WEDDING BELLS

The wedding of Frank Steinhilber of Torrance and Miss Marjorie Chewning of Venice was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother at Venice last Thursday evening, July 14. The entire setting for the wedding was very pretty and impressive, as the bridal party descended the stairs to the strains of the Wedding March and stood at their stations under the canopy of green, where their vows were pledged before an altar of greenery and blossoms, which tall white candles shed a soft light.

The beautiful service was read by the Rev. Shelton Dissell, while Mrs. Converse Wurdeman sang. Mrs. Frank Prior presiding at the piano. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Wallace Chewning, wore a frock of white silk, her veil being fastened with lilies of the valley, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bride's sister, Miss Helen Chewning, and Miss Carmen Melnott acted as maids of honor and were gowned in dainty organdie and carried pink sweet peas. TAX PENALTIES NET MILLIONS TO TREASURY

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Approximately $60,000,000 was added to the revenue of the government during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, in additional taxes, penalties and fines resulting from false and fraudulent income tax returns, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today.

Fraud upon the revenue by way of filing false and fraudulent tax returns appears in many unique ways, bureau officials assert. Some taxpayers are extremely crude in their methods, and reduce their taxes by merely omitting large items of income from their returns. Thus in one instance a prominent merchant in one of the larger cities owned and operated two stores. For three years straight he omitted entirely from his returns the income of one of the stores.

In another instance a prominent man received approximately one-half of his income as salary from a corporation of which he was president, and of which corporation he owned virtually all of the stock. The corporation took this salary as a deduction and a necessary expense; the man himself entirely omitted to report this salary, never thinking that the corporation's return would be checked on his individual returns.

During the last year many jail sentences have been imposed, ranging from sixty days to one year, in addition to the fines and penalties. Indictments have been returned during the last year in virtually every section of the United States, and many of the cases are now awaiting trial at the fall term.

FISHERMEN AND PACKERS AT HARBOR STILL DEADLOCKED OVER ALBACORE

As a result of a deadlock between the Japanese Fishermen's Association and the organized albacore packers, all canneries except those operated on an independent plan will probably be closed for the season at San Pedro, it was stated recently by one of the leading tuna canners.

The controversy arose when the Japanese fishermen accepted the canners' price of $125 per ton, but balked at the proposed payment and delivery conditions. The canners offered the fishermen $125 per ton for albacore upon the guarantee that none would be sold at a lower price to independent canneries, with the provision that $100 be paid upon delivery and the remaining $25 held back to secure the carrying out of the agreement.

In answer to the packers' demand the Japanese purse-seiners sold this week's catch of albacore to an independent Long Beach concern. Although it is probable that the independents will be able to handle sufficient fish to keep the Orientals in rice and fuel, the Japanese will be unable to operate at a profit unless some agreement is reached with the organized canners.

The blue-fish situation is acute, no fish coming in at the $50 per ton price offered by the canners' association. Asserting that they are unable to operate at a profit at that price, many purse-seine operators are leaving for the north to engage in salmon fishing.

The same situation obtains at San Diego, according to dispatches from the southern port, with the organized canners unable to come to an agreement with the Italian and Austrian fishermen.

ONLY ONE MOTHER

Mrs. S. F. Webb of Santa Cruz, California, a composer of verse and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Butler of North Arlington, has contributed the following to the Lomita "News Letter":

We can only have one mother, Patient, kind and true, No other friend in all this world Will be so true to you; For all her loving kindness She asks nothing in return; If all the world desert you, To mother you can turn.

Many tears you've caused her When you were sad or ill, Maybe many sleepless nights, Though grown, you cause her still, So every time you leave her, Or whenever you come or go, Give her a kind word and a kiss, 'Tis what she craves I know.

We can only have one mother, None else can take her place; You can't tell how you'll need her Till you miss her loving face. Be careful how you answer how, Choose every word you say; Remember she's your mother. Though now she's old and gray.

We can only have one mother, O, take her to your heart; You cannot tell how soon the time When you and she must part. Let her know you love her dearly, Cheer and comfort her each day, You can never get another When she has passed away.

DESPITE DEBT, HUGE SUM IS PAID BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Despite Great Britain's debt of $4,500,000,000 to this country, payment of $32,688,352 has been made by the American government to the British Ministry of Shipping in settlement of a claim against the War Department, treasury officials said today. The payment was made, officials added, pursuant to an opinion by Attorney-General Daugherty.

The British claim was for transportation services arising out of the war with Germany, and the payment, it was explained, constitutes final settlement between the War Department and the British Ministry of Shipping of all claims of either party against the other for transportation services.

Secretary Mellon asked Mr. Daugherty for a ruling as to whether the act of March 3, 1837, which requires the secretary to withhold the payment of any judgment against the United States where the claimant is indebted to this country in any manner, applied to such claim.

Mr. Daugherty held the act did not apply, as it was not the practice of sovereign nations to prosecute their claims against one another in the courts and obtain judgment, but adjust such matters through diplomatic channels.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

A VOICE IN THE NIGHT

I am going to tell you about a little boy whose name was Freddie. He reminds you perhaps of the little boy who was given to the Lord and He ministered to him in the Temple when only a child. One night the Lord spoke to him and even called the third time. I wonder if my little friends can tell me what his name was.

Freddie had been very ill, but was convalescing. One night his mother heard him tossing restlessly in his little bed, and she called to him and said: What's the matter, Freddie? Are you sick? No, ma'ma. Do you want some water? No, ma'ma. Do you want me to come and lie beside you? Yes, ma'ma. So she went to him and said: What is the matter with my darling? O, ma'ma, I'm afraid I'm not good enough to go to heaven when I die. Well, how long do you think it would take God to make you good enough? Right now, if I just knew how to ask Him. So the mother told him to ask God to please give him a new heart—a clean heart—so that he would be made fit to live with Him. Ask it in Jesus' name and for His sake, because He bought you with His precious blood on Calvary's cross, and you are His if you will accept Him.

So Freddie got on his knees and buried his face in his hands on his pillow and began to pray. The mother prayed, too. She asked God to hear the plea of her dear child and save him now for Jesus' sake. She felt a change. The same moment Freddie turned on his pillow and said: He does hear now, and He forgives all of my sins and saves me now. To test his faith she said, Do you want to go and tell father? He immediately said yes.

In the dark he found his way to his father's bed and called to him and said: Papa, God has forgiven all of my sins, and given me a new heart, and his little voice rang with gladness, and he felt the kisses of his father and the encouragement of his words, and he went back to his bed a happy little boy. He was only nine years old, but he knew the Lord, for He called him in the night with no mistake, though a silent voice.

The next day he was very happy to tell to all that Jesus had saved him, and he lived to prove it in many ways during the next four years. Then the Lord was pleased to take him home to the beautiful place he so much loved to talk about.

Once he was on the playground at school and a little boy was passing on his way home with a bucket of cold scraps from people who were accustomed to save for him, for his mother was very poor and Jim was too little to help her only by asking for cold vittles, etc. The school boys always shouted at him and called him bad names, and he would swear at them like a trooper. One morning at recess he was coming and the shouting began and stones were thrown at him, and he returned the fire, setting down his bucket. Freddie walked up and took the bucket and said: Come on, Jim, I'll take you through the mob. So he did, for all the boys loved Freddie, and not another stone was thrown, and Jim turned the corner in safety. About six months later the Lord called him away, for He had need of him, while his body lay in a beautiful casket covered with flowers. Jim came with some wild flowers gathered from the field, and handing them to the mother said: I give these to Freddie. He was always good to me. And the mother wept silently and was comforted. "A little child shall lead them."

AUNT HANNAH.

She was a sweet little thing with a terban hat and a confiding smile, and she caught the snake editor with the following conundrum before he had the fire built: "Can you tell me," she inquired, "why a summer resort in the winter is like heaven?" And as he had to pass it up, she told him, with the same confiding smile, "because there is not a damned soul there," then vanished like an iridescent dream.
