

Adventure On The Highway Leads To Inevitable Climax . . . Romance

Thrills, love, adventure and comedy are mixed up in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Pursuit," which is the attraction at the Torrance Theatre, Wednesday only. The story introduces Chester Morris and Sally Eilers as a new romantic team with Henry Travers in the great comedy role.

CAREER more vital than MARRIAGE

Olivia de Havilland, beautiful new screen "find" now playing the leading feminine role in Warner Bros. production, "The Irish in Us," which comes to the Torrance Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is Hollywood's latest "career" girl. A gorgeous brunette, at just the age when romance looks most alluring—18—she stoutly insists that her career is more important to her than marriage.

who can do it is pretty well—but I wouldn't care to risk it myself. After her first role in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Olivia was awarded the feminine lead opposite Joe E. Brown in "Alibi Ike."

She plays opposite James Cagney in "The Irish in Us," a picture that combines riotous comedy with tense dramatic situations and a most unusual romance. The cast includes three Irish stars, James McHugh, besides Miss de Havilland, Allen Jenkins, Mary Gordon and J. Farrell MacDonald.

Bette Davis In Newspaper Film Comes to Plaza

"Front Page Woman," one of the most realistic and exciting of any newspaper screen-drama with Bette Davis and George Brent in the stellar roles, will be the feature attraction at the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, Sunday and Monday.

It is entirely different from any other newspaper play, dealing with the bitter rivalry of two star reporters, a man and a woman, on opposition papers, who are really in love with each other, but do their best to "scoop" each other. The story starts in the press room of a state penitentiary, where the girl reporter faints before she is able to file her story. To save her he files his own story to her office with a note to have it rewritten. But the note is overlooked and the same story appears in the rival newspapers.

Both are in the "dog house" and the girl is furious, believing her rival had double crossed her. He asks her to marry him, but she refuses and determines to show him that she really is a good "newspaperman."

The two are assigned to a murder and "alternate" in scoring "beats" on each other until the final climax.

Bette Davis plays the role of the newspaper woman, and George Brent is the reporter who is in love with her but who scorns her ability until she eventually beats him at his own game.

The picture is based on the Saturday Evening Post story, "Women Are Bum Newspaper Men," by Richard Macaulay. Michael Curtiz directed it from the screen play by Laird Doyle, as adapted by Roy Chanslor and Lillie Hayward.

Feud of Rival Captains Climaxed By Sensational Steamboat Race

What happens when one great American humorist meets another great American humorist? In Fox Film's "Steamboat Round the Bend" this situation is bringing gales of laughter as WILL ROGERS and IRVIN COBB match wits and wiles as rival steamboat captains on the old romantic Mississippi.

A rip-roaring river race, the most sensational Hollywood has ever screened, brings Will Rogers' grand new mirth and drama spectacle, "Steamboat Round the Bend," which opens today at the Torrance Theatre, to its thrilling climax.

No element of popular entertainment has been overlooked in this colorful story of the Mississippi in the romantic 1880's.

"Steamboat Round the Bend" affords Rogers his greatest comedy opportunities in his hilarious rivalry feud with Irvin S. Cobb, noted humorist and writer, as rival steamboat captains. And it also allows for masterful dramatic acting as he saves the romance of two lovable youngsters, Anne Shirley and John McGuire, from disaster.

The story revolves about Rogers' adventures as a steamboat captain on the muddy Mississippi. He longs to have his young nephew, John McGuire, as his pilot, but when the boy commits murder to protect Anne Shirley, the girl he

W. C. Fields Admirably Suited For Role In Fun Film At Plaza

Above all else W. C. Fields, screen comic, has a unique style of delivery which has endeared him to millions. Fields, who is starred in Paramount's "Man On the Flying Trapeze," coming Sunday and Monday to the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, declares he acquired his raspy voice as a youngster, and never has lost it. Few people know he started his career as a vocal comedian, turning to pantomime when he left for abroad.

The Fields delivery is unique. The lines themselves, with the raspy Fields voice reciting them, gain a distinctive humor that no other funny man on stage or screen can imitate or equal.

Paramount put him in a picture called "International House." The public roared. He was given a film contract by Paramount and put upon his own picture, privileged to write his own pictures and his own dialogue.

In "Man on the Flying Trapeze" Fields is seen as a shy, down-trodden clerk, brow-beaten in the office and hen-pecked at home. The film tells how this "poor man" tries to sneak away from his office and his nagging wife and mother-in-law to attend a wrestling match.
