Barnes Opening In Torrance Set For November 27

Store Closed From Monday to Friday Next Week During Moving

During Moving

The J. W. Barnes Company announced this morning that Saturday, Nov. 27, had been decided upon as the opening day of the department store's new quarters in Torrance.

Workmen have been busy the past two weeks redecorating and remodeling the stores at 1224 and 1226 El Prade, Torrance, and Monday, Nov. 22, the first load of merchandise will arrive at the new store building, it was announced by Mr. Barnes.

"We will bring our great Removal Sale to a close this Saturday, Nov. 20," stated Mr. Barnes, and from then until the opening of the new Torrance store on the following Saturday we will not be open for business. Thousands of dollars of new Christmas merchandise have been bought and await delivery at the Torrance store, and we will be busy all next week getting ready for our opening sale, which will begin Saturday morning, Nov. 27.

"The two remaining days of this week will be given over to offering bargain lots of odds and ends prior to the removal to Torrance," continued Mr. Barnes. "While bargain lots will be found in every department of the store, you will find particularly attractive clean-up bargains in the shee department, which will not be moved to Torrance.

"We regret that it is necessary to severage the store service for the store service."

regret that it is necessary we regret that it is necessary of discontinue our store service uring the first five days of next each while the moving is in rocess, and we are requesting our istomers to anticipate their renirements and make their purments and their purment wait for the opening sale the Torrance store," stated Mr. armes.
