

STORY 2

Their music is good and their drills are unique. They present a handsome appearance in their black and white uniforms with steel helmets brightly polished and shining. As they marched off the ball field to the band stand where the speakers were waiting to be introduced, they were followed by a whole troop of admiring youngsters who no doubt are only waiting for the day to come when they will be grown up and can join out with a similar group. At the band stand the corps played a stirring concert, which was generously applauded.

During the afternoon, those who did not attend the ball games were splendidly entertained by the C. H. Cleveland Harbor District Boys Band of San Pedro. These young lads, ranging in age from 7 to 15, are first-class musicians. In the two and a half years since the band was organized it has had a surprising growth in numbers and popularity. Starting with 18 boys, the membership now includes nearly 500, divided into four sections, the beginners, third band, second band and the first band which is the finished product.

The first concert of the organization was given July 21, 1931, at Warner Bros. Theatre, in San Pedro. Since that time the organization has played 95 public concerts and appeared in numerous parades. It is not commercially and no charge is made for its services. The band was organized as an educational project designed to give the young musicians a chance for advanced study in music and drill in team work. It is widely known as the finest boys' band in this section of the country.

Thanks to Happy Wintz and the Standard Oil Company, those who were gathered about the band stand were able to hear perfectly all the music and speeches. A microphone and loud-speaker system was installed which brought all that was said on the platform plainly to those even on the outskirts of the crowd. Fred Bobb, of Long Beach, took the care of the loud speaker arrangements in the grandstand while the ball games were in progress.

The program of advertising was carried out on schedule. Secretary L. J. Gilmeister of the Chamber of Commerce acted as master of ceremonies and his well-chosen words were enthusiastically received.

City Councilman W. H. Tolson, chairman of the park committee, welcomed the crowd in a brief speech in which he stressed the fact that this park is the property of the people and urged all, especially the residents of Torrance, to make use of it.

Miss Dana Merkel, prominent M-G-M motion picture star, made a personal appearance and expressed her pleasure at being invited to take part in the civic celebration. She had a special interest in the celebration, she said, because her husband was a member of one of the ball teams which had entertained the crowd. Miss Merkel is the wife of Ronnie Durkin, employed in the statistical department of the Columbia Steel Company.

Honorable John R. Quinn, chairman of the board of supervisors, delivered the dedication address. His speech was brief but expressed his desire that the new enterprise in Torrance should be the greatest benefit to its citizens. He praised this community for its forward-looking spirit and commended all who had been instrumental in bringing about the successful termination of the park enterprise. Incidentally some credit is also due to Mr. Quinn for his aid in supplying some of the funds which paid for labor to improve the park, a portion of which was county money.

The afternoon program closed with the singing of "America" by the audience, lead by Rev. George Elder.

Prior to the program Congressman Charles J. Cullen was introduced and received a big hand from the crowd. In the evening, the young people of the various churches held an inspirational service at 6:30, which was followed by union services at 7:30 which were attended by the largest crowd ever assembled at a religious service in this city, according to those in charge. Some 500 people occupied the benches and listened to a splendid address by Rev. Edwin P. Ryland, of Hollywood, who spoke on the "Trusteeship of Life." Loud speaker arrangements for this service were made by Paul Gillam.
