Supervisors Cannot Probe Election Irregularities, Counsel Declares

While several persons have made allegations unofficially that there were alleged irregularities in counting the ballots at the Nov. 3 election, the board of supervisors can do nothing about it, according to an opinion from the county counsel's office. The opinion written by Deputy County Counsel Fred Cross, was in answer to a request made upon the supervisors to investigate certain alleged irregularities in the count at the election.

Jury Convicts Woman Reckless Driver Monday

It took a jury composed of 10 women and two men but 15 minutes Monday morning to find Mrs. Dorothy Bates, 28, of Inglewood, guilty of reckless driving on Torrance boulevard on the afternoon of Nov. 7. Time for sentence was set at 10 o'clock this morning.

School Board to Re-Hear Elson's Transfer Request

geles system. Since he came here, the principal has been quite active in laying foundations for active opposition to the charter, sponsoring a debate between high school students on the merits of the Los Angeles school system as contrasted with local control of educational institutions and otherwise preparing for a fight against adoption of the city charter from the school angle.

Three Hurt In Auto Collision

Local Reator Figures In Boulevard Crash
Three persons were cut and bruised in a collision about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning on Torrance boulevard at Acacia avenue when J. C. Smith, 1448 Sartori avenue, and Louis F. Conway, 233 South Francisco, Redondo Beach, were the drivers. All those injured were passengers in Conway's sedan.

Cross Dedicated to Pastor's Memory

Members of the Newport Beach Methodist church dedicated a cross on the building Sunday to the memory of the late Rev. Kemp J. Winkler. Rev. Winkler, who was pastor of the Torrance Methodist church for four years and a prominent civic and club worker, passed away early last month at Newport Beach where he was pastor after leaving this city.

Permits for Home, Additions Issued Here This Week

Permits for construction of a $3,500 six-room stucco home and a $200 frame stucco garage were issued Nov. 12 to Howard E. McDonald, of 1519 Acacia avenue, to be erected at 1626 Beech street. M. R. Gray is the contractor.

Drunk Driving Costs Redondo Man $50

Arrested by Officers Schumacher and Evans at Torrance and Hawthorne boulevards early Sunday morning, Charles McEldowney, 32, a "Pennsylvania Irishman" of 316 South Lucia avenue, Redondo Beach, was charged with driving while intoxicated.

S. Claus Unknown To Fed. Bureau

Santa Claus, unquestionably a popular individual at Christmas celebrations, may be somewhat disturbed to learn he doesn't rate with the state unemployment insurance commission.

Attorney Probing Request for License

A request for a license to operate a form of "marble game" using toy horses was made of the city council Tuesday afternoon by a representative of the firm installing the so-called amusement devices. The matter was given City Attorney C. T. Rippey for investigation and decision.

Cross stated in explaining the law to the supervisors.

Siegfried also asserted that the snap tally was a burden to election officials and imperiled the integrity of the county. Cross explained that this tally was made as permitted by a section of the political code.
