Last League Game

Hollywood Here Tomorrow Night For Last Fray of Federal League Season

Hollywood returns to the local field tomorrow night for the last league game of the season against the Bluebirds. Smartering under their defeat of a couple of weeks ago, when the Birds plowed them under to the tune of 14-4, the Sheiks will go their best to turn the tables. Since the Birds have won two and lost four of the second half games, the result will have no bearing on the play-off, which has slipped out of the grasp of the home boys with their defeat last Friday night at the hands of the San Pedro Medaks for the third time this half.

Milford started for the Birds, but the lad who looked like a world beater against Montebello was just another chucker to the Medaks, who pitted up a 6-0 lead in the first four innings. Frank Lavano, Medak pitcher, was just as effective as he always has been until the sixth when a switch in the line-up brought some new Birds to face him. Lendel Elder put the Birds in striking distance of winning when he broke his bat on a fast one that rolled far out to left center for a homer with three aboard.

Van Vliet went in for Torrance, and pitched the best game of his career this year. Van held the Medaks without a run until the tenth inning. In the Birds' half of the ninth Van put his mates back in the running with a homer with one on to tie the score. The handful of fans in the stands went berserk at the prospect of pulling the game out of the fire so late in the contest, but their hopes were dashed in the tenth. Hobbeman dropped a fly ball after making a running catch, and two Medaks scored. The Birds were out in short order in their half and the final count stood 8-6 in favor of the visitors. A tough game to lose after the heroic efforts of Elder, Van Vliet, Freddy Montgomery, Speed Landroth, the Jenkins boys, Dale Merritt, Red Moon and others. The boys fought all the way even though the battle looked hopeless, and with a bit of luck in the tenth would have pulled the game out.

Unless some games are arranged with Covina, the Forrest Market and maybe one or two others that are sizzling in the skillet, the Birds will retire after tomorrow night to wait for the break of another season. They have had a very tough season, from all angles. The chances are that they will return to the fold in the National League next year, unless there is a complete reorganization of the Federal set-up with a more efficient staff of officers to lay down and enforce rules protecting players and managers.

The story of the Federals, however, has been much the same as the history of both the American and National Leagues this year, as neither of them has been very successful. Poor attendance and lack of interest has been the rule in all three leagues, which does not help the game any.

COUNTY FAIR PLANS GREATEST RACING PROGRAM IN HISTORY

Covering a period of seventeen days and three nights, the horse racing program offered this year at Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona gives every promise of being by far the greatest event of the kind in the history of the huge agricultural and industrial exposition. Opening Friday, Sept. 13, the opening day of the fair, there will be both running and harness races every afternoon and on the nights of September 22, 23 and 24. Legalized pari-mutuel wagering will be on week-day afternoons only. In anticipation of the record number of entries preparations have been made to care for a thousand horses.

Torrance Tartars Meet Oilers Oct. 4 In Marine League Opener

Since the transfer of North Long Beach out of the Marine League, only five teams are left in the set-up, which will give one team a bye in each week of the scheduled football games. Football will start early this year, the first game to be played on the high school field on October 4, when Torrance Tartars will meet El Segundo.

Torrance gets a break this year in meeting the weaker team first, with the annual fray against Narbonne coming off on October 25 on the latter's field.

Coach Bernie Donahue will have a big job on his hands this season to rebuild a team. Only four lettermen are left, 17 having been lost by graduation. The big four are McFadden, end; Richhart, center; Javens, half back; and Smith, guard.

However, there are quite a few promising prospects, some of whom saw action as substitutes last year.

Harry Richhart will have competition for the center position from Ray Richhart, Richard Miller, Ralph Gilbert and Otto Koch.

Prospects for the guard position are Phil Jensen, Max Smith, Leo Rossett, Guy Davis, John Gandsey and Tom Sloan; candidates for tackle are Frank Thompson, Donald Haynes, Leonard Harris, Harry Oswald, Carlisle Wright, Joe Miles, Chris Dodos and Lloyd Barnes; Johnny McFadden, Jack Kent, Carl Gilbert, Hubert Luck, Forrest McHenry, Erich Chaplin and Art Hedrick will fight it out for the end job, with McFadden practically sure of one position due to his stellar work last year, and Luck for the other because of his speed, unless Donahue decides not to risk a star dash man on the football field.

At quarter, Bobby Trezise, a made-over end; Louis Madore, Bobby Peckham, Art Basile and Hob Turner, are trying for the job, and for the half back position Donahue will have to choose from Jack Javens, one of the greats last year; Curnel Javens, Jimmy Amman, Truman Waugh, Merle Richardson, Hank Pupikoff and Jimmy Herlett.

Chuck Smith, former guard, who tips the beam at 295 pounds, Frank Doner and Bob Silken are looking for the call at fullback.

The team will be green and inexperienced, but the boys have had the benefit of previous sound teaching and no doubt will soon find themselves once they get into action.

The Notre Dame system which depends on speed and deception for its success, will continue to be the style of play.

Several local athletes are planning to enter Loyola college in the next few weeks. Hal Smith, whom critics consider the best quarterback to ever be produced in Torrance, may enter in the Playa del Rey institution instead of New Mexico State Teachers, where he planned to attend early in the summer. Bill Acree, former plunging halfback on the Torrance team, may also attend Loyola, he cannot make up his mind where to attend New Mexico of Loyola. If Bill and Hal enter the Catholic school, Torrance will be well represented on the freshman squad this year, along with Roger McGinnis and John Selby. Tom Lieb certainly has picked up the cream of the crop in Torrance.

Herman Hamman, former line star on the Tartar team, returned to Santa Clara university last week to further his education and play football on the Bronco's team. Santa Clara will have one of the best in the coast this year. Coach Clipper Smith has lots of confidence in Hamman, and believes that he will be one of the most outstanding tackles on the entire coast this year. This will be his first year on the varsity team, and he had to beat out three seniors in spring practice to earn his position. First string tackle Local fans will have a chance to see the local boy play this year, when Santa Clara visits Los Angeles to play Loyola college, December 1.

Short As They Are

Gordon Clark, former University of Southern California football star, signed a contract to coach football at Compton Junior College, starting next month. Clark will also assist track and baseball. Coach Deacon Pine, former football coach will be in charge of all athletics in the school. One of the oldest track records in the books is the one held by P. J. Ryan, who broke the 16-pound hammer world's record with a toss of 189 feet 6.6 inches back in 1918.

Headquarters of the Amateur Baseball Congress of the United States has been established in Miami, Florida, for the purpose of building the diamond sport up to a level in world amateur circles that it can be made a sport of the Olympics program. Unless something is changed in softball tactics, the game will soon be a washout, except for small industrial and playground leagues. At the present time, the "big leagues" of soft ball are fighting and scrapping among themselves for the best players, paying some high salaries (scaled expense money) and others nothing. Bicycles will speed down the famous Atlantic City boardwalk on Sept. 6 when amateur champions from all parts of the United States vie for the Boardwalk Challenge Trophy posted by the Cycle Trades of America. Navy football practice starts next week, with several teams from the various ships of the fleet. Games will soon be scheduled for Saturday and Sunday afternoon, on the three navy fields in San Pedro. Chuck Smith, last year's guard on the Torrance high school's championship team may be seen holding down the fullback position this year, when Coach Bernie Donahue trots his 1935 edition of the fighting Tartars on the field.

Following is the order in which the Kwanis Jintars finished the season in batting, including all league games and the series games just closed:

The home run leaders were Sleeth, 8; Ammond, 3; Jackson, 5.

In another column on this page you will read a story about the football teams on the coast, written by the sports editor, Lute Fraser. I disagree with her when she picks U. S. C. to lose six games this year, although the Headman Jones also says that the school may lose at least five of their games. The Trojans will not lose over three games this season. They will lose against Notre Dame for one of the games, and probably will lose two between Stanford, California, Illinois or Washington University. The sports editor and yours truly have already had this out and have made our little side bets.

Advance Dope On Football Games For the Season

Sports Editor Dares Lightning By Forecasting the Standing of Teams

With the football season on the coast only a few short weeks away the sports editor is going to be foolhardy enough to do a little advance prognosticating. A long distance forecast leaves many opportunities for a blithe raspberry to come from the so-called experts who will do a little egg-spraying later on when the games start. This story should have been written last week, for its publication now leaves the sports editor open to the accusation of being a copy cat, since Howard Jones, Trojan coach, has come out boldly with the statement that his team would lose five games this season. The sports editor was one jump and one game ahead of Jones on this guess, as she had already opined that the only teams to be knocked over by the Trojans would be Montana, Oregon State and Washington State. But for the benefit of the doubting Thomases, the sports editor will produce the list of games to be won or lost, compiled ten days ago, before Jones' advance forecast, and on the release of the coast schedule.

The sports editor boldly declares that U. S. C. will lose to College of the Pacific, Illinois, California, Stanford, Notre Dame and Washington University. Beats that, on your mirror, and check 'em off as the Saturdays roll by. The sports editor hereby declares that Stanford will win the coast conference title by winning all eight of its games, and that St. Mary's will top the list of non-conference teams by going through its schedule undefeated. California will win five and lose three to Stanford. St. Mary's and Santa Clara, Washington and Oregon will win five and lose three, making it a three-way tie for second place. U. C. L. A., which has more non-conference games scheduled than its rivals will win six and lose three to Stanford, California and the University of Hawaii. Washington State will win four and lose five; Oregon State will bring up the rear with three games won and seven lost.

Non-conference teams will finish in the order named: St. Mary's, Santa Clara, University of San Francisco, Loyola and College of the Pacific. By omitting to state which games will be won or lost, with the exception of U. S. C. and California, the sports editor leaves herself an opportunity to switch horses in the light of actual performance when the season starts. However, the prognostication as to the number of games, stands as is.

Starting September 25, the egg-sprayer contest on picking winners and scores, will begin. The Herald three will be in it, with the addition of one or two others who fancy themselves as experts. Send in your nomination if you want to get in on the great guessing contest. There are no admission fees and no prizes, just a little good clean fun.

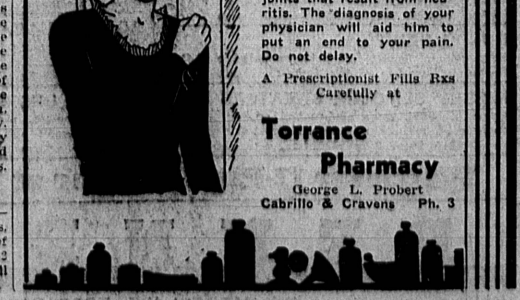

Street Literally on Fire FT. MYERS, Fla. (U.P.)—Firemen answered one of their most peculiar calls when an alarm was given that a street was on fire. They found the report correct. The street, built of sawdust from a neighboring lumber mill, was blazing. They put out the fire after several hours' work.

Novice Hunter Brings Home Buck Martin Marshall, employed at the Torrance Electric Shop, went on his first hunting trip last week and came home with a fine three-point buck. Martin borrowed a complete outfit from his boss, B. J. Scott, who is one of Torrance's most successful hunters, and he gives the entire credit for his luck to Scott's equipment, which over a period of years has been well trained by its owner. Out of 29 hunters at Oak Grove camp, Martin brought in one of the two bucks bagged there last week.
