

TOBEY AND TYKE

By REDNER

JERSEY MILK

Perfectly Pasteurized at the new

Angelus Dairy

"Where Cleanliness Abounds"

View of New Pasteurizing plant. Building to rear is the Sanitary Barn, washed clean every day. Cows are washed before each milking. PHONE GARDENA 23, Thornwall 4292, and We Will Start Deliveries the Following Morning.

Ordinary Prices—but EXTRAORDINARY Milk. The Cream Showing Is Much Deeper Than You Are Accustomed to Seeing in Milk Bottles—It's the Jerseys! Angelus Dairy—Cor. Normandie and 190th St. New City Limits of Torrance Wm. P. Schuck, Prop.

AFFAIRS of the HEART

By Mrs. Thompson

Do widowers make better or worse husbands than the man in his first marriage? The question is often asked. Here is one answer: Dear Mrs. Thompson: I'm not looking for advice, although yours is always good. Several letters published in your column recently make me think that my own experiences would be interesting to these people. Perhaps from my story they can see some solution to their own problems. I was married quite young to an ambitious young man. We both worked hard and had accumulated considerable property in 10 years time. Then he died, leaving me with a small boy and girl. After four years I remarried, my second husband being a widower with four grown children at home. He had a lot of land but not a cent. He carried there was no fault in me. I married him because I dearly loved him and because he said he'd always love me. We never quarreled but the putting kept us from ever being companions as he managed to stay away from the house most of the time. I bought my children's needs with my own money, and soon found if I got any clothes for myself I also had to buy them. I learned he had cleverly arranged his affairs in such a way that no matter how long or how hard I worked for him I would never receive a share of his property. After a few years I gave up the struggle and left him to get along as best he could. I couldn't see anything in life for me as it was. My health is ruined as a result of my experience and he thinks I am a slacker. They say he was good to his first wife, who always kept a hired girl. She never sewed. Well, I was hired girl, seamstress, gardener, poultry, raiser and all, and don't think I shirked my duty because I couldn't stay with it to the end, especially as my children were working for him. For nothing, I am now happy as I can be. I am able for me to be with my boy, almost a young man, and my girl. If I have done wrong, I pray to God to forgive me. We are not divorced. We see each other occasionally, but if my husband ever wants a divorce, he can have it so far as I'm concerned. L. Y.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I work in an office with a man who I will realize is a "skirt-chaser." He's utterly indiscriminate about women. He dates with anything and everything from high-brows to high-skirts. In spite of realizing his cheapness in this respect, he shows another side of his nature to me which I like and respect. I feel that we are friends. We are on good terms in the office, but he has never asked me for a date. Sometimes I wonder why I am so taboo with him when, in general, he seems to want to take any girl out, even those to whom he shows no interest during office hours. I'm not sure that I want to date with him, but as a question, it makes me wonder. What do you suppose is the matter? GREEN EYES, MAYBE. He probably realizes that you couldn't or wouldn't amuse him outside of the office as he likes to be amused. Be appreciative of the esteem and distinction he shows you, and let the matter rest there.

DUTIES OF BEST MAN Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going to be best man at the wedding of a good friend of mine. I'm afraid I don't know what to do. What are the duties of a best man? Must I give the bride a gift? CARL. The duties of the best man at a wedding include entering the church from one side with the bridegroom, carrying the ring for him if there is no ring-bearer, standing by him during the ceremony, attending to the cars to and from the church, attending to seeing the minister for the bridegroom, and all other usual duties of a best man. He is of a nature usually entrusted to someone a bit nearer and dear than just the usual friend. Etiquette doesn't "demand" that the best man give the bride a gift, but it is customary for everyone invited to a wedding to show this evidence of good will.

No commandment is more important than the fifth. What COULD be more important than that children should honor their mothers and fathers? Here is a heart-rending case of a child neglecting the responsibilities of a child: Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been a constant reader of your columns for several years and have received many helpful hints and suggestions for which I am very grateful. First of all I wish to say that I am not a person to meddle in other people's business. I run from trouble rather than seek it. However, I am human. I know from your letters you could not stand by and see someone abuse an old, worn-out, crippled animal much less a poor old invalid mother. My heart just aches to take her and do for her, as she is a Christian woman if one ever lived, but I have a family of four little tots and my husband is in poor health, so I feel my hands are tied, but oh, how my heart aches.

She is living with her son. There are two grown children in the family, so the mother isn't too busy to do otherwise and they are well able financially to give money as well as time. They have a big car and go lots—but never take her. She had a partial stroke and as a result has to use crutches, but if her room gets cleaned she has to do it. If she doesn't waken in time to eat breakfast with the rest she goes until noon for food. One day during the winter she was out on the porch trying to dust her little throw rugs when it just happened. She fell in her tracks and remained in the snow nobody knows how long, but upon regaining consciousness she crawled on her hands and knees across the porch three or four times, calling for help. A car drove past and stopped, picked her up and carried her in just as some of the family came in the back door. The poor old soul was nearly frozen when they found her. She prays to die—who wouldn't? Isn't there a law that would compel that son to treat her at least human or put her in some good old ladies' home where she would receive just treatment. What would you do? NEIGHBOR. I suggest you bring the matter to the attention of the chief of police personally. Call him by telephone and make an engagement so you will be sure to find him in his office. Quietly, without dragging in personalities, he can bring pressure to bear upon the son. However, it perhaps would be best for her to go to the old ladies' home, where she would be better cared for properly and have the companionship of others of her age. These people, who treat her as they do, probably are the sort who would be "ashamed" to have a relative of theirs in a home, and might make objections, but they should not receive the slightest consideration, since they have shown none for this helpless old woman. My heart goes out to her. You have done no more than you should in taking up the matter.

SHE IS OVERLOOKED Dear Mrs. Thompson: I work in an office with a man who I will realize is a "skirt-chaser." He's utterly indiscriminate about women. He dates with anything and everything from high-brows to high-skirts. In spite of realizing his cheapness in this respect, he shows another side of his nature to me which I like and respect. I feel that we are friends. We are on good terms in the office, but he has never asked me for a date. Sometimes I wonder why I am so taboo with him when, in general, he seems to want to take any girl out, even those to whom he shows no interest during office hours. I'm not sure that I want to date with him, but as a question, it makes me wonder. What do you suppose is the matter? GREEN EYES, MAYBE. He probably realizes that you couldn't or wouldn't amuse him outside of the office as he likes to be amused. Be appreciative of the esteem and distinction he shows you, and let the matter rest there.

DUTIES OF BEST MAN Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going to be best man at the wedding of a good friend of mine. I'm afraid I don't know what to do. What are the duties of a best man? Must I give the bride a gift? CARL. The duties of the best man at a wedding include entering the church from one side with the bridegroom, carrying the ring for him if there is no ring-bearer, standing by him during the ceremony, attending to the cars to and from the church, attending to seeing the minister for the bridegroom, and all other usual duties of a best man. He is of a nature usually entrusted to someone a bit nearer and dear than just the usual friend. Etiquette doesn't "demand" that the best man give the bride a gift, but it is customary for everyone invited to a wedding to show this evidence of good will.

No commandment is more important than the fifth. What COULD be more important than that children should honor their mothers and fathers? Here is a heart-rending case of a child neglecting the responsibilities of a child: Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been a constant reader of your columns for several years and have received many helpful hints and suggestions for which I am very grateful. First of all I wish to say that I am not a person to meddle in other people's business. I run from trouble rather than seek it. However, I am human. I know from your letters you could not stand by and see someone abuse an old, worn-out, crippled animal much less a poor old invalid mother. My heart just aches to take her and do for her, as she is a Christian woman if one ever lived, but I have a family of four little tots and my husband is in poor health, so I feel my hands are tied, but oh, how my heart aches.

The car has proved it

P. E. HENNIS Phone 1231 Gardena, Calif.

Miss Frances Jordan was an overnight guest Tuesday of her aunt, Mrs. Edwin McKeehan, of Long Beach.

Mrs. Clovis Patterson and son, of Yucaipa, spent part of this week with Mrs. Patterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Groat, of Flower street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lewis of San Pedro were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Thrapp of Star street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Doctor of Los Angeles spent Thursday and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Tim Terrell of Weston street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips and son, of San Pedro, were dinner guests Saturday of Mrs. Mary Ann Phillips of Miller street.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Comstadt of San Pedro have purchased the Walter Northrop home on Sun street. Mrs. Comstadt will be remembered as Mrs. Marie Hostens, a former Lomita resident.

Don't Cuss!

When Your Radio Battery Gets Weak—Just

PHONE 168

And We'll Send One to You

NO CHARGE FOR DELIVERY

Willard Service—You know

Torrance Auto Electric

HARVEL

GUTTENFELDER

Phone 168

1312 Cabrillo

Torrance

SALE of DISHES

We just bought 1800 pieces of DINNERWARE at a BARGAIN, and we're going to pass the savings on to you. There are all kinds, but the following prices will give you some idea of the bargains:

- Cups and Saucers.....10c set
Soup Plates.....10c
Platters.....15c
Dinner Plates.....2 for 15c
Covered Dishes.....30c
Neat patterns and good quality dishes

LEWIS RIPPLE

New and Second Hand Furniture Store

1927 Carson St., Torrance

Phone 73-W

Back East Excursions

for use on going trip May 22nd to September 15th Return limit October 31st Advance Pullman reservations now being made

Round Trip Fares

Table with columns: Destination, Fare, Destination, Fare. Lists various cities and their corresponding fares.

FRED HARVEY meals in Dining Cars and Station Dining Rooms... Grand Canyon National Park with Pullman to the Rim... the Indian-detour rail & motor cars are exclusive Santa Fe features.

Our Illustrated Travel Booklets will be mailed upon request Santa Fe Ticket Office and Travel Bureau

R. P. HINZE, Agent Torrance Phone 244

FOR SALE

The Home of Your Dreams

Just Completed at 1519 Amapola Ave. Torrance

The "Home you've always dreamed of" is now ready for you. We are just putting on the last few artistic touches and it will be all done for you to see Sunday.

We have built a lot of mighty fine houses, but we're especially proud of this one. You'll have to see it to appreciate it, but the few details given below may give you some idea of what to expect:

EXTERIOR: Spanish type, of unusual design. Very attractive front door, tall circular windows. Lot 40x100, cement drive. Garage 12x18. Yard all fenced.

INTERIOR: Large cheerful living room, 14x23, with the new cove ceiling. Attractive wood fireplace. Five side lights.

Roomy breakfast room—almost a dining room. Accommodates six. Table and chairs furnished.

Two good sized bedrooms with closets. Bathroom with built-in tub, fine kitchen with inlaid linoleum cemented down. Screened porch with laundry tray and automatic hot water heater.

Hardwood floors throughout house.

How Much!

That's the best news of all. ONLY $5200. Ten per cent down, balance $50 a month.

OPEN FOR INSPECTION

ALL DAY SUNDAY

Don't miss seeing this ideal home

M. L. Darling, Builder

1606 Post Ave., Torrance

Phone 217-W

STONE & MYERS

LICENSED EMBALMERS AMBULANCE SERVICE LOMITA

1732 Carillo Phone 195 1204 Narbonne Phone 347

for distinguished service .. the COFFIN MEDAL

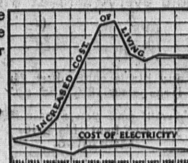

IN 1912 Edison engineers built the first 150,000 volt power line. In 1922, true to the Western pioneering spirit, they solved the problem of 220,000 volts and doubled the capacity of the line without increasing its size.

For this and other achievements they were awarded the Coffin gold medal, given each year to the Company in the United States making the greatest contribution to the advancement of electricity.

Again we are shown why the cost of electricity is lower than before the war while the average cost of all other commodities is 65% higher.

Think of this the next time you see an Edison power line.

R. H. Keller, Vice President and General Manager

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA EDISON COMPANY

Owned by Those it Serves

Our Want Ads. Bring Results Our Want Ads Bring Results