

"The Idle Rich," Coming Sunday to Torrance Has Unique Setting

"The Idle Rich," William de Mille's all-talking picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which comes to the Torrance Theatre, Sunday and Monday, July 7 and 8, was made within a smaller area of space than any other picture ever made.

Picture of the famous stage comedy, utilized the unique settings for the recording of novel sounds, such as slamming doors, coffee boiling over, rattle of dish washing and other sounds so familiar to the domestic ear.

Mullin-La Fourcade Nuptials

Bridal party is shown here in a private dining room of the Mayfair Hotel in Los Angeles, where a delightful wedding breakfast was served to intimate friends and relatives, following the ceremony at St. Vincent's.

Beautiful St. Vincent's Church at West Adams and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Amy Dolores LaFourcade of San Bernardino and William Thomas Mullin last Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Matching hue completed the costume. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas in three shades. Bridesmaids were Miss Louise LaFourcade, sister of the bride, Miss Edna and Miss Katherine Mullin, sisters of the groom.

O'Malley pronounced the nuptial blessing. After the recessional, Mr. and Mrs. Mullin greeted the 200 bidden guests in the vestibule of the church, following which they drove to the Mayfair Hotel, where a wedding breakfast was awaiting the members of the bridal party and relatives of the bride and groom.
