

EPISCOPAL LADIES PLAN BAKE SALE
 Saturday, Oct. 31, ladies of St. Andrew's Episcopal church will offer Hallowe'en dainties at moderate prices. Pumpkin pie, donuts, candies, cookies, cakes and salads. The sale will be held at the entrance to the First National Bank building from 9:30 until food supply is sold. Mrs. Emma Evans will be in charge of the sale.

Song Leader

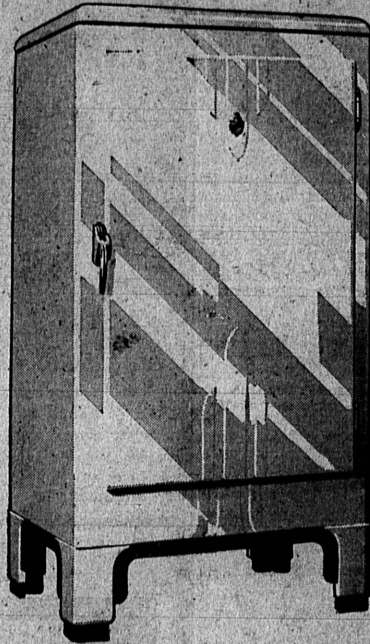

Ladies,—may we present Mr. Charles Watkins, a fellow of jovial temperament and pleasing personality who will be master of ceremonies at the Cooking School. Mr. Watkins possesses a splendid singing voice and will lead the audience in community singing on Friday, the final day of the three-day Cooking School.

Mr. Watkins is a representative of the Knudsen Creamery Company, whose high quality cottage cheese and buttermilk is recommended and used exclusively by Nina G. Abbey, home economist at the Cooking School.

Harriett Leech Flowers, popular local florist, will furnish the stage decorations of potted palms and plants for the coming three-day Cooking School, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Leech, who is well known in Torrance for her beautiful and unusual floral creations, will also display large bouquets of fall flowers which will be given away at the close of each day's class to fortunate members of the audience.

Much interest and appreciation on the part of the assembled guests was shown at the last Torrance Herald Cooking School when Mrs. Leech followed the present plan of giving away the bouquets each day. Mrs. Leech promises a display even more beautiful than before as the fall flowers are at the height of the season and are more desirable than usual.

Look at 'This Grand Free Prize!

Here is the Grand Prize at the Cooking School,—a beautiful new air-conditioned Albatross ice refrigerator with ice capacity of 75 pounds. It sells at retail for $69.50, and will be given away to some fortunate person at this week's cooking school. A large number of other valuable door prizes will also be awarded.

Wise Buying Adds To Woman's Reputation for Good Cooking

A reputation for serving delicious meals depends on knowing how and what to buy as well as knowing how to prepare the various dishes. Often the finest cook can trace disappointment to a poor quality food in the first place. It's not particularly pleasant to labor, no matter how lovingly, over some particular dish that should be appetizing and savory only to have it turn out flat and uninviting.

The wise housewife realizes that no matter how well she can prepare foods, she cannot cook flavor into an inferior quality of vegetable or meat or fish. She knows, too, that even the finest pie crust will not make up for a tasteless filler. The problem is how to be sure that the vegetables or fruits are going to taste the way they should.

That is not such a difficult problem to the present day housewife. Years ago, she had to depend upon her own knowledge. Often she made it a point to select personally everything that went on her table. Today, thanks to the food packer, she can choose with certainty. She can select her vegetables and fruits knowing that the flavor is going to be all it should be.

And flavor is, after all, the important consideration. Looks can be deceiving, but the taste is what we are really interested in securing. And that is where a name like Iris can mean so much to today's wise buyer of canned foods. The Iris experts cannot only know where to find the tastiest, most luscious fruits and vegetables, but they know

Convenience of Neighborhood Grocery Important to Housewife

Every housewife likes to have a good, complete grocery near her home where she can buy anything she wants any time of the day she may need it. Although many people may not give much thought to just what makes a good community grocery store possible, some, very interesting things have been brought but in the newspapers recently by the Weber Baking Company.

It is pointed out that because bread is purchased daily by most housewives, the grocer's ability to keep his general grocery stock fresh and complete depends greatly upon how many customers he can depend on to visit his store daily. It is further shown that bread sales are the backbone of the grocery store. Therefore, it is very evident that when the housewife makes her daily bread pur-
