Prenuptial Shower For Miss Dupree

A delightful affair was the pre-nuptial shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Tonkin of Flower street in honor of Miss Anna Dupree and the host's brother, Jack Tonkin.

A feature of the evening was a mock wedding, when bride and groom-elect stood in a bower of palm leaves with the bridal bell suspended above their heads. The bell was a dinner bell formerly used by Mrs. Tonkin's great-grandfather.

The many gifts were unwrapped by the guests of honor and displayed, and dancing and cards followed.

TORRANCE HIGH SCHOOL

(Written by Pupils of the Class of Journalism)

The Marine League meeting was held at the Excelsior High School on Wednesday, Sept. 30. The constitution was adopted and officers were elected as follows: Principal Herbert S. Wood, president; Coach Mitchell, vice-president; Coach Muller of Downey, treasurer. The secretary will be appointed by the president. It was voted to have two officials at every game, referee and head linesman, instead of the usual three. Members of the Marine League are Excelsior, Torrance, Gardena, Narbonne, Lomita, Wilmington, Downey, and Avalon High Schools.

The Chamber of Commerce has donated $300 for football equipment. This is greatly appreciated for it shows that someone is interested in the boys and are seeing to it that they will not have to worry over the lack of football tuggery. The entire student body takes this opportunity to thank the business men of Torrance for this new evidence of their interest in us.

At a very interesting and well held Thursday morning many items of business were brought for discussion. We learned that a larger percent of students belong to A. S. B. than ever before. Torrance is very proud of their Student Body president, Harold Romine. He is doing some wonderful work.

The election held in the hall Friday noon, Oct. 9, was an exciting one. The polls started at 12:30 and the polls opened and continued throughout the noon periods. Many paid their Student Body dues the last minute so that they could vote. Following are the election results: Oral and art activities, Emerson Le. Green; editor-in-chief, Kathryn Watson; yell leader, Leonard Babcock; assistant yell leader, Harry Phillips.

A new and interesting feature in this school term is the debating league. A group of representatives from the different schools met at the Excelsior High School on Wednesday to organize the league. Torrance and Gardena were chosen as a committee to draw up the constitution and present it for approval at the next meeting. Downey and Excelsior of Norwalk will draw up the by-laws.

A number of the frequent visitors to the camp are especially interested in fishing, and two set-lines are put out each Saturday afternoon. Tests were passed last Tuesday for local scouts, and the next test-passing opportunity will be one week from next Tuesday, Oct. 27. All local troop meetings are held on Friday evenings: Troop No. 2 at the Christian Church, Troop No. 3 at the Methodist Church, and Troop No. 4 at the Evangelical Church.

Many Good Acts Seen at Local Playhouse

Amateur Night at the Torrance Theatre means a "full house" every Friday evening.

In addition to the excellent picture "One Night in Rome," featuring Laurette Taylor and Tom Moore, seven acts of vaudeville were presented last Friday night.

A charming little miss gave an exhibition of toe dancing that a professional might be proud of; a song and dance act by three young ladies was full of harmony and grace; and a local trio presented an exceptionally good musical act. Two other groups presented songs and dances, which included an Apache dance.

Worthy of particular mention is the gentleman of color who rendered vocal selections in a very pleasing voice and closed his performance with a strenuous exhibition of the Charleston.

And yet the performance was marred because of the utter vulgarity of the concluding number, presented by a young man of charming personality and excellent voice.

One knows that songs and acts of suggestive character may be a part of a burlesque show, or even in a theatre that caters to transients. One certainly does not expect to be affronted in a theatre by such poor taste on the part of even one actor.

AFFAIRS of the HEART

By Mrs. Thompson

The problem of the eternal triangle is always with us. It is difficult to give wise advice in cases like this.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am an exemplary wife, even if I do say so myself. No one has ever had cause to talk about me. I am the mother of two daughters and am respected in my neighborhood. Another woman has come into my husband's life. When I discovered that my husband was taking her places they should not go in our car, I went to his mother, and the two of us told the girl's father about it. The girl was turned out by her father. Then she came to me, furiously, and almost begged me. But this did not end the matter; it only made it worse. My husband went to the defense of the girl, and threatened to beat me. Now he is giving her money to support herself, because she has no home. Of course, I couldn't stand this. I went home to my father, my mother being dead. The folks at home persuaded me to come back to my husband, because of the disgrace. They didn't think of me. I came back, although I knew life with my husband would be hell. I know now that he does not care for me in the least, and is still going about with this girl, often staying away all night. I wouldn't go on at all, if it wasn't for the children. My husband blames his mother for the trouble, and curses her when he talks of her to me, or to others. I feel so sorry for her, because she is only trying to do the right thing. Last night I told him, when he came in after midnight, that I didn't want to leave him, and felt sure that he was not in his right mind, but that I'd leave him go his way if only he would promise to provide money to rear his children. He cursed me and told me that he'd let me starve if I ever left him. I don't know what to do. Please advise me. I had to abbreviate your letter in order to accommodate it in my space. Your husband owes you and your children a living, and you can force him under the law to provide it, so do not be intimidated by his threats. I would not give up the ship just yet. Perhaps this madness of his will soon wear off—such affairs soon do wither, if they are not opposed. It probably would have been ended by now, if you had not left him the first time. You seem to love him; wait a little longer for him to come to himself. If a few months do not solve your problem, then sue him for a divorce. Think of yourself as well as the children. You certainly aren't acting in their best interests if you continue to keep them in such an atmosphere.

Apparently there is nothing wrong with you except—and this is only a perhaps, mind you—you may lack that magnetism which some people possess which naturally draws friends. The painful little effort you made—or was it a big one?—to be cordial failed because it lacked heart back of it. In other words, you were being cordial because you want people to like you and not at all because you were deeply interested in people. That is the real secret of popularity. To be so interested in people from the inside out sincerely, that they will warm to the glow of it and come to you to bask in it.

WONDERING: Showers are usually given before the wedding. Give her a present, something for their home, and then arrange some sort of party for them, if you like. This time of the year, a picnic or a bathing party with a "wreath roast" on the beach, would be appropriate. There will be need to issue invitations in either case. The telephone, or informal notes, are used in arranging all but the most formal affairs, these days.

V. S.: I would like to oblige you, but my space is too limited to go into the matter in detail. However, you can obtain all of the information you desire from either the Vogue or Emily Post books on etiquette. Both are available in libraries.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Hardy of Fresno are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bowen of Marcella avenue.
