Do you like to glance at a page or two from several books before you decide which one you want to read? The paragraphs below are taken from books which are favorites with boys and girls. First try to guess from what book each comes; then look at the answers at the end of this column to see if you are right. To read the rest of the stories, ask for the books at your branch of the Los Angeles county public library.

"Well, there are others just like you, Tom, I've not the least doubt. But we have taken care of that. Nobody will get lost in that cave any more."

"Why?"

"Because I had its big door sheathed with boiler iron two weeks ago, and triple locked—and I've got the keys."

"Tom turned as white as a sheet."

"What's the matter, boy? Here, run, somebody! Fetch a glass of water!"

"The water was brought and thrown in Tom's face."

"Ah, now you're all right. What was the matter with you, Tom?"

"Oh, Judge, injun Joe's in the cave!"

Amid the roar of the thundering waves I suddenly heard the cry of "Land, land!" while at the same instant the ship struck with a frightful shock, which threw everyone to the deck, and seemed to threaten her immediate destruction.

Dreadful sounds betokened the breaking up of the ship, and the roaring waters poured in on all sides.

Then the voice of the captain was heard above the tumult, shouting, "Lower away the boats! We are lost!"

"Oh, Katrina!" they cried, in a breath, "have you heard it? The race—we want you to join!"

"What race?" asked Katrina, dubiously. "Don't talk all at once, please."

Everyone pointed and looked at Rychle Forbes.

"Why," said Rychle, "we are to have a grand skating match on the twentieth. It's all Hilda's work. They are going to give a splendid prize to the best skater."

"Yes," chimed in a dozen voices, "a beautiful pair of silver skates—perfectly magnificent! with oh! such straps and silver bells and buckles!"

Twenty Members of Revolver Teams Start Practice

Members of the Revolver and Rifle Association held their first practice shoot at the Columbia Steel range Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning, with some good scores recorded for the first day's work. Fred Anderle nicked the target for 250 and 255 in the two practices; slow fire, his record being high for the week.

Other members of the teams who made low scores were handicapped for various reasons, unfamiliar or defective weapons, nervousness at firing in the presence of a crowd, and will be able to make a much better showing later.

About 20 members showed up to practice, and this number will be increased as soon as all are equipped with proper weapons and ammunition and are able to arrange their business hours to suit.

anger and surprise, to be held so by his leg and hindered from continuing his merry course and struggled obstinately onward. Peter screamed, "Held! help me!" for he couldn't get up and was almost pulling for Distoffnick's leg.

Red Cross Roll Call Will Open On November 11

Call For Members Goes Out; Drive Continues to Thanksgiving

Under the leadership of Mrs. Flora Waters citizens of Torrance are organizing for the Red Cross membership roll call which opens Sunday, November 11, and continues through Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

Every man and woman is invited by Mrs. Maxine Smith, who has been appointed chairman of roll call, and by a host of co-workers, to join the American Red Cross. She says:

"States in the Pacific area are urged to enroll 500,000 Red Cross members that this great humanitarian organization may continue its relief and welfare work for thousands of beneficiaries. Our local branch's quota is 436 members. Certainly we can achieve and exceed this figure if each person does his or her part."

Between now and Armistice Day local roll call workers will place in commanding positions Red Cross posters and window cards. The poster for this year shows a sympathetic Red Cross nurse, kneeling, and enfolding in her arms a boy who is the picture of distress. A shadow lies back of the two figures but light is striking them as they turn uplifted faces to the future.

The window card and informative literature emphasize the fact that the Red Cross is steadfast as a lighthouse.

Every new member receives a Red Cross button and from the windows of homes will be displayed stickers bearing a large Red Cross and, where all members of the family join, they will receive a special Red Cross window flag indicating that fact.

All except 50 cents of each membership goes to support activities of the local Red Cross branch. Among the citizens volunteering their services as roll call workers are Mrs. Esther Butler and Mrs. Eva Kellton.

Safeway Store On Sartori Is Completely Modernized; All New Fixtures Installed

A large corps of mechanics were busily engaged in day and night shifts this week in an extensive modernization of the former Piggly Wiggly store at 1315 Sartori avenue, Torrance, which hereafter will be known as a Safeway Store. The interior of the building has been redecorated, all new fixtures have been installed, and the entire store brought up to the high standard of attractiveness and efficiency typical of the most modern Safeway markets.

A new meat display case has been installed, which not only affords customers to select their choice cuts of meats with the utmost ease, but also assures the maximum protection to the meats by a modern and efficient refrigeration system.

Larger quarters have been provided for the fruit and vegetable department, enabling the new Safeway Store to handle a greater
