Frankie Darro, screen star, will appear in person on the stage of the Lomita Theatre at every show this Saturday, June 15, in connection with the presentation of his latest serial, "Burn 'Em Up Barnes," which begins at the Lomita Theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Snappy Fashions Attract Women

Fine fashions and feminine follies provide the intriguing background for the cleverly constructed plot of "Women Must Dress" with Minna Gombel and Gavin Gordon coming to the Torrance Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Wallace Reid, widow of the noted screen actor, was the producer.

"G-MEN" AT LOMITA TONIGHT

With the eyes of the nation focused on a Department of Justice's pursuit of the Weyerhaeuser kidnapers, theatre goers will be interested in learning details of Uncle Sam's battle against such organized gangs of crooks, which is daringly portrayed in the new picture, "G-Men," showing at the Lomita Theatre tonight, Friday and Saturday.

A Light Moment In Dark Mystery

A between-drama-mystery scene in RKO-Radio's "Star of Midnight," shown tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Torrance Theatre, as William Powell and Ginger Rogers take time out from tracing down a murderer and a missing stage star. The two appear on the screen together for the first time.

West Stripped Of Its Glamour By Eggleston

The atmosphere and the characters of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" strike us as strangely unreal and exaggerated today, but Eggleston achieved his greatest distinction due to his inexorable fidelity to fact as he saw it.

The officials of Monogram Pictures have endeavored to make as faithful a reproduction of frontier life as Eggleston himself portrayed in "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" which comes to the screen of the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, Wednesday and Thursday, June 19 and 20.

The picture deals with the experiences of an Indiana youth, made homeless by the ravages of the Civil War, who secured a position as a teacher of a back-country district school.

"The Hoosier Schoolmaster" features the sturdy help which the teacher continually gives to the distressed, and the final realization of his love for Hannah, a down-trodden girl of fine spirit, who begins really to live under the new light of affection.

UNDERGROUND passages revealed IN CHINATOWN

San Francisco's great Chinatown is seen as it was never presented before in "Chinatown Squad," the stirring Universal mystery coming Sunday and Monday to the Torrance Theatre.

Not only does the picture show the picturesque, narrow streets of this fascinating section, but there are many intimate scenes, both exterior and interior, including the famous telephone exchange, in charge of Chinese girl operators and bustling calls in English, Mandarin, Cantonese and several other Chinese dialects.

Lyle Talbot, Valerie Hobson, Hugh O'Connell and Andy Devine are featured in "Chinatown Squad" which was directed by Murray Roth.

The deadliest and most treacherous garden spot in the world is that narrow strip of land along the Gulf of Siam, near the equator, known as the Malay Peninsula.

Many white men have disregarded this ominous warning, and gone in; but few have returned to tell the story of primitive savagery and venomous animal life that only this wild, exotic region can weave. For in this impenetrable jungle, every shrub and vine is literally loaded with poison.

The living drama of this little group reaches its climax when McCrea is lured from his wife, Joan Bennett, by the doctor's vampire sister and Miss Bennett becomes critically ill. Then a riot in the hospital endangers all their lives.

Under the desperate stress of the emergency Miss Colbert and Boyer force their differences, work heroically to set things right again and discover in the process that their pretended hatred had really hidden a growing love for each other.

Unkissable Una Merkel Gets Kissed At Last In Latest Role

Una Merkel, the unkissable, finally has been kissed. And the kisser is none other than that Beau Brummel of the flickers, Charles Butterworth.

Hollywood had about given up. Una, the film folks said, would never be kissed. It just wasn't in the cards.

She would always be the comedienne friend of the glamorous star. A bridesmaid, maybe, but never a bride. Una herself was resigned to the fate of a kissless screen life.

But up, at that fearful moment, popped the gallant cavalier, Charles. "Some day," he exclaimed, "I will claim her!"

"My hero?" Una is reported to have said, upon hearing this. As all the world loves a lover, it wasn't long before Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in the person of Producer Edgar Selwyn, opened love's start path with the announcement of "Baby Face Harrington," a story from his own successful stage play.

The new comedy, opening Tuesday and Wednesday at the Torrance Theatre, features the team as man and wife who are torn from their domestic embrace only long enough for Charles to be mistaken for a nasty outlaw!

That mother in the pulsing drama, based on the successful stage play by Marie Perle, has four children upon whom she has bestowed the full flower of a great mother affection and care. Now, when they are grown up, each is suddenly overwhelmed by catastrophe that threatens ruin of home and happiness.

Face to face with her own guilt, in having pawned her children, the mother instantly goes to battle to right all wrongs and conquer all obstacles. How Miss Robson achieves victory makes an absorbing climax to a story replete with comedy, romance and drama.

Preston Foster is co-featured with Miss Robson, and the cast includes William Bakewell, Florine McKinney, James Bush, Suzanne Karon, Samuel Hinds, Leon Ames and Clifford Jones. Charles Vidor directed. Milton Krims wrote the screen play.

Coming Sparkling Musical Comedy Next Week "Naughty Marietta," the sparkling musical comedy that everyone is talking about, will be shown at the Torrance Theatre next week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy have the leading roles. The companion feature will bring Sally Eilers in "Alias Mary Dow."

"Private Worlds" With Boyer, McCrea, Colbert, At Plaza Sunday

Phyllis Bottome's widely read and engrossing story of a woman who learned to cast aside the dream of love for reality, "Private Worlds," has been filmed by Paramount and comes Sunday to the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, with Claudette Colbert in the starring role as a woman doctor.

Her two professional colleagues are Joel McCrea, whom she likes and respects, and Charles Boyer, a French doctor whom she instinctively dislikes.

The living drama of this little group reaches its climax when McCrea is lured from his wife, Joan Bennett, by the doctor's vampire sister and Miss Bennett becomes critically ill.

Then a riot in the hospital endangers all their lives. Under the desperate stress of the emergency Miss Colbert and Boyer force their differences, work heroically to set things right again and discover in the process that their pretended hatred had really hidden a growing love for each other.
