Rubber Factory President Tells Expansion Plans

rubber goods that cannot be fabricated in the Torrance plant?

You didn't know that? Well, then—read on; but first let's hear Merralls' opinion of the factory's location, his present plans and his future hopes for the corporation.

Site and Weather Okay
"In my opinion we have the finest site in all Southern California," he told a Herald representative this week.

"The one thing that stands out among your city's many factors of importance to any industry, is its location. We are close to the harbor and Los Angeles markets. Our plant, I believe, is situated in Torrance on the best possible site. The weather here is great—our employees turn out better work here because of the mildness of the climate all year round than any other place I know. We have met every courtesy—from the city officials on down to the very progressive type of 'average citizen' that lives here."

Present plans: Right now a score of men are renovating an office building that formerly stood at the corner of Border and 220th. The building has been moved to face on Artisan avenue. It was moved in order to be in position when contemplated expansion begins to enlarge the factory.

Reveals Plans
"I can't say when we will increase our space—that is still indefinite—but, and I say this in all seriousness, we are going to expand Rubbercraft until it takes in the whole of our acreage here," Merralls declared. "The time is not far off when we will be cramped for space and right now we have plans ready for building a new wing; a modernistic front extending the entire length of our frontage on Border avenue; of replacing our boiler and mixing rooms with a better class of building; and of erecting an employees' recreation hall."

Business outlook: Of course all these plans are based upon an increase in business—a return of prosperity and the end of this depression. What does Merralls think of the economic outlook? Just this:

"I'm looking forward to next February. During that month and the early spring we'll see business pick up and pick up fast. I think we'll have a very light Christmas—but after inventory and things get cleared away for a new year—then we'll see a rise in purchasing. Merchants' stocks are lower now than they have ever been—speaking of course of the merchants and firms with whom Rubbercraft does business—but it applies generally to all lines of merchandise—and with spring those stocks will have to be amplified to meet buyers' demand."

Few Products Listed
What does that mean to Torrance? Just that the Rubbercraft will increase the present payroll that now has 30 names on it to capacity. And capacity means three eight-hour shifts of twice that number of workers.

One thousand rubber articles—it would be impossible to name them all but here are a few: Rubbercraft makes 11 trademarked products, such as No-Mar heel rests for autos; No-Mar desk guards; Florida floor mats of all kinds; Tex-Mex car mats; OsoSoft pneumatic air cushions; OsoSoft non-skid bath mats; Solar non-splash neck protectors for beauty parlors; radiator hose; running board mats; windshield wiper tubes; Stone pneumatic water ballast duck decoys; animals, figures, dummies for the motion picture industry; rubber organs for the Mission Dry Corporation; all the gaskets used by the California Consolidated Water Company.

Feature and unusual Rubbercraft products: the Los Angeles Board of Education recently building now a "crash pad" for all Douglas Army and Navy planes to fit over the instrument board and compass, with dry cleaning brushes to pilots in a crash. Because the instrument board is directly in line with the flyer's face, previous crashes have always taken a toll of the pilot's nose, teeth, eyes and mouth. Dummy forms for dry cleaning establishments, the exact model of a human figure.

To Remodel Interior
A new product, a siphon-ete organ strainer for milk bottles that extracts the cream from the top without pouring it and the milk out at the same time. Rubbercraft makes all the saddle cushions for Harley-Davidson and Indian motorcycles; a score of different types of rubber balls.

Remodeling of the factory's interior will be started in the near future, according to Merralls and Charles Gail, building superintendent. This work will include a larger office, laboratory and glass enclosed plant superintendent's office for William Shawger, the factory's resident executive.

NAVY BLUE LOBSTER CAUGHT
BANGOR, Me. (U.P.)—The sea gives up some strange forms of life, but so far only one unusual lobster has been brought up in local ports. It was the deep navy blue one landed recently by L. E. Nice, of this city.

Andrews WALL HEATERS

While we are equipped to furnish any type of heating equipment, we especially recommend Andrews Wall Heaters. They are easy to install in old as well as new houses and do not take up valuable floor space.

Unlike radiant heaters, the opposite side of the room is heated as well as the space in front of the heater. Pure air is drawn in from the outside, heated and circulated to all parts of the room.

Spirit of Gay Nineties Again Lives In "Cisco Kid"
Back in the nineties, Arizona was an exciting spot to live in, with the notorious Apache Kid and his ilk making life interesting for the traveler on stage or horseback. Today the outlaw and the bandit have gone, and the airplane and the automobile have replaced the stagecoach—with a considerable lessening of romance.

To Take Movies of Torrance's Latest Industry Monday

"Camera—action!" that Hollywood battle-cry will be heard in Torrance Monday morning as Keith Daniels, local director, producer and hotel proprietor, and A. Clark Goode, cameraman, go into action "shooting" the first scenes of a picture which will tell the story of the lettuce growing and packing industry in Torrance.

Church Programs Must Meet Trend of Times, Pastor Says

By the United Press
SACRAMENTO—Methods of delivering the gospel change with the onward march of time. This is the belief of Rev. Charles Woessner of the Calvary Baptist church of San Francisco, in explaining to state educators the possibility of "visual education" in California churches.

Rev. Woessner, who for the past several years has studied psychological and historical backgrounds of evangelism, believes the time will come soon when the motion picture will hold a definite place in every church service.

Must Modernize Programs
"The average church offers poor music and a rather loose organized program. With the proper motion pictures, a new type of evangelism is in store for churches."

WHAT'S THE GOOD NEWS?

Optimistic Items Gathered Around the State by United Press This Week

WILLOWS—The month-long duck hunting season, opening in a drizzle of rain, has proved favorable to hunters. Birds by thousands are reported on ponds and lakes.

YREKA—Head lettuce produced in Butte Valley, 40 miles east of Yreka, is bringing premium prices in eastern markets. Heavier plantings are planned next year.

OROVILLE—Four acres of tomatoes have Walter Jordan a return of $100 on his place at Glendale ridge.

SAN FRANCISCO—Fourteen hundred more carpenters and other building trades mechanics are now at work in San Francisco than at the same time last year.

SACRAMENTO—Letters of thanks from home-owners all over California are being received by Governor Rolph for his request for a moratorium on mortgages and deeds of trust.

PORTOLA—City debts have paid off the last debt created by the erection of the city hall, jail and fire house. Enough money was left to make the first payment on a new fire engine.

BAKERSFIELD—Farmers of this district are rejoicing over the last rainfall and the growing snow pack in the mountains. Crops have already been greatly benefited, range increased and a good water supply next season assured.

SANTA ANA—A total of $5,000 carloads of citrus fruit was shipped by the California Fruit Growers Exchange last season, the second largest season on record. The delivery value of the fruit was $115,261,052.

LONG BEACH—The city of Long Beach has increased its gas and water rates to provide $55,000 a month for the employment of residents of the city who are out of work.

Shorten Time of Citizenship For War Vets

By the United Press
World War veterans of Torrance have found themselves out of jobs because of California's new law requiring that only American citizens be employed on public projects in the state, may be compelled to "let out" in as short a time as 90 days.

This was announced here by James I. Herz, deputy director of the state department of public works, after several leading contractors reported they had been compelled to "let out" a number of war veterans because of the citizenship requirement.

Oregon Boosts Stuffed Prunes
SALLEM, Ore. (U.P.)—Prunes do not always get stewed. They are sometimes stuffed. As a booster, a group of Salem business and professional women stuffed Oregon prunes and sent a box of them to the national convention at Richmond, Va.
