Enter Protest on Carson St. Stop as Unnecessary

Business men on Carson street vehemently protested to the Board of Trustees Tuesday night against the boulevard stop on Carson street at Arlinction avenue. The stop was originally on Arlington at Carson, but recently was changed. Property owners on Carson street declared the stop had decreased traffic considerably on Carson, and asked that the stop be removed. The board instructed Chief Calder to check traffic at the intersection and report next Tuesday night. Most opinion on the matter seemed to the that no stop at the intersection is needed now that the oil-field rush which first made the stop advisable is over.

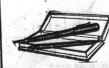

Order Goat Law Rigidly Enforced

The police department was instructed Tuesday night by the Board of Trustees to enforce the goat ordinance, which regulates the distance from residences at which goats may be tethered. Mayor John Dennis reported a violation of the ordinance.
