Termites Danger in Inglewood Area

INGLEWOOD.—A dangerous condition in Inglewood buildings was revealed today with the issuance of a permit to J. M. Roberts for a termite control treatment of an apartment house here.

According to a recent survey 70 per cent of the houses in the United States are infested with all-devouring, ant-like insects.

Termites eat the inside of supporting beams and may not touch the surface, so that the wooden structure may have the appearance of strength and rigidity, but in reality it is nothing but a weak shell.

"The termite has been invading the cities, and setting up house-keeping in houses since the discovery of forest areas. Books, furniture, clothes and even concrete are part of his diet," a survey says.

The colonies of termites are organized with almost human intelligence. Kings and queens rule over their families, soldiers are trained for their protection, and incompetents and invalids are killed and eaten so that the colony as a whole may prosper.

A number of school and other buildings will be inspected. Mr. Hedburg explains that his company's formulae prepared by the government for combating termites.

Favor Move to Join 3 Cities

Paper Says People of Redondo, Manhattan, Hermosa Support Plan

FROM REDONDO REFLEX Nine persons in every ten who have been interviewed during the last three months on the subject of making one compact city of the three beach cities are willing to vote for it. The sentiment is as strong in Hermosa Beach and Manhattan Beach as it is in Redondo Beach.

There is no doubt now among the people who are best informed regarding the affairs of their own cities that a definite movement is being instituted for the purpose of accomplishing the merger. The enthusiasm for this great enterprise has reached the stage where representative individuals will soon begin work along the specific lines necessary to meet the requirements of the law.

As one citizen expressed it: "The city council being the servants of the people is glad to know what the people are thinking and what a voting majority of them will demand. Let us bring this important matter to their attention and show them that we represent the overwhelming majority."

Groups of voters in the three towns that have already come together for the purpose of discussion have found no difficulty in harmonizing among themselves the question of a name for the proposed city. They all agree that some name different from either one now in existence could be found which would be satisfactory to the people in all the merged cities.

A little frank explanation at each meeting has also brought out the fact that there need be no difficulty at all regarding the location of civic buildings and industries. The groups that have thus met and analyzed the situation should have no difficulty at all in coming to the same conclusions.

Eunice Lowden, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lowden of Compton passed away Sunday morning. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 11 o'clock at the Methodist Chapel in Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Lowden and family were formerly of Keystone, residing at 216th and Grace streets. Her many friends here will be grieved to learn of her death.

Salvation Army Meets at Beach

REDONDO BEACH.—General William Booth's original service flag and overcoat are still in possession of members of the Salvation Army, it was disclosed Wednesday at the eighth annual convention of the Los Angeles and South Coast division advisory boards held at the Redondo resort camp. The hat was exhibited at the convention by Colonel Sharpe, its owner. The overcoat is in the possession of Commissioner William Peart.

After an excellent luncheon served to the 125 members of advisory boards, coming from many of the cities in Southern California, a very interesting address was made by Commissioner William Peart, who gave an eulogy of General Booth and also praised the Army for its splendid achievements.

Piano selections were played by Staff-Captain A. Brewer, an accomplished pianist, whose efforts were rewarded with calls for an encore.

General Higgins' son, in charge of publicity work at Pasadena, was introduced to the gathering as was Mrs. Hodder, the oldest woman carrying on the work of the Salvation Army.

Reports on men's and women's social service as well as on Salvation Army services, were made by Colonel William Gooding, Staff Captain Maud Lee and Major A. Kranz.

Convention pictures were shown and business was discussed, after Commissioner Peart's address. Sam Levy and H. H. Doley attended from Torrance.
