Getty Builds Derrick

George F Getty is building a rig on the northwest corner of Ivy and Carson, directly west of the U. S. Royalties gusher. Offsetting the producer on the north, Fred B. Foster, the well known Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill operator, has located a well, lumber for which was handed Weelnesday.

South of Carson street and just west of Ivy the Petroleum Midway has staked out a location for its Stock Community No. 1. This in turn will be offset by Torrance 25 of the Chanslor Canfield Midway Oil company. These two rigs are not yet under construction, but both locations have been staked out and construction will start immediately. The U. S. Royalties well surprised the entire industry with its first day's production, and although it

Before reaching the formation the Union drilled through a thick layer of hard shell, duplicating the experience of the Shell company, but at a lower level. The Union well is being drilled ahead at around 5300 feet.

Standard's deep test well, Felker No. 1, is still encountering water trouble. The second shutoff with a combination string was unsuccessful. The crew is waiting for orders from San Francisco before recementing.

The Shell company's Redondo No. 1 was given a water shutoff O.K. this week. Although this well, which is near Redondo, was drilled to 4942 feet, the hole was mudded up and production will be attempted from 3700 feet.

PAXMAN STORE IS EXPANDING: SPACE LEASED

Stock Is Being Moved Into the Old Levy PRODUCTION BY 2200 BARRELS

Keeping abreast with the growth of Torrance and the accompanying growth in business, Paxman's Hardware company next week will offer improved merchandising facilities to the public. Mr. Paxman has leased the store next door to his present location on El Prado street and will utilize both stores in the future. The store, into which stock is being moved this week, was formerly occupied by Levy's Smart Shoppe. Mr. Paxman asserts that his growing business requires more floor space and that the additional space will greatly improve the service available to buyers of hardware. Taken By Death

Belle McCord Roberts Holds Unique Position in California Journalism as Courageous Publisher

Miss Belle McCord Roberts, president and editor of the Long Beach dent and editor of the Copen Forum in American Legion hall, according to an announcement made by Harry F. Gadeky, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Roberts is nationally known as the only woman publisher of a metropolitan newspaper in the United States. She is a woman of exceptional intellect, combining unusual business acumen with keen knowledge of current national and international problems.

As an editor Miss Roberts stands pre-eminently in these days when newspapers seem to be sacrificing personality for standardization. Independent of influences that reflect themselves in as many modern dailies, the Telegram, under Miss Roberts direction, holds a unique position for individuality in California. It is regarded by publishers as proof that editorial courage and journalistic independence will reward the publisher who has the backbone to conduct his paper according to his honest convictions. Torrance is fortunate in being able to induce Miss Roberts to speak here.

Congressman Fredericks was scheduled to speak, but was compelled to cancel the engagement, promising to speak here at the Forum meeting in November.
