Enrollment Campaign Planned

Tenth District Will Launch Membership Drive In October

HOUSEHOLD ARTS By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

Candle Holders
There's no need to buy special candle holders to match the color scheme of your table. You can make your own and cover them in crepe paper which comes in every color imaginable. Here's how it's done: Take a small custard cup, place candle in center, and fill wet newspaper crushed together around candle to make it stand up. Then cover cup with crepe paper in the color desired. Paste the side edges, stretch upper edge out to give a petal effect, and tie a bow of crepe or ribbon around candle.

If you want to decorate a plain candle holder, all you need to do is cut an eight-inch width of crepe across the grain, fold through the center and gather on the fold, tying the double ruffle with spool wire around the candle holder. This double ruffle is very effective under the candle.

Crepe Paper for Formal Tables

Darker colors but in vivid rich tones take precedence over pastels in the new table settings. The smart hostess uses crepe paper in these new colors for her semi-formal dinner party. A fold of crepe paper in jade green, duobonnet, or coronation (a lovely deep violet), makes a most attractive center runner when placed over a paper tablecloth. The color scheme is further carried out in candles, their holders beruffled in matching shades of crepe paper, doilies with gathered crepe ruffles, and gaily covered nut cups. Paper plates and cups bordered in the new shades achieve a dignified air in their simplicity of design. You can even buy them with gold or silver borders.

VACATION AT CRESTLINE

Mrs. Orda Peitzke, manager for the Southern California Telephone Company at Torrance, and her daughter, Miss Doris Peitzke, left Saturday to spend two weeks at Crestline.

According to Mrs. H. F. Kinnear, membership chairman for Los Angeles Tenth District California Congress of Parents and Teachers, plans are now under way for the huge enrollment campaign which will be held throughout Tenth District following the schools of instruction which will be held in council territory from Sept. 11 to 28 inclusive, with parent teacher officials and chairmen conducting the schools.

This campaign which begins Oct. 5 to 19 inclusive, is to interest all people in children, thereby linking the home, school and all educative forces in the life of the child by creating better citizens, who shall be strong in body, with alert minds and be physically fit.

They encourage every parent and teacher and all public-spirited citizens to enroll in the parent teachers association in their community when the campaign opens. The P. T. A. is concerned with all problems relating to the welfare of children in home, school and community, interprets the school, its curriculum and policies to the community, gives real service to the home by training for parenthood and homemaking and combines forces with the school in preparing the child to effectively cope with the economical and social changes of the world today. "Enroll for good homes, good schools and good citizenship," will be the slogan.

New York Fashions By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

With the weight of the depression slowly lifting, a revival of elegance in feminine attire has asserted itself. This new trend is expressing itself particularly in lingerie, and one instance is the revival of the most luxurious of negligees and lounging costumes. All-lace negligees have become tremendously popular, and justifiably so, for they are the epitome of feminine grace, dignity and beauty. All-lace pajamas and night-dresses are popular too, and these are generally very simple in line, depending upon the fineness of the lace for their distinction. Adorable, demure little nightdresses have been created for the debutante, and these are becoming the rage of young things who have been brought up during the age of attempted masculinity, and who have at last rebelled.

Luxurious Garments

More luxurious even than the all-lace underthings are the dainty garments that are lace-trimmed in new ways, and that have all the line and style qualities that are part of the general feminine vogue in silhouette. One charming nightdress seen recently was of flesh colored satin, and had a deep yoke of hand-run Hencon lace, with four tiny pearl buttons fastening the lace yoke at front. In the front of the lower edge the same lace ran quite deep, and was graduated to a narrower lace edge at the back. Another graceful and beautifully fitting nightdress was of peach crepe for the main part, with chiffon for the bodice and for the three-inch ruffle at the lower edge placed right over the crepe. The lace trimming in this gown was exquisitely placed, with a two-inch insertion around the rather high round neck, and then vertically at each side of the bodice, and again around the waist.

Dainty and Alluring

This new feminine trend is also bringing in its wake new and more elaborate slips and combinations. The latter are especially in demand for the tailored suits that were so good in the spring and promise to be even more prominent in the coming fall. They are dainty and alluring to please the most feminine heart, with lace trimming and insertions and applied motifs that lend greater importance than ever before to the smart woman's lingerie wardrobe.

Beautiful lingerie is the dearest possession of feminine apparel. Why else then the thought and care which every girl gives to the choosing of her lingerie trousseau? No matter what the vogue calls for in tailored or feminine clothes, she can still indulge all of her love and fancy for delicate, lacy apparel in the things she wears closest to her, and in her own leisure hours at home.

A jury of artists will select first, second and third choices and two honorable mentions in each class.
