"HOW TO JUDGE A HOUSE"

Booklet May Be Obtained Without Cost at Chamber of Commerce, Giving Full Information

Stimulation of better design and construction of American homes is the underlying principle of a new booklet entitled "How to Judge a House" just issued by the National Committee on Wood Utilization of the Department of Commerce, according to Major W. D.B. Brookings, a member of the sub-committee.

The new publication, which may be obtained free at the Torrance Chamber of Commerce, discusses good construction, design, plan and equipment of the home already built from the viewpoint of the prospective buyer. It is intended to be used as a guide in making a wise and economical choice and the booklet tells how to judge workmanship as well as materials used throughout the house.

The modern American home differs from the old Colonial residences in that we are drawing on a multitude of different building materials, ranging from lumber and cement to steel, brick and tile. Major Brookings said. "It is therefore much more difficult for the present-day home owner to be as familiar with building methods and materials as were our Colonial forefathers. We must have a guide by which to judge them."

Even though the book has been written from the viewpoint of the buyers of small homes—those costing less than $10,000—the principles of good construction and design which are advocated may be applied to larger and more costly structures.

Written in non-technical language "How to Judge a House" answers the important questions which every prospective home owner wants to know. The reader is taken on a tour of inspection from basement to attic—in which every important feature of construction is carefully analyzed.

The Torrance Chamber of Commerce has secured a limited supply of these booklets and those contemplating building or who are interested may obtain copies of this publication without cost from the chamber.

POPPY SALE TO BE HELD ON MAY 23

Every poppy to be sold in Torrance Saturday, May 23, National Poppy Day, by members of the local American Legion Auxiliary will have been made by disabled ex-service men in the Sibley hospital. The auxiliary will conduct Poppy Day this year with increased enthusiasm because the sale of the paper-made flowers not only provides the disabled veterans with employment and crosses a fund for rehabilitation and child welfare work, but it is also an appropriate reminder of the sacrifices of those who have died in the service of our country.

More than 70,000 poppies were made at the Sibley hospital this year under the supervision of the Department of Penitentiary Administration. The men were paid $7 a thousand for their poppies in California. In other states they are only paid one cent each. The flowers last year the American Legion Auxiliary sold $362,028 poppies all over the United States.

Night Baseball Field Assured Public Park

(Continued from Page 2-3) engineer's office, has caught the spirit of night baseball in his drawing presented above. There goes a man to second on a pitched ball that the batter has missed! The crowd, filling the benches back in the darkness sees every play made on the field. The lights sweeping the diamond cause the players and spectators no inconvenience because they have been installed by experts.

This, then, is part of the Torrance Municipal Park plan that can become a reality this fall if the voters of this city endorse the $380,000 bond and playground bond issue. Passage of this bond issue insures work for several hundred men at a time when such employment is badly needed. Every citizen of Torrance gains from a municipal park.

The baseball field is only a part of the general plan. There will be a children's playground, handball and seating arrangement, swimming pool, tennis courts, horse-shoe pitching areas, a golf course, athletic field, basketball courts and such conveniences as auto buses on the grounds, drinking fountains, rest rooms, dressing rooms and the landscaping of the whole park site to make a municipal recreation center of outstanding beauty and service.

Torrance's first complete municipal park awaits the decision of the voters on June 9.
