WHY SHOULD YOU JOIN THE AMERICAN LEGION?

Every American who served honorably in the armed forces of this country in the World War, owes it to himself, to his family, to his comrades and to his country, to lend his influence through active membership in the American Legion, joining now in the greatest peace-time pursuit of progress in the history of the world. The Legion is the largest, and the most influential, veterans' organization in the world. In its ranks, the veteran finds more than 800,000 of his comrades who shared those stirring days in camp, on the sea, and in France in World War time. The veteran, likewise, owes a duty to his mother, wife, sister or daughter, to arrange that she may enjoy the wholesome association to be found in the Legion Auxiliary, an organization of more than 300,000 patriotic women. The Legion, in its perfect democracy, does not ask a man from whence he came, nor does it ask his business, his social standing, his race or his creed. The veteran only is asked if he served honorably in the World War and whether he was an American citizen when he did it. If this be so, he belongs in the Legion, marching down the path of duty to the dawn of a better day for them.
