OIL OR HOMES-WHICH?

Sthere is certainty of crude oil in commercial quantities must decide whether drilling will tion now is only stirring up unnecessary con-troversy. Temporary evading of the issue will do nobody any good—and the question must be answered sometime, anyway. At present residents of Torrance are divided on the question. Such a division is natural. on the question. Such a division is natural. But it does not necessarily follow that any movement to ascertain which side is in the majority would be destructive to the welfare of Torrance.

THIS country is built upon the fairness of majority rule. In every issue of import the weight of numbers must swing the bal-ance. The rule holds good for this matter of drilling for oil inside the "tree rows" of Torrance.

At present drilling is prohibited by the dec laration of the Dominguez Land corporation. But it is prohibited only until January 1, 1925. Oil men are said to be endeavoring to lease land in the residence district subject to the terms of the Dominguez declaration. They do so at their own risk.

But their attempts to lease bring the issue squarely up to Torranec for decision.

THERE is no question but what the present city zoning law prohibits drilling in the residence district—but there is question as to the validity of the zoning ordinance. Cali-fornia's supreme court has not passed upon the constitutionality of zoning ordinances. Torrance's zoning ordinance imght not stand the test before the static's biot scored. the test before the state's high court. So there is agitation for another ordinance specifically prohibiting drilling in the city.

We believe that any such ordinance should be thoroughly discussed by the people before passed by the trustees. For the people will ultimately settle the issues anyway.

ET'S assume that a specific ordinance is passed. After that what? If the majority of people still want drilling they will have it. If the majority rules the other way there will be no drilling. Initiative petitions are easily circulated and special elections on initiated measures easily held.

We believe that Torrance should vote on the matter at a special election—as soon as possible—perhaps at the same election held for the purpose of passing on the Western avenue paving bonds and city lighting bonds. ...

F the majority of people in Torrance are I ultimately going to vote oil derricks into the city, it might be foolhardy to spend $75,000 for the purpose of lighting the streets. If the oil derricks are going to be prohibited eventually by popular vote, the lights, by all means, should be installed.

THERE are almost as many men on the Tor-rance payroll as there are people in the city. Those men eventually are going to live in Torrance. Economic necessity dictates that men live near their jobs. Investors who come here for the purpose of building homes in Torrance shy away when they learn that there is a possibility of encroachment of oil wells into the residence district.

This condition argues eloquently for an early settlement of the oil drilling question in the city.

If Torrance should vote to keep the oil wells out scores of home would immediately be built and landowners in the city would benefit as much from increased property values as they would, on the other hand, from oil. If Torrance, on the contrary, should vote to let the oil wells in, the decision is made, conditions would be changed little and Torrance would grow in whatever direction there is no oil-as eventually indicated by future bune. wildcatting.
