OBSERVATIONS

I always think of as the domain of manners. To me, manners in this broad sense signifies the doing that which you should do although you are not obliged to do it. I do not wish to call morals for the same reason. It might include both, but it extends beyond them. It covers all cases of right doing where there is no one to make you do it but yourself.

The dangers that threaten the maintenance of the domain of manners arise from its situation between the region of absolute choice and the region of positive law. There are countless supporters of the movements to enlarge the sphere of positive law. In many countries—especially in the younger nations—there is a tendency to make laws to regulate everything. On the other hand, there is a growing tendency to treat matters that are not regulated by positive law as being matters of absolute choice. Both these movements are encroachments on the middle land, and to my mind the real greatness of a nation, its true civilization, is measured by the extent of this land of obedience to the unenforceable.

C.-C. M. O. Gets 5 Runs in Ninth To Grab Game

Oilers Down Glendale Crew by Batting Rally in Last Inning

The Chanslor-Capfield Midway Oil nine downed the fast Glendale White Sox in a hard-fought and exciting game of ball on the Glendale diamond Sunday. The score was 9 to 8. Rounding into the ninth frame with a four-run lead to overcome, Eddie Copeland's proteges showed their fighting spirit by clouting the ball for six clean bingles which netted them five earned runs and the game. Hoffacker, who had pitched in big league style all through the contest, set the hard-hitting Glendale batters down in order in their half of the closing stanza, and the game was over.

Although allowing the professionals 13 hits, Hoffacker was able to keep them well scattered, and only three of the eight runs chalked up against him were earned. Elmer Reiger, the veteran hurler, pitched the usual brand of class A ball, but was unable to stop the onslaught of the Copeland crew, who garnered 17 hits off his offerings, which gave them their well earned nine runs. Hoffacker not only started on the mound against the clouting White Sox, but showed that he could hit as well. He collected three safeties out of five trips to the plate, his wallop in the ninth driving in the two runs which the Oilers used to overcome in their half.

Carl Sawyer forgot to entertain the crowd yesterday with his comedy stunts and was seen to be directing practically every play from his position at second base. No doubt he thought it unnecessary for the crowd was certainly deserving of unusual credit for their fine showing in winning this game.

The Oilers will travel over to give battle to the fast Inglewood club next Sunday. The Inglewood team is leading the Bay District League, and this should stand out as the nature game in next Sunday's list of bouts.

RADIO FOR EVERYBODY

By E. F. DE BRA

Before beginning a discussion of receiving sets in general, it will be interesting to look a little more closely into just what takes place at the broadcasting station. The studio in which the various artists perform is especially arranged. The walls are covered with a thick padding of material which prevents any echo or reverberation. The room itself has nothing to suggest that it is more than just a private music room. Even the microphone which picks up the sound is concealed within a beautiful floor lamp. Everything is done to make the artists feel at ease.

The room in which the huge transmitter is located is quite a different place. Here we have the powerful apparatus which converts the sound, produced in the studio, into pulsing ether waves, hurling them, it may be, half way around the earth. Huge vacuum tubes, the big brothers of the hum of the generator, set glow steadily as they do their work of generating the marvelous "carrier waves." A high voltage generator hums away as it supplies the tubes with the necessary current. An operator is always on duty with a special receiving set, listening for possible S O S or distress call from some ship at sea, in which case the broadcasting station must close down at once until other vessels be directed to the rescue by one of the great coastal wireless stations.

Despite the fact that within the electrical circuits of the broadcasting transmitter the song of the artist has been amplified many thousands of times, there is no hint of what is going on to the observer, for outside of the hum of the generator, there is no sound. This tremendous energy is passing out into space silently, bearing the voice of the singer, not as sound, but as an intrinsic part of the waves themselves. Perhaps in some lonely cabin in the far north, or on some ship far out at sea, a receiving set will be tuned to these waves and the voice of the singer will be there as clearly and as truly as it comes to us who live here perhaps but a few miles from the studio. Is not this the most wonderful of the many gifts of Science?

C. H. H. asks: I get all the Los Angeles stations on my set O. K. but can't get the Long Beach station. What can I do to get this station?

Answer.—Try shortening your aerial to about 75 feet, or insert a 00025 MF. condenser in your aerial lead.

Union Tool Co. Prepares Fine Oil Pamphlet

Eighty-Page Book Written by Edward Timbs Describes Operations

The Union Tool Company has ready for distribution an 80-page pamphlet from Diesel and Oil Engineering Hand Book. Under the title "Development of the Oil Well" Edward Timbs, district engineer of the company, has produced a treatise of much interest and value. Starting with the historical background of the petroleum industry, Mr. Timbs leads the reader over the various phases of advancement until the subject of the modern rotary or cable tool well is reached. These two methods of drilling are gone into in a practical and thorough manner and leaves the reader with a clear idea of the operation of the modern oil well.

As a hand reference booklet this publication will undoubtedly be in demand, not only by oil men but by those not actively connected with the industry in search of up-to-date information. It is profusely illustrated, printed on good stock and well bound. Application to the Union Tool Company should be made by those desiring copies.

Lomita Barber Held in Death Of L. B. Woman

Glenn Day Faces Manslaughter Charge After Fatal Auto Accident

Arrested after a 72-hour hunt by Long Beach detective Glenn Day, a Lomita barber, is in the Long Beach jail awaiting hearing on August 28 on two felony charges which were lodged against him after the death of Miss Emily Tyrell, who was struck by a car while driving. Police assert that after Day struck the woman he continued on his way. The Lomita man is charged with manslaughter and falling to halt to aid an accident victim.

The complaints were sworn to by George O. Tyrell of Alhambra. Bail on each charge was set at $5000 cash, which the prisoner was unable to advance.

Day was arrested by Sergt. J. P. Davidson and Officer Marshall Erb. While noting the name Glenn Day and the fact that he intended to trade in his car as clogs, the officers worked day and night hunting for an auto which would appear to have been in an accident.

Every sales agency from Santa Monica east to Long Beach was visited and in the H. O. Melome agency in Long Beach Day's machine was found.

Day's address was obtained, and at Lomita he was taken into custody late Thursday. His confession, police say, followed shortly afterward.

With Day at the time of the accident were three young women, whose names the police are withholding.

Day stated that he halted after the accident occurred, saw Miss Tyrell prostrate upon the street, and beside her Miss Pauline Randall, school teacher of Cleveland, O., with whom the local woman was walking, and, after asking a spectator to call an ambulance, jumped into his machine and drove to his home in Lomita.

He was so badly frightened, he declared, that he feared to report the accident to the police. Miss Tyrell died 18 hours later, while Miss Randall, who suffered severe nerve shock and numerous bruises when knocked down by the Day machine, was confined to her bed at the home of her late friend for two days.

Dear Editor: The People's column is not used of late, but things are going on and comments made elsewhere, just the same. Allow me space to mention briefly a splendid work going on especially for the help of Torrance and Lomita people in a little tent on El Prado and Craven's avenue, Torrance, about the wonder is why more church people don't come out to help the meetings, as they are working in the interest of all the churches.

All of us may differ with them in some of their methods, but no one can say the services are not bright, clean, and teaching only the Bible truths. The little band of workers are from Mrs. McPherson's Angelus temple in Los Angeles, some of whom were healed soul and body there, and they have brought the same healing power to many here, who have testified as much. The leader, Dr. Gale, D. D., has been a Christian worker many years, traveling over the United States and in foreign lands, with wonderful experiences, and is a gifted speaker. All are well worth hearing. Christianity is the only foundation to build on, and Torrance needs more of it right now.

Come and prove the interest you should feel. A READER.

Dominguez to Donate Strip For Highway

Will Deed 100-Foot Ribbon for Extension of Redondo Boulevard

The Dominguez Land Corporation is ready to deed to the city of Torrance the land necessary for the extension of Redondo boulevard to Madrona avenue, making a direct route through North Torrance to Redondo. The strip which the company will donate will be 100 feet wide. In the 4070 tract the street now is 108 feet wide, and the company requests that the city deed back to the company four feet on each side of this highway in return for the deed to the land needed for the extension. The trustees last night voted to accept the proposal.

When the deeds are transferred an attempt will be made to secure from the Pacific Electric railway an easement over their tracks on Redondo boulevard so that the street may be paved 100 feet wide from Border to Madrona avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moran left last night for a vacation in Ensenada, Mexico.
