

Potato Crop Too Expensive
TWO RIVERS, Wis. (U.P.)—The city council here decided that it would be too expensive to continue this season the mass potato planting project conducted a year ago when bins were filled with tubers for which needy persons failed to call. Some commission estimated last year's crop cost the city $1 per bushel, while market prices were 50 cents or less.

Hot Sandwiches For Summertime

When summer days provide so many excuses for running away from kitchen duties, a few short cuts in meal preparation are much to be desired.

Sandwiches of the usual type, versatile as they are, do not always fill the bill for the hurry-up meal. Hot sandwiches, however, often fit in splendidly, and when supplemented by a salad and a dessert make a satisfying meal.

The following hot sandwich recipes are suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Turkish Sandwiches
1 cup roast pork, sliced
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 cup cream
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon onion juice
1/4 cup English walnut meats
Paprika
Slices of toasted bread
Make a thick sauce of the flour, butter, cream, and meat stock. Add the other ingredients and heat thoroughly. Place on slices of hot toast. Brush with melted butter, and place under a broiler flame for a minute to brown slightly. Garnish with slices of olives.

Tongue and Ham Special
On a slice of white bread, place a slice of cooked tongue, a slice of American cheese and a slice of ham, and then another slice of white bread. Cut in the desired shape. Roll in slightly beaten eggs to which two tablespoons cream have been added. Fry in deep hot lard until the outside becomes a golden brown and serve immediately.

Waffle and Ham de Luxe
Made-at-table foods are popular in many homes, so here is a suggestion. Place hot waffle on each serving plate, cover with slices of hot beef hash, and garnish with other hot foods. Serve with maple syrup while hot with maple syrup.

Hot Liver Sandwiches
Put cooked liver through a food chopper, season with salt and pepper and moisten with meat stock or milk. Spread a layer of liver mixture on hot, toasted bread, cover with slices of tomato and bacon. Droll until the tomato and bacon are cooked and serve immediately.
