exports. Now she takes less than 48 percent. As a nation we are importing much more raw material. In fact our purchases from the ten leading typical countries of Latin America and the Far East—rubber, tin, wool, hides, tea, etc., increased 362 percent since 1918, while their sales to the rest of the world during the same time increased but 85 percent. And these same ten countries are the heaviest purchasers of our manufactured commodities.

Location Ideal
"Any gulf port, like Mobile at the ocean end of an inland waterway, or Houston where courageous enterprise brought vessels over 40 miles to a basin, then barges over seven miles to the center of town?"

Seattle, where $6,000,000 were spent on an eight-mile inland waterway with lifting locks?

New Orleans, where $20,000,000 were invested in a five and one-half-mile industrial channel to Lake Pontchartrain, with locks?

Any gulf port, like Mobile at the ocean end of an inland waterway, or Houston where courageous enterprise brought vessels over 40 miles to a basin, then barges over seven miles to the center of town?"

Even if they had the advantages of easy access to the sea, the availability of diversified domestic raw materials, abundant water and cheap power, or could openly compete in any other way, they still are on the wrong side of the Panama Canal that takes heavy toll on every ton of merchandise, finished or raw, passing through in either direction.

Other Advantages
"We not only have geographical advantages, but no other locality offers the variety of raw products, or their ready availability that our area commands. No wonder General Lansing Beach said: 'I'd start tomorrow building here an industrial harbor even if it means an outlay of more than $15,000,000. Its effects would be felt as far as Kansas!' and when someone asked if the acreage in this vicinity would be benefited, he said: 'If a free port were also established, the benefits would be felt as far as Maine.'"

Henry Ford said: "The location of an industrial plant is largely determined by the cost of its power and the price at which it may make and ship goods—as far as possible we locate all our plants on tidewater and inland waterways—it is less expensive to load boats than freight cars."

Those two exemplary industrialists are quoted, said Mr. Andreani, "because it happens they have not been able to locate manufacturing plants in this locality for the reason we did not have ready for them the necessary tidewater facilities. (Mr. Andreani recently told members of the city council that had Ford been able to secure adequate acreage on tidewater, he would have built automobiles from pig iron up instead of merely erected an assembly plant.)"

This area is ideal for a free port, or foreign trade zone, said Mr. Andreani, quoting Congress' action recently taken to provide for a free port and the state enabling act recently signed by Governor Merriam.

There is considerable discussion as to the advisability of a costly ship channel or preference of a large canal network in this slough area. . . . Hamburg (employing 1,000 industrial workers) is the hub of a river and harbor canal system. Sixty-five percent of the tonnage in New York harbor and 90 percent of London's are handled on lighters. Were it not for barges those great ports could not be so great as they are.

Major MacElwhee's splendid volume on Ports and Terminal Facilities: "The industrial port is primarily a canal adjunct even at the seaport because the productivity of deep waterfront by intensive development is too great to admit of its use for general industries. The problem is now to tap the upland. It is how to extend the benefits of the waterfront to the maximum distance inland. The proportionate cost of harbor improvement of a given unit of waterfront varies in-

Wishes of Local Residents Ignored In Appointment of School Principal

An Editorial

Sincere and keen regret is felt throughout Torrance because of the sudden transfer of Arthur G. Waidelich, principal of Torrance high school. During the past three years that Mr. Waidelich has been in charge at Torrance high, he has won a warm place in the hearts of students and townsfolk alike. His able leadership, sympathetic understanding of student problems, and his devotion and enthusiasm to Torrance high won him the respect and confidence of all. School spirit and loyalty were greatly enhanced through his guidance.

Keen as our disappointment is in the loss of so valuable a man in our community, we would indeed be ungrateful if we permitted our selfish loss to stand in the way of Mr. Waidelich's promotion to a larger school in the Los Angeles city system. As far as you are concerned, Arthur Waidelich, we offer our sincere congratulations and hope that your outstanding ability will be further recognized by additional promotions in the future.

However, the summary appointment by the Los Angeles city board of education of another principal at Torrance without even consulting the wishes of local parents and property owners is naturally resented. While it is too early to form an opinion as to the qualifications of Mr. Waidelich's successor, the fact that he is being transferred from a larger to a smaller school is not encouraging. What we resent is the autocratic policy of the Los Angeles city board in totally ignoring the wishes of local residents in making the appointment to such an important position in our civic life. We pay a fancy price for school facilities, some $200,000 more per year than it costs the Los Angeles board to conduct our schools and pay the interest and payments on our bonds. But we are wholly ignored when it comes to selecting a man to head the most important unit in our school system.

"Prosperize" Cleaning Dept. Opened By Torrance Laundry

Announcement of the opening of a new dry cleaning department, housed in a new building adjoining the laundry plant and equipped with the very latest and most scientific dry cleaning machinery is made by the Torrance Laundry Company, Carson and Border avenues.

Ernest J. Newhouse, graduate chemist from the Bureau of Standards and Research, is in charge of the new department, according to Wm. Rojo, manager of the company, which hereafter will be known as the Torrance Laundry and Dry Cleaning Company.

The new process, under the trade name of "Prosperize," is said to be "the most exquisite cleaning service in America," and was selected after extensive investigation and study of the dry cleaning business by Mr. Rojo.

All cleaning is done within one machine in 45 minutes. Operations have been reduced to an exact science with solutions measured to the fraction of an ounce and the process is timed to the fraction of a minute, making it unnecessary to depend upon human fallibility with its uncertain results.

The solution has been so perfected by chemists that it is fireproof and explosion-proof. It so readily vaporizes that it leaves absolutely no odor or no dust-catching film on the garments. It is distilled fresh for each cleaning, which is a guarantee that all garments go into fresh clean solutions. All odors, even perspiration odors, are removed. As the cleaning is done at low temperatures, colors are unharmed and even are restored to their natural lustre. Shrinkage is also eliminated by the "Prosperize" cleaning.

The new machinery automatically regulates the length of time necessary for cleaning different fabrics. In addition to the cleaning machine, there have been installed in the new department automatically controlled steam pressing machines, and a steam hand pressing iron for handling small detail work such as pleats and ruffles. "The entire equipment has been installed at considerable expense," said Manager Rojo, "but we believe we have provided the very finest cleaning service known to modern science, and we are sure our patrons will appreciate the superior type of work offered. However, by taking advantage of the 20 percent discount allowed to cash and carry customers, the prices are as low as any usually charged for ordinary work. Another advantage of "Prosperize" process is that four-hour service may be given if desired. Mr. Rojo extends a hearty invitation to the public to inspect the new dry cleaning department.

enjoyable to the audience and the dog attends the concerts each night, listens intently and then barks in applause. Wild Duck Nests in Tree PENDLETON, Ore. (U.P.)—A Mallard duck nested and laid eight eggs in an abandoned maple nest high up in a cottonwood tree.

Shopping Area Divided
CLEVELAND (U.P.)—Euclid Avenue, Cleveland's principal shopping street is uniformly divided as to men's and women's shops. The north side of lower Euclid, with one or two exceptions, is devoted exclusively to men's clothing, shoe and haberdashery stores. The same holds true with women's shops on the south side of the street.
