Why Fuller dealers can give you prompt service

As a rule, Fuller Dealers carry large enough stocks to meet any of your paint requirements but if they are temporarily out of the particular paint or varnish that you want, they can get it from a nearby Fuller Branche within twenty-four hours! Fuller Branches are back of Fuller Dealer service to you—one of the many reasons why they are good merchants to trade with. Look for the green and white Fuller Sign and buy with confidence—it means good paint and a good dealer. As a rule, Fuller Dealers carry large

"Yes—good boy—now run along."

She watched him patter off
through the sunshine, his little feet sending small clouds of gray dust behind him at each step; then she went back to the house.

Claudie reached the end of the road hot and breathless; he looked up and down eagerly, but could not see his brothers.

half to them, but, remembering maprecious mission, closed it again leterminedly.

If they waited for him they might see the letter and ask questions, and he had promised Nan's pretty friend not to tell "nobody." He clutched the lejter tightly-as he went—he felt more proud: that ever in his life before: he wondered if Mr. Lyster would give him a penny for being so fathful to his charge; if he did—there were some new sort of follypops in the village stores. his thought broke off as he heard a heavy step coming towards him down the narrow pathway.

as he heard a heavy step coming towards him down the narrow pathway.

Peter, of course! His little face brightened—he started to run; then suddenly he stopped dead, as Harley Sefton broke through the undergrowth and came towards him. Claudie hated Harley Sefton. His eager footsteps came to a frightened halt as he looked up at the man's hard face; it was quite unconsciously that he put the hand which clutched Joan's note behind his back in an attitude of defiance. But for that little gesture Sefton would probably have, passed on without speaking, but, as it was, stopped and smiled down at the child unpleasantly.

"And where are you running to?" he asked.

Claudie shivered; his little mind

"Let him go—let him go!"

Sheer surprise had made Seftom relinquish his hold of the boy, and Claudle dropped sobbing and shaking amongst the bracken and undergrowth.

Sefton tried to catch Nan's arms and hold her, but for the moment rage made her stronger than he.

Claudie had got over his first deep terror and was howling now in real earnest, raising his voice shrilly till it must have been heard half over the wood.

Sefton looked round uneasily. He was a coward at heart, as are most buillies.
