SCHOOL REPORT SHOWS EXCESS COST TO CITY

HIGHER COSTS OF L. A. CITY SYSTEM SHOWN BY AUDITOR

Study of Salaries Paid to Teachers in Various Torrance Schools Also Makes Interesting Reading

Torrance taxpayers contribute a fancy premium to the Los Angeles city board of education for the operation of local public schools, a premium which runs into thousands of dollars each year over and above the actual expense of running the schools. And if one takes into consideration the huge administrative expenses levied against Torrance property owners due to the high salaries of "higher up" officials in the Los Angeles city system, the savings to local taxpayers by operating their own schools would be much greater.

These facts are strikingly brought out by a study of the report recently filed with the Torrance city council by C. J. Rambo, city auditor and certified public accountant, after an extensive and detailed study of records of the Los Angeles city board of education and the county superintendent of schools.

Figures submitted by Auditor Rambo cover a three-year period, from 1932 to 1935, during which time revenues (not including taxes for bond interest and redemption) from the Torrance elementary and high school districts totaled $798,141.79 and expenses totaled only $711,469.58, or an EXCESS paid into the Los Angeles city school district of $86,672.21.

Perhaps the most important highlight of Auditor Rambo's report is the comparison which he draws between the cost of operating the WALTERIA school, which is under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles city system, and the PRAIRIE AVENUE school, which, although it lies within the city limits of Torrance, is not included in the Los Angeles city system but is operated by the PERRY school district, or county schools.

The average daily attendance of the two schools is practically the same, that of the WALTERIA school being 147 and of the PRAIRIE AVENUE school, 149.

While the two schools serve practically the same number of pupils, the costs of operation are widely different. The PRAIRIE AVENUE school has a principal receiving a salary of $171.00 per month and four teachers who are paid $142.50 each per month, or a total monthly salary for instruction and office purposes of $741.00.

The WALTERIA school has a principal who is paid $252.00 per month, six teachers receiving $209.00, $200.00, $182.00, $151.00, $144.00, and $132.00 respectively per month. A part-time clerk is also employed on a monthly salary basis of $43.50, making a total monthly salary expense for instruction and office purposes of $1318.50, or $572.50 MORE per month than is paid for the same services in the county-operated PRAIRIE AVENUE school.

In the WALTERIA school the principal is rated as a supervising principal and does not teach classes. A part-time clerk is employed at a monthly salary of $43.50, who also does not teach.

In the PRAIRIE AVENUE school, the principal teaches regular classes and no clerks are employed.

For the year 1934-35, administrative expenses at the PRAIRIE AVENUE school ran 37 cents per pupil, whereas at the WALTERIA school the same expenses were $8.40 per capita, or the same as elsewhere in the Los Angeles city elementary school district.

Clipper Ship Brings Letter to Torrance

Mrs. J. MacDougall, 2065 220th street, was a proud woman Monday when she received a letter from her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Baker, written in Manila, Philippine Islands, and mailed on the first trans-Pacific airmail service, December 2. The letter bearing $1.70 in postage, was carried by the famous China Clipper, reached San Francisco December 6 and Torrance on December 7. It was delivered to Mrs. MacDougall Monday morning.

Ordinarily, says Mrs. MacDougall, mail from the Philippines requires 30 days for delivery. The airmail letter came in one-sixth of that time.

Mrs. MacDougall's son-in-law is a navy man, attached to the U. S. S. Pillsbury, with the Asiatic fleet.

The letter, the first to reach Torrance, with its postmarks showing its transportation on the famous clipper ship, is highly prized by its owner, and in years to come if it is ever for sale may command a nice figure from collectors.

ing in the deaths of Dorothea Daly, William Von Brieson and Ada Von Brieson. Mr. Young was chosen as a member of the jury before whom the case is now being argued.

Later Mr. Young and other members of the jury will be taken to the Santa Monica hospital where Laura Von Brieson is still in a serious condition. She is a sister of William Von Brieson.

Lee Haskins Drowns

Water-Filled Boots Drag Young Torrance Man to Death In Ocean

A pair of new rubber boots, purchased the day before at a local store, dragged Oscar Lee Haskins, 1006 Sartori avenue, to his death in the ocean off Rocky Point Sunday morning. Haskins fell overboard from a motorboat, but managed to hold on to the gunwale for some moments before the increasing weight of his heavy clothing pulled him down and he sank beneath the kelp-filled waters off the Palos Verdes coast.

The young man, age 29, who has been employed at the Columbia Steel plant here since 1932, had gone with the owner of the motorboat, Jack Bubeck, Jr., 4561 Mathew street, Gillette Manor, on a deep sea fishing trip.

The men lashed the rudder of the boat so that it would continue in a slow circle leaving both of them free to attend the fishing lines.

Haskins in some manner stumbled and fell against Bubeck, knocking him overboard, and, unable to maintain his own balance, also fell into the water, but managed to catch hold of the boat.

Bubeck, although hampered by heavy boots and clothing, managed to pull off his boots and kept himself above water. He could not swim fast enough to overtake the boat which continued to circle around. Haskins held on for three rounds of the 1000-foot circle, but was finally exhausted and lost his hold.

Heavy fog prevented other fishermen in the vicinity from seeing the plight of the two men. Finally Henry Smith, a fisherman of 207 No. Juanita street, Redondo Beach, attracted by the cries of hundreds of gulls, rowed to the spot and rescued Bubeck. Haskins' hat was found floating on the water but the man had disappeared.

Change of Plan Necessary For Sewer Project

Vista Highlands Project Can Not Be Completed In Required Six Months

According to Mayor Scott R. Ludlow, who reported on proceedings held at the meeting of the sanitary sewer district directors held Tuesday, the proposed Vista Highlands sewer project will have to be revamped and divided into two projects in order to come within WPA provisions. No projects will be accepted, he stated which can not be completed within six months, or by June 30, 1936.

The Vista Highlands sewer project would not be completed in that time, he said. For that reason, in order to secure federal assistance, the plans will be revised and the project will be offered as two projects.

In regard to the work proposed in South Torrance, the job can be completed in the required time and no change in plans will be necessary.

NEW BIDS ASKED FOR BUILDINGS

Suicide Attempt Halted By Police

Redondo Beach police arrived at a spot near the Hollywood Riviera clubhouse about 1 p. m. Tuesday in time to save the life of Walter Alexander, 40, residing at 3759 Greenwood, Venice. Alexander had connected a piece of garden hose to the exhaust of his car to bring the fumes into the machine. He was unconscious when found and in a few minutes more his attempt would have proved successful.

A passerby saw the situation and notified Constable Woolsey of the Palos Verdes Estates who called Sergeant T. Chittenden. The Redondo officer notified Torrance police but went immediately to the scene and succeeded in saving the man, who it is said has been in ill health, under a doctor's care, and had made one previous attempt on his life about a week ago.

Alexander was given into the custody of the Torrance officers and his wife was notified. He was able to return home with her in a short time.

The Palos Verdes Hills were the setting of another and successful suicide last week when Ray Raymond, of Long Beach, took his life by a similar method. His body was found by John Dellaqua of Harbor City in a car on Western avenue near the Miraleste school. Raymond had been at one time prominent in radio work.

Work On Water Units Ordered To Proceed

Final Approval Received This Week From State PWA
Supervisor

Receipt of a letter from A. D. Wilder, PWA supervisor for the state, under date of December 7, brought word to the city council Tuesday of the approval of contracts to the Hoagland Engineering Company and the Fred D. Weber Company, for the construction of two units of the city water system. Work on the units will get under way within the next two weeks.

The Hoagland Company secured the contract for the pumping plants on its low bid of $34,970, and the Weber Company will construct the distribution system at the contract price of $49,676.

Word has been received that the low storage tank is nearly completed and will be delivered here to be put in place within a short time.

The two water wells, drilled on the city property west of Cedar avenue, are practically complete. Due to unavoidable delay in starting work on the wells the Roscoe Moss Company applied to the council for approval of an extension of time in completing its contract, which was granted and the request has been referred to the PWA officials for their final approval.

Contract on this work carried a time limit of 65 days with a penalty of $100 a day for exceeding the limit.

ARCHITECTS TO REVISE PLANS OF BUILDINGS

New Set-up On Civic Structures Designed to Come Within Budget

In order to bring the construction of the new city hall and jail, auditorium and library buildings within the amounts set by bond issue and federal grant the city council at its meeting on Tuesday evening rejected all previous bids and moved to call for new offers on all three structures.

Revised specifications submitted by Walker and Eisen, architects, were approved and the publication of notices to contractors was ordered, setting the date for opening of new bids on Friday, December 27, at 3 o'clock p. m.

In preparing the revised specifications, the architects separated from the construction of the buildings, all items which could be classed as equipment, which had been included in the original draft. Length of the auditorium building was cut from 145 to 130 feet, two porches were removed from the plans, and alternate bids were arranged covering other features of the construction, so that the city may accept or reject them, dependent upon the new figures submitted. Among these the principal item is a projection room and apparatus. Seating capacity of the auditorium will not be materially reduced by the changes.

At the city hall, in addition to segregating equipment items, the size of the proposed hall has been reduced, and garages will not be included.

Separate proposals will be asked later on for supplying the equipment items not now included in the specifications.

The action of the council was taken on being advised that under the terms of the bond issue and grant the money thus provided could not be used to cover both construction and equipment, as the federal money is supplied to cover 45 percent of the cost of materials and labor for construction only.

Federal money allotted for the projects amounting to $54,607 was 45 percent of the estimated cost of the buildings. However, when bids were opened, it was found that the offers slightly exceeded the estimated cost, which furnished an additional reason for rejecting all bids and calling for others on the basis of revised plans.

No action was taken by the council to select a site for the library building. Two petitions signed by 149 residents protested the proposed plan to locate the library on lots south of the city hall site at the corner of El Prado and Cravens, because of its proximity to the jail. Signers of both petitions requested its location in the vicinity of the high school.
