Serial Picture, 'Green Archer,' Opens Saturday

First Episode in New Film Screened This Week at Torrance

Pathe's newest chapter play, "The Green Archer," featuring that popular team of serial stars, Allene Ray and Walter Miller, has been booked for the Torrance Theatre, where the first episode will be shown Saturday. It is an adaptation of Edgar Wallace's great mystery novel of the same title, and centers around the strange character of Abel Bellamy, a self-made man who crowns his career by building an exact replica of an ancient English castle and entrenching himself behind its great gray walls—safe, he thinks, from the various people storming his double-barred gates seeking vengeance.

But there is one who passes like magic through the barricade—to whom locks and bolts and barriers are as though they didn't exist. And that is the Green Archer. Some think him a ghost. Others with less imagination think him of flesh and blood. Old Bellamy laughs at the Green Archer—while his wicked old heart trembles. A flash of green in the night light, a ghastly white thing that answers for a face, an arrow drawn from a long bow—carrying a message of warning to come—carrying instant death to the Green Archer's enemies.

Who is the Green Archer? Is it man or woman in the flesh—or a ghost from the spirit world? Who are its enemies, and why? What does it seek? Is it beautiful Valerie Howett, who is known to be an expert with the bow and whose arrows are green-tipped? Certainly, for some mysterious reason, she is interested in the activities of Bellamy. Is it Jim Featherstone, who has amazing ways of knowing secrets and turning up in unexpected places? Is it Valerie's father, also expert with the bow? You'll ask other questions and be suspicious of other characters when you see "The Green Archer," said to be the most magnificent and stupendous production ever given a serial, as well as being a story of mystery, intrigue, adventure, and romance.

An immense avalanche tearing ruthlessly down the side of a mountain is one of the spectacular scenes in the film version of Temple Bailey's novel, "Peacock Feathers," which is coming to the Torrance Theatre on Thursday and Friday. Cullen Landis and Jacqueline Logan have the leads. The supporting cast includes Ward Crane, George Fawcett, Edwin J. Brady, Carolyn Irwin, Emmett King, Prince Youcca Trubetzkoy, Aggie Herring, and Dunbar Raymond.

Universal Ranch Riders who have become famous for their wild riding and daredevil horsemanship in Universal pictures have a prominent role in "Two Fisted Jones," the picture starring Jack Hoxie which will be shown at the Torrance Theatre Saturday. In the supporting cast are William Steele, Kathryn McGuire, Harry Todd, William Welsh, Frank Rice, Byron Douglas, and Frederick Cole.

A decided foreign thing has been given by Cecil B. De Mille to "The Road to Yesterday," his first personally directed independent production, which is coming to the Torrance Theatre Sunday and Monday.

This element is found in the featured players—Joseph Schildkraut, noted Hungarian actor, and Jetta

Goudal, exotic French type—who play the leading roles. Heretofore Schildkraut's dramatic activities have been almost wholly confined to the stage, his splendid work in D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm" being a notable exception. He sprang into fame in Vienna by his great work in the Molnar fantasy, "Lilliom," and later successfully portrayed his part in this play on the New York stage.

The names of Julian Eltinge and Ann Pennington have, for years stood out in electric lights on Broadway, and now they adorn the silver sheet in "Madam Behave," a new feature comedy which comes to the Torrance Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. Eltinge plays the part of Mrs. Brown, a missing witness, whom two old men are trying to marry for two good and different reasons, as the unfolding of the plot discloses. Ann Pennington plays opposite Eltinge in her biggest part to date in pictures, although she has already appeared in typical Follies dancing bits in "A Kiss in the Dark" and "Manhanded," two big picture successes.

Lionel Belmore and Jack Duffy make a fine team of crusty old fellows who are rivals for the hand of "Madam Behave." They are both comedians of recognized merit and garner many of the scores of laughs in the production.

AN OLD MAN DREAMS

By HARRY GAMBLICHER

In the Quiet of the evening
When the toll of day is o'er,
I love to sit and idly dream
Of the golden days of yore;
Once again I see the Homestead
Where it stands upon a hill
And the memories that surround it
Bring a peaceful happy thrill.

I can see my Mother standing
In the quiet of our home,
With a smile that hid a teardrop
Waving as I left to roam;
And though the years have swiftly
Sped
And now I'm old and grey,
The memories of the golden past
Make it seem but yesterday.

I can see the peaceful meadows
Where contented cattle graze
And the peaks of distant mountains
Through the purple Autumn
haze;
I can see the fields of clover
And the golden loss of grain,
Oh, to me there's nothing finer
Than to live those days again.

I can hear my Dad a-singing
As he's plowing up the sod,
For to him the fields were heaven
And all nature was his God;
I can see the hills and valleys
Where the fairest flowers grew
And the woods across the roadway
Where each tree I loved and knew.

Our childhood days—speed quickly
By
Soon the boy becomes a man,
With his problems and his struggles
That seem part of life's great plan;
Yet 'tis wise—my friend, I tell you Though like me you're old and grey,
Just forget your cares and troubles
In the dreams of yesterday.

Wrigley Mine Ships Zinc To Europe Market

Catalina Island Concentrates Are Loaded for Dunkirk, Belgium

AVALON, Catalina Island.—Three hundred and fifty tons of zinc concentrates are being shipped directly to Belgium from the flotation mill at White's Landing this week. This is the first European shipment of zinc from the Wrigley mines on Catalina Island. The mineral has been purchased by the International Mineral and Metals Company of New York, according to a statement given out by J. H. Patrick, western representative of the Wrigley interests.

Belgium is greatly in need of zinc and Catalina Island in the future will be one of that country's chief sources of supply. The zinc is separated from the silver and lead bearing ore from the famous Mt. Black Jack mine, four miles distant from the flotation mill at White's Landing. This is the only land haul of the mineral, which goes entirely by water to its final destination at Dunkirk, Belgium, after leaving Catalina Island.

This week's shipment of zinc is the first concentrates run through the flotation mill installed by William Wrigley Jr., owner of Catalina Island, some ninety days ago, and will net approximately $15,000 in revenue, according to Mr. Patrick. The zinc in previous shipments of raw ore to the smelter drew a penalty and was a liability instead of an asset. Some 600 tons of silver and lead concentrates await shipment at the mill to the smelter at Selby. At the quarry at Pebble Beach, the eastern end of Catalina, and at the new Renton vein, several hundred tons of rich silver-lead bearing ore has been stacked to await the installation of a flotation mill at this point of the island. A new road leading to the Renton vein and negotiating a 45% grade part of the distance to the mine, which is located on a sheer cliff overlooking the sea 1500 feet, is almost completed for the use of trucks to haul the ore out.

Mr. and Mrs. McCloud of Torrance formerly of Salida, Colo., were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson and family, of Miller street, are recovering from an attack of influenza.

Active Glands Gave Napoleon Fighting Force

ACCORDING to a noted scientist, who has analyzed the action of the glands, Napoleon, one of the greatest fighters of all history, owed his courage and fighting force to large and extremely active adrenal glands. Not only have the glands an important influence on the mind and character of the individual, but they also largely control health, energy and vitality, and it is by maintaining the normal functioning of the glands that we may combat sickness and ill health, according to eminent scientists and physicians of this country and Europe. Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, which is prepared in convenient tablet form, for men and for women, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Beacon Drug Co., Torrance
