Budget Provides For Alondra Park

A budget of $6665 is set up for Alondra Park for 1934-35, according to the county preliminary budget, upon which public hearings closed this week before the board of supervisors. Of this total, $4940 will be for salaries of a foreman and laborers, $1225 for maintenance and operation, and $500 for water development. It is shown. Total budget for the county's parks is given as $100,218, of which less than $3000 is for capital outlay.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday, August 16, in the Wee Kirk of the Heather church at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale, where interment followed, for Edward Grammond, for 27 years a Lomita chicken rancher, who died last Monday at his home, 3722 Beacon street, in Lomita. Arrangements were in charge of the Forest Lawn Mortuary, Rev. E. E. Clark, pastor of the Eagle Rock Presbyterian church, officiated.

Slane Outlines Platform Before Local Rotarians

Popular Candidate For State Senator Well Known To Torrance Folk

Harold A. (Hal) Slane, prominent in the Democratic party as organizer and first state president of the Young Democratic Clubs of California, was the speaker at the Torrance Rotary Club last Thursday. He is a long-time friend of Donald Findley, president of Torrance Rotary Club, and was succeeded as president of the Young Democratic Clubs by George Shilder of Torrance. He recently resigned his position as associate of W. Harold Kingsley in the county charities department and announced his candidacy for state senator on the Democratic ticket, 38th district, comprising Los Angeles county. Mr. Slane presented a refreshingly clear and explicit platform to local Rotarians.

"The most important problem in this state is unemployment relief," asserted Mr. Slane. "It is time someone with a thorough knowledge of this problem be sent to the state senate. I know this problem. I have engaged in an intensive study of it for the past year. The Public Welfare Act must be revised, the Old Age Pension law must be administered in the manner in which the people intended when they voted it, and the standard package must be eliminated, returning the business to the local grocers where it rightfully belongs."

"I present no vague talk of economy. Just as private business restricts expenses to income, must the state of California adopt a like program. Too many candidates are willing to gouge businessmen and other taxpayers rather than undertake the unpleasant task of retrenchment. Raising tax rates, under present conditions, amounts to confiscation. I believe in a revision of taxes downward with a reduction of expenditures as a necessary accompaniment. My votes in the state senate will be cast accordingly."

"Putting California in step with the trend of the times, as exemplified in the national administration of the Democratic party and of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, should be one of the first matters to receive our attention. I am behind him and his program 100 per cent. "I am a true Democrat and always have been, the name of Slane having been on the rolls of the party since Thomas Jefferson's victory in 1800, believing firmly in the principles of that party."

Mr. Slane also advocates abolition of direct sales tax, strict enforcement of laws relating to the sale of liquor, a federal pension for all over 65 who are in need, maintenance of educational facilities at our present high standard and complete revision of our state constitution.

It Wasn't a Raccoon JULIAN, CAL. (U.P.)—J. D. McCain, rancher, thought it was a raccoon when he took aim at a patch of fur and fired through the branches of a tree. Down tumbled a six-foot female mountain lion. The beast had been preying on McCain's cattle.

Keep Colder In Congress

Continued from Page 1 Los Angeles and the Pacific coast in particular. I never knew him to miss a meeting of the committee, neither did I ever know him to let an opportunity pass to interject a favorable word or expression of some kind for your waterway interests. I regard him as a very able man and I certainly would like to have Mr. Colder remain as a member of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. He is the type of man we need and I have formed a great attachment for him.

The two principal opponents of Congressman Colder for the Democratic nomination are Cecil R. King and A. P. (Tony) Entenza, both residents of the Florence avenue or northern portion of the district and entirely unidentified with harbor activities. In fact, residents of Torrance and Lomita have little in common with the Florence avenue crowd, and in some respects our business activities are competitive with the Los Angeles group. Should either King or Entenza be sent to Washington, we can naturally expect little consideration from them, and most certainly neither of them would be in the strategic position as a member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee which Congressman Colder is most certain to retain.

Congressman Colder has done much for Torrance during the past two years that he has served this district as its representative at Washington. It was largely through his efforts that a definite appropriation was made for a new post office, the site for which has already been bought by the treasury department. He assisted in the re-opening of the Torrance National Bank. While his efforts were largely through his reasons beyond his control, Congressman Colder gave much time and effort in an endeavor to secure a federal loan for the new water system in Torrance. He is familiar with the water situation always knew they could depend upon the wholehearted co-operation of Congressman Colder.

Congressman Colder is an ardent supporter of old age pensions and has stood steadfastly behind President Roosevelt. Perhaps the best evidence of the high regard in which Congressman Colder is held by the administration in Washington is stated by the late Henry T. Rainey, speaker of the House of Representatives, whose sudden death shocked the nation this week. In a letter which we have before us, written before his passing, Speaker Rainey says in part: "Congressman Colder is popular with his colleagues and is rapidly attaining a position of leadership in the House. He is one of the effective members of Congress, who are consulted by House leaders on important matters of policy, and his suggestions are always valued. He is intensely loyal to his district and to his state and has been a consistent, strong and effective supporter of the policies of the administration."

With such a record of proven ability, of steadfast loyalty to President Roosevelt, and the people of this district, and with a future that holds much promise of being still more helpful, it would seem most unwise to change representatives at this time, and the Torrance Herald and Lomita News heartily recommends the re-election of Congressman Charles J. Colder.

Attorney General U. S. Webb Lauded For Efficient Work

Attorney General U. S. Webb, candidate for re-nomination at the primaries, is receiving strong endorsements from leading citizens, civic and professional organizations, who point out that at no time has the breath of scandal ever touched the attorney general office during Webb's incumbency. He has never lost a case of major importance to California. He advocated and obtained concentration of the state's legal work in his office and thereby saved approximately $293,000 annually to the state. He defeated Arizona's two attacks on California's rights to the railroads to pay the state ten million dollars in taxes; he wrested $800,000 from the oil companies and contracted for future royalties of $78,000 monthly; he drafted and sustained in the federal courts the famous Anti-Japanese Land Law; he has recognized patriotic service by appointing 18 war veterans as deputies in his office.

Webb is known as one of the hardest working officials of the state. He regularly puts in long office hours and during legislative sessions he spends 16 to 18 hours daily at his desk.

Casserole Waits For Delayed Meal

Deby at dinner-time may prove a strain on the family tie, and yet when the head of the household goes golfing, there is no telling when dinner will be served. "On such days, it is a good idea to plan dinners that can wait," says Inez S. Willson, home economist. Among the dishes which may be kept waiting are those prepared and served in casseroles. They are cooked at a low temperature and in most cases covered so that the steam cannot escape; hence over-cooking or waiting has less effect than it does in many other dishes.

Place a layer of potatoes in the casserole dish, then a layer of sliced ham, and a second layer of potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Add 1 cup meat stock and bake at a moderate temperature (350° F.) until done. Just before serving sprinkle the top with grated cheese and return to the oven long enough to melt the cheese.

Casserole of Lamb 2 pounds breast of lamb, boned and cut in small pieces 2 tablespoons flour 2 tablespoons bacon drippings 2 cups diced carrots 1 finely chopped onion 1 cup canned tomatoes Salt Pepper Roll lamb in flour and brown together with the onion in hot bacon drippings. Put in a greased casserole with the tomatoes and 1 cup hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until done. Add the potatoes and carrots as nearly as possible a half to three-quarters of an hour before serving. Add a little more water from time to time and thicken the gravy if it is too thin.
