REGISTER WORKERS ON WEEK ENDS

City Hall Will Be Used For Signing Up Eligible Aqueduct Workers.

Mayor John Dennis said last week that a representative of the Metropolitan Water District will positively state at the city hall here all day Saturday, November 14, to register Torrance citizens who desire jobs on the Metropolitan aqueduct when the construction of it gigantic tube starts.

It was expected that registration would start here last Saturday, but the material for the "signing-up" was not ready in time. The registrar will be here all day Saturday for about three or four successive weeks to take the names and data on workers qualified to hold jobs on the Metropolitan project.

Must Be Citizens One Year. Only bona-fide citizens, or those who have been registered voters in Torrance for one year prior to October 13, 1931, are eligible for registration in this city. As the eligible work will be allotted to other cities in the District on a ratio of their assessed valuation, Torrance is expected to furnish about one per cent of the men on the project.

It should be remembered, and it is expressly stated on the cards that will be given each registering worker, that no labor may possibly be available until next May when the bonds for the project held saleable by the courts.

Local Drum Corps At L. A. Ceremonies

Local Legionnaires in charge of the drum corps for the Armistice Day games yesterday believe about 100 Torrance residents enjoyed the military spectacle and grid contest at the Los Angeles Olympic Stadium. Preceding the game, in which U. C. L. A. defeated St. Mary's, 12-0, the local Drum and Bugle Corps participated in the parade and demonstration given at the stadium by a number of Legion posts, other veterans' organizations, Boy Scouts, and the army and navy.
