

Torrance scouts will conduct their final rally before the summer vacation period on Friday evening of this week. The event will be held in the auditorium of the elementary school.

In addition to the presentation of badges and awards earned since the last rally, eight contests will be conducted, and the amount of preparation that has been made in anticipation promises the most interesting rally program of any conducted this year.

The outstanding contest is that in oratory, the event sponsored by the American Legion with their scholarship medal and $10 in cash as the reward for the winner. The preliminary contests have been conducted in each troop and the troop representatives chosen.

Another contest for which much work has been done is that in first aid, with medals for the three members of the winning team, and their names and the name of the troop represented to be engraved on the handsome oak trophy now being made in the high school by scouts.

Other contests will include the six usually put on at each rally: color guard, presence of parents, friction fire, signaling, knot-tying, and knife work.

The announcements will include the name of the fortunate local scout who will go to the district three-weeks hike through the Sierra Madre Mountains, going as the guest of James W. Post and as the result of standing highest in the examination conducted about ten days ago. Each district town is entitled to eight scouts as members of the party, and the local scouts who are registered to go are Clyde Bodley, Raymond Flood, Merton Gilbert, Robert Hannon, Robert May, Egbert Merrill, Wilson Page, and Charles Ruppel.

Each of the local troops is anticipating summer troop camps. Troop No. 4 has settled down to the second week in August, and the place as a cabin in San Bernardino Mountains. As the result of a paper campaign, the distribution of commercial circulars, and voluntary donations, every member of the troop who desires to go on this week-end will have the opportunity of going without payment of camp fee. The other troops are working on camp plans which are not yet ready for announcement.

The membership of Troops 1 and 4 is closed, and a few places remain open in Troop 3. No effort will be made to organize a fourth troop until next fall, and boys interested in becoming scouts at this time are urged to apply to Troop 3 at once. The troop meets on Friday evenings in the scout building on Carson street just west of the American Legion clubhouse. Robert Lewellen of The Torrance Herald is the scoutmaster of the troop.

Hal Prince Comes Here as Manager Of H. C. Merrick Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal C. Prince and son Jack moved to Torrance this week from Los Angeles. They are living at 1428 El Prado in an attractive new home recently completed by E. M. Kingsley.

Mr. Prince is the resident manager of the Harry C. Merrick Company, which is erecting a group of houses on their Western avenue tract in Torrance.

FINAL CHORAL MEETING

The final meeting of the Choral Club, which will be held this evening in the music room of the Torrance High School, will be a social affair, with a good program and delicious eats. All members are requested to attend to take part in the closing business session and the frolic to follow.

business section of Torrance, he said, and would separate the two streams of traffic before they reached city street intersections.

Regional Commission Favors

He had taken up with the Regional Planning Commission the matter of widening Eshelman avenue, Mr. Leonard said, and reported that the Commission seemed inclined to favor his recommendation that Eshelman be made an 80-foot highway, by addition of 15 feet on each side. This, he said, would not necessitate a general moving of buildings anywhere along the route, and he expressed himself as believing that with ample in view of the facilities already afforded for traffic through the proceedings should be started, Mr. Leonard declared, under the Mattoon Act, which would not make the burden heavy, as the cost could be spread over a period of 20 years. He expressed the opinion that the project would be less expensive now than if it was to be allowed to wait. Los Angeles county, he said, was behind it and would perhaps help defray part of the expense.

J. H. Smith of Lomita, who addressed the trustees as a visitor, favored the plan insofar as the Torrance end of it was concerned, but expressed disapproval of a project likely to create another business district in Lomita away from Narbonne Avenue. He said the Lomita business should not be scattered. His suggestion was that the route, instead of continuing beyond Plaza del Amo to connect directly with Eshelman, be cut across to send the harbor traffic through Narbonne Avenue. There are too many business centers in Lomita now, Mr. Smith declared, and he deprecated the further scattering which he predicted would take place with the development of Eshelman as a major highway.

Sam Rappaport told the trustees that he believed the more highways for entrance and exit the community had, the better it would be. He said he had interests in Lomita on Narbonne avenue, and realized that if Eshelman was further developed it would open up a new business center, but that he would favor it because he believed it would benefit all Lomita. He said he believed the trustees should take the far reaching effects of such a development into consideration with a view to the future. Mr. Rappaport mentioned Glendale and Burbank as examples of rapid growth. "What has made those towns?" he asked. "Inlets and outlets. It is a known fact, whenever you put a ring around people so they cannot go where they want to when they want to, they will move elsewhere. There is no reason why we cannot have people living here and working elsewhere. We can make it a home community."

He pointed out that the Eshelman development would give the community two roads instead of one, as would be the case if traffic should be routed entirely through Narbonne Avenue.

In asking the Trustees to take action looking toward an envisaging of all the problems of the project, he said he had been in touch with many representative residents during the past week, and that he believed they were interested in having a committee develop definite facts. The committee is to report back to the Trustees.

to expand facilities. The advantages of the Torrance district were brought to his attention through the Torrance Chamber of Commerce. The paint is made by the company from live minerals through a special process. It is described as becoming practically a part of the metal upon which it is applied.

CHAMBER GOES TO AVALON

The Harbor District Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting at Avalon, Catalina Island, Saturday and Sunday. Many members of the Torrance chamber plan to attend, and other residents of Torrance who wish to take advantage of the outing may make arrangements at the Chamber of Commerce office. The Harbor District chamber has arranged for 20 percent reduction on transportation, accommodations at Island Villa Park, and for side trips.

NEW ORDER POPULAR

The new order of services at the First Evangelical Lutheran Church has proved successful, and will be continued, it has been announced. Sunday School is now being held just prior to the morning church service, instead of in the afternoon, as heretofore.

auditorium and the classrooms. The fun started at 6 p.m., with "cats" served by the Parent-Teacher Association, and didn't cease until several hours later.

After all the good food had been devoured, the little tots of the primary department presented their playlet, "The Crowning of the May Queen," and received rounds of applause.

Later in the evening the upper grades staged a playlet taken from James Whitcomb Riley—"Under the Sugar Plum Tree." All of the characters came from Riley's faculty, and were portrayed with gusto and no slight ability by the young actors and actresses, who set out upon a quest for the "Squidgum Squee."

The role of Little Orphan Annie was played by Jean Wheaton. Francis Doner was the Raggedy Man; Homer Kirkpatrick, Shuffie Shoon; Junior Rogers, Uncle Doc; and Sherman Allen, the Captain. The choruses were sung by all the boys and girls of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

"Slideshows" formed a large portion of the evening's attractions, also.

Dr. Proctor Talks On Children's Teeth

Dr. Minnie Proctor gave an interesting lecture on the care of children's teeth at the meeting of the Rotary Annals last Tuesday. A patriotic motif in honor of Flag Day was carried out in the decorations of the luncheon table, and places were indicated for a number of guests.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. W. L. Booth, Mrs. P. G. Briney, and Mrs. Richard Flaherty. Arrangements for the July luncheon are in charge of Mrs. Harvel Guttenfelder, Mrs. R. A. Hoag, and Mrs. C. L. Hyde.
