A GOOD BUSINESS MAN

knows how a good cigar facilitates action and "get together-ism." That's why so many of them keep a box of La Confession cigars in the top drawer of his desk, both for his own use and for that of visitors with whom he wants to do business. The hospitality is not expensive either. A box of La Confession cigars will set you back surprisingly little.

TORRANCE

(By Mrs. Pauline Harris, Vista Highlands)

Folks, day by day I see myself smiling

At the thoughts of how Torrance is climbing;

I have traveled in the world a lot, you know,

But I have never seen a town so quickly grow.

Two years ago when I arrived here I hesitated before investing my money,

But I took a chance and believe me, honey,

I am sure glad, now I am full of cheer.

I am from the sunny south,

Isn't it strange that I took this route?

So far away from my loved ones.

But I am here to stay, Torrance is my home.

God must have sent me here, I'll say;

I watch silently day by day

How Torrance is growing, I am glad and happy, too.

For in this town you can't be blue.

In my childhood I wondered in dreams,

If I would ever see the Golden State.

Now I am here, I am glad to relate,

But I'll be happy in Torrance it seems.

I expect to stay till my hair is silver gray;

You do as I did and come to Torrance to stay.

You'll not regret it if you do.

For Torrance is in the land of the old Red, White and Blue.

CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT BILLIONS

By CARSON C. HATHAWAY.

The appropriation bills of the United States involve sums that stagger the imagination. In 1920 Congress set aside $6,454,596,649.56 to meet our expenses.

It would take a man earning $10 a day, working 365 days in the year, something over 1,700,000 years to earn this amount. The interest on the principal for one year, at 6 per cent, would be over $387,000,000. If the amount appropriated were to be converted into dollar bills, and the bills placed end to end, it would make a green ribbon stretching around the world over thirty times.

Most of our money provides for the payment of past wars and the preparation for possible future conflicts. But Uncle Sam has a large family and money must be provided for many strange purposes. To improve the birthplace of Geo. Washington at Wakefield, Virginia, cost $100; to care for the Washington Monument, $15,000; to maintain the National Zoo, $115,000; to repair the building where Lincoln died, $200.

Our international importance is reflected in our contribution of $1,045 toward meeting the expenses of the Peace Palace at The Hague. To help repress the African slave trade cost $125; to rent a prison for American convicts in Smyrna, Turkey, $1,000.

The Eighteenth Amendment is not the only law that requires money to enforce. It was necessary to appropriate $325,000 to suppress counterfeiting, and $750,000 to restrict the sale of opium.

Our interest in science is shown in an appropriation of $1400 to observe an eclipse of the sun in Bolivia. Perhaps an item of $2000 to buy an oil portrait of Champ Clark, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, shows our interest in art, some insist.

The United States is undoubtedly in the best financial condition of any great world-power. With an estimated wealth of $240,000,000,000, our national debt is $24,000,000,000, or one-tenth of that amount. England's national debt is said to equal over half of all her resources. It will cost France over $2,000,000,000 yearly to pay simply the interest on her debt. A distinguished United States Senator remarked in the course of a debate, not long ago, that the world will continue to be in debt for money spent in the World War until the end of all time.
