"Peck's Bad Boy" Opens At Plaza, Hawthorne Today

The Fox Film presentation of "Peck's Bad Boy," which will be seen at the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, three days beginning today, was acclaimed by Hollywood critics at its preview showings as a "new American classic" and "a vital human document for every man and woman."

That brilliant and appealing young player, Jackie Cooper, is the star of this human film story. Jackie is seen as a fine two-faced boy who is nearly crowded out of his father's life and affection through the plotting of an unprincipled aunt and her no less unprincipled son.

Not even in "Skippy" or "The Champ" has Jackie Cooper had so good a role, it is said. His performance as the younger Peck is certain to be remembered as a climax to all the young man's past achievements.

In the opinion of Hollywood, "Peck's Bad Boy" is in no sense a "kid" picture—that is, not the type of juvenile picture usually associated with that designation. It is an adult story, told in an adult way. Which fact will in no way interfere with its enjoyment by children, it is added.

Revolver Teams to Shoot For Turkey

Five members of the Revolver and Rifle Association are going to eat turkey free after the 22nd of December, but which five will be the lucky ones will depend on the result of a shooting match held on that date. The teams will be made up of Fred Astaire, Harry Boynton, Ernest Ashton, Herb Summers and Frank Schumacher, No. 1 team, and Hugh Eckersley, Gene DeBra, Everett Travell, George Dolton and Percy Bennett, No. 2 team.

The prize will be a 30-pound gobble (dressed weight) and those who lose will have to pay for him. The selection of teams brings together some of the best shots in the association. Average scores put the two five-man about par, as far as ability is concerned and the result should be about the difference of one bullseye.

WITH A SKY OF DEATH ABOVE

WARNER BAXTER appears as Lieutenant Steve Warner, promoted by death to fill his captain's place in the thrilling drama of "Hell in the Heavens," produced by Fox Film and directed by John H. O'Shea.

One of the most enthralling and spectacular screen romances of recent years will be shown two days at the Torrance Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, next week. This is the Fox Film production, "Hell in the Heavens," starring Warner Baxter. Based on one of London's biggest stage hits, "The Ace," the new picture tells an absorbing story of death and danger in the skies above No Man's Land. Warner Baxter, daring American flyer, has but one great fear. That is the "fear of being afraid." Haunted by the nightmare thought of his own plane in flames, he must conquer himself before he brings to earth the vauntless "Baron," most desperate of all German aces. Conchita Montenegro, dashing young Spanish actress, plays a French girl quartered in the same chateau where the American outfit twirls each day to battle. Through the love of this girl,

Optimism Forces Football Expert to Choose U.S.C.

Football fans now have nothing to look forward to, but the game next Saturday between U. S. C. and Notre Dame and the big event of January 1 at the Rose Bowl when the Alabama Crimson Tide meets the Stanford Indians. Notre Dame goes away to a bad start with a defeat by Texas and has lost to Navy and Pittsburgh. Victories over Purdue, Carnegie Tech and Wisconsin, restored the morale, and the South Bend boys finished up their season well, with wins over Northwestern and Army.

U. S. C. has played a game of hide and seek all season, winning some games and losing others, until even the shrewdest expert turned dizzy watching their gyrations. Saturday's game will be another puzzle to the fans, with Notre Dame, decidedly, if not on the long end of the betting. The South Bend boys may cop. Again they may not. Over confidence against a team which looks to be a set-up but which has shown flashes of real football may prove their nemesis. Notre Dame's victory over Purdue, can be said to be the only real proof of their excellence, for the Boilermakers have always been a tough thorn in the side of the Big Ten, which is composed of plenty tough teams. Wisconsin and Northwestern were the weak plasters of that conference this year, so that victories over these squads can not be looked upon as any evidence of real caliber.

U. S. C. with a defeat by Washington to grip them may be fired up to unknown capabilities. There will be nothing surprising in a victory by the California boys, nothing but an "I-told-you-so" in a victory by Notre Dame. The team that gets away to an early start and profits by the breaks will win. This expert declines to state which will be on the long end of the score, but confidentially speaking, is taking U. S. C. How's that for optimism.
