made on every car load of wheat brought into the mill. We were shown now the wheat is cleaned, tempered with water, passed through rollers, bolted through silk cloth to remove the bran, and again through the bolting process and so on until all of the center portion is separated from the shorts and bran. Just before leaving the mill we were taken to the chemical laboratory, where we watched the chemist make his test by baking a loaf of bread for a sample of the last car load of wheat received.

(By GWENDOLYN MILLER)

The last place visited was Bradford's Baking Company. After watching the flour made in the Globe A-1 Mills we saw it quickly converted into bread at the rate of 3000 loaves per day.

We were met at the door by the head baker. He showed us how the flour was first sifted, thoroughly blended, by mixing several kinds together in order to get the right color and quality of bread. The sponge, flour and other ingredients were taken from large containers dumped in to an enormous mixer which holds 1200 pounds at one mix, and in three minutes' time was turned out into the dough trough thoroughly mixed.

From there it was taken to the loaf-making machine, which made it into finished loaves. It then entered the eighty-foot oven on a traveling floor, and in thirty minutes came out at the other end baked. A conveyor carried it to the shipping room, where it was wrapped by machinery, ready for the market.

We were given all the cookies and doughnuts we could eat, and each took a loaf of bread as a souvenir from the Bradford Baking Company and started for home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson Curtiss of North Arlington spent the week-end visiting in Pasadena at the home of Mr. Frank Connell of the Dominguez Land Office.

PLANS ARE BEING MADE FOR LOCAL DELEGATION TO ATTEND CONVENTION

The thirty-fourth annual convention of the California Christian Endeavor Union is to be held this year at Glendale, near Los Angeles, June 25-29. Local Endeavors are showing much interest in the convention this year owing to the fact that the state union is in a race with the Ohio Union to see which can register the largest attendance.

In order to promote interest throughout the state a flag race is being conducted which has created considerable excitement. The union reaching its quota first has been awarded Flag No. 1, and succeeding unions succeeding flags. Nine flags have already been awarded and other counties are scrambling to secure positions as close to the front as possible. Position in the Honor Parade and seats in the auditorium are to be assigned according to standing.

All Endeavors or friends who are planning to go to the convention are urged to get the blanks from any of the Endeavors and register now and help Los Angeles County C. E. union to be among the first in line in the parade. For those who cannot go to the convention, pre-registration will entitle them to a program and badge which will be mailed later.

The auditorium is already up and being used at present for the John Brown evangelistic party, which is now holding meetings in Glendale. This auditorium will be enlarged to meet the needs of the convention. When finally delivered to the convention it will be the largest auditorium ever used for a state convention with the exception of the San Diego Stadium in 1915.

"Glen and Dale," the Spanish twins, are patiently waiting to greet the Endeavors in their city and the convention committee with Howard L. Brown, a former State president whom many local Endeavors know, is hard at work and will soon have everything in readiness.

A splendid program is being prepared and already three speakers of national reputation have been secured. Rev. Ira Landrith, L.L.D., Texan-Tennessean, author in 1911 winning slogan: "A saloonless nation in 1920," who for twenty years has been among the nation's foremost fighters for civic righteousness, is one of the speakers. As a member of the Flying Squadron of America he spoke in 1914-15 in every state capital and 300 other cities. He has for eleven years been a college president. He is a writer, journalist and statesman.

Dr. A. L. Shelton, M. D., is another speaker. He is in this country recuperating from the thrilling experience of being captured by brigands in Tibet, in whose hands he was for seventy-one days. He penetrated into the land further than anyone had hitherto, and he tells vividly of his experience.

Dr. Courtland Myers, pastor of the Tremont Temple Baptist church of Boston, will be at the convention for the opening night. He is a man with a passion for souls and possesses a wonderfully fascinating personality as well as being a great orator. The Endeavors are fortunate in securing him.

The decision as to the convention are to be given by Mrs. Fanny Marple Retts, a soloist of note in Los Angeles.

Otis Ironmonger, well known to former convention goers, is to have charge of the chorus and will do some solo work.

A sunrise service on the hills Sunday morning will be a feature this year. A "Victory Circle" similar to those held at the summer conference at Mt. Hermon is to be another attractive feature this year. Strong denominational conferences are to be in charge of denominational leaders.

Many of the old time favorites will also be on the program.

MASONIC ORPHANS WILL HAVE CATALINA OUTING

Children of the Masonic Orphan Home at Covina were given a two-day outing at Catalina Friday and Saturday as the guests of resident and visiting Masons of the Magic Isle.

The entire island is to be turned over to delight the kiddies with a program of fun mapped out by the local committee in charge.

A special car took the children from Covina to the Catalina Terminal at Wilmington, where the Avalon was boarded. Superintendent E. B. Spencer of the Covina Home was in charge of the children during the outing.

FARM POULTRY

AIM FOR HEALTH AND VIGOR

Appearance and Action Taken Together Are Fairly Reliable Guide for Selection.

Only by continuous selection for health and vigor is it possible to build up a flock that will produce fertile eggs, strong chicks capable of making quick growth, and pullets with sufficient stamina to withstand the strain of heavy egg production. The appearance of a bird is not always a sure indication of its vigor, but appearance and action taken together are a fairly reliable guide for picking out vigorous birds, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The comb, face, and wattles should have a good, bright color; the eyes should be bright and fairly prominent, and the head should be comparatively broad and short, having a fairly short, well-curved beak and showing no tendency to be long "snaky" or "crow-headed."

The bird should be alert and have a strong, vigorous carriage; the legs should be set well apart and strongly support the body, giving no indication of weakness or a knock-kneed condition. The bone, as seen in the shank, should be strong and not too fine for the breed, while the toes should be strong, straight, and not too long. The plumage should be clean and smooth, as a lack of condition often accompanies soiled, roughened plumage. The condition of flesh should be good, as a very thin bird is usually in poor health. Sick fowls, or fowls that have apparently recovered from sickness, should never be used for breeding if it can be avoided.

FEEDS FOR GROWING CHICKS

In Addition to Grains Growth of Young Fowl Can Be Hastened by Supplying Milk.

As soon as chickens will eat whole wheat, cracked corn, and other grains, the small-sized chick feed can be eliminated. In addition to the above feeds the chickens' growth can be hastened if they are given sour milk, skim milk, or buttermilk to drink.

Growing chickens kept on a good range may be given all their feed in a hopper, mixing two parts by weight of cracked corn with one part of wheat, or equal parts of cracked corn, wheat and oats in one hopper, and the dry mash in another. The beef scrap may be left out of the dry mash and fed in a separate hopper, so that the chickens can eat all of this feed they desire. If the beef scrap is to be fed separately it is advisable to wait until the chicks are 10 days old, the poultry division of the United States Department of Agriculture advises, although many poultrymen put the beef scrap before the young chickens at the start without bad results.

Chickens confined to small yards should always be supplied with green feed. Fine charcoal, grit and oyster shell should be kept before the chickens at all times, and cracked or ground bone may be fed where the chickens are kept in small, bare yards, but the latter feed is not necessary for chickens that have a good range.

LOSSES FROM FERTILE EGGS

The following table, compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows that the losses of fertile eggs are computed to be nearly twice as great as of infertile eggs:

	Fertile Eggs	Infertile Eggs
On the farm.....	29.0	15.5
At country store.....	7.1	4.0
Transportation to packing house.....	6.4	4.7
Total.....	42.5	24.2

LOCATION FOR BROOD COOPS

Should Be Placed on Spot Where Grass Is Green and Tender and Removed Frequently.

Brood coops with runs should be placed on ground where the grass is green and tender, and, as fast as it is eaten off, the coop and run should be moved to a place where the grass is plentiful, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.
