

Bids Due Jan. 5

Combined PWA Allocation for New Administration Bldg. Anticipated

Confident that Public Works Administration authorities will approve the combination of the PWA allocation for a new central fire station, a project which has been shelved for the time being, with the granted PWA fund for a new Civic Administration building, the city council issued a call for bids on the latter structure at an adjourned meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The bids are to be opened at 8 o'clock on the night of Jan. 5, according to present plans. The new building is estimated to cost approximately $23,482, of which the PWA combined allocation would be $10,567. However, members of the council point out that the total estimated cost includes the value of the land adjoining the civic auditorium where the administration building is to rise.

This, and other provisions included in the estimated expense to safeguard the continuance of the project once it is under way, will materially lower the cost of the project to the city, they said.

Plans and specifications for the administration structure, which will be somewhat larger than originally planned in order to provide more storage room for auditorium equipment, have been prepared by Walker and Eisen, architects, and are now available to contractors for figuring their bids.

OIL ACTIVITY CONTINUING

Flint No. 1 is already started drilling to deep sands and the C. C. M. O. well is near spudding on its No. 18 rig. All three are within a short distance of Hunt No. 1.

Drilling in North

Flint No. 1, which was completed on Nov. 29, is now producing its 375 barrels daily of 28.0 gravity, 12.0 cut, 150 pounds tubing pressure and 750 pounds of casing pressure.

C. D. Cather, of Long Beach, is rigging up 2500 feet westerly from the Flint producer. Farther north at Alondra Park, Standard Oil's Bodger No. 1 is around 7800 feet. At Moneta, Universal Consolidated Oil's wildcat is below 5000 feet.

"I think it's safe to say we can look for unexpected developments in the field," Collier said in sounding the views of most oil men in the Torrance area who have looked over the deep sand situation in the past few days.

On the other end of the proven producing zone around the harbor is General Petroleum's Terminal No. 1 off Ford avenue near the drawbridge. The latest report is that 1200 barrels of 20.4 gravity oil is coming from the hole daily.

Advertising Chief

ROGER W. BIRDSEYE
Appointed general advertising manager of Santa Fe Railway.

Announcement was made today by W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe Railway, of the appointment of Roger W. Birdseye as general advertising manager.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., he attended Amherst College, received his early business training in New York City. His advertising ability was then employed by the American Real Estate Company. Birdseye enlisted in the Canadian Expeditionary Force in 1914, went to France, was wounded in the battle of the Somme, and was invalided home. He was awarded the British Distinguished Conduct medal.

The Santa Fe first employed him as special representative of the advertising department at Santa Fe, N. M., in 1925, to develop general publicity for the Indian detours inaugurated at that time by Fred Harvey and the Santa Fe. His work was gradually broadened to include the preparation of all Santa Fe advertising material and he created a direct-by-mail department that achieved excellent results.

NURSE IS PATIENT AT MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Being confined in Jared Sidney Torrance Memorial hospital is nothing new to Mrs. Hazel Haworth, 1107 Portola avenue. But being confined there as a patient is new to her. She is a nurse at the institution and began undergoing medical attention Tuesday.

SHOP TALK

By RAY BROOKS

George Morton, big razor and lather man of the American Barber and Beauty Shop, is justifiably proud of the back end of his tonsorial parlor since the place has undergone a most thorough renovation. You see, the back end is a beauty establishment wherein ladies are put through a series of grotesquely medieval machines and weird appearing gadgets, to emerge with the bloom of adolescence on their cheeks and the glory and radiance that was naturally theirs in days gone by. Had Ponce de Leon lived today he could certainly have found his fabulous Fountain of Youth right in the back room of the American Barber and Beauty shop.

Solving many what-shall-I-give-her puzzles for perspiring males this Christmas is Bea Christensen's Permanent Wave Certificate... a top-notch gift to any woman who has hair and to any woman who needs it "permanent waved" which they all have and which they all do.

These certificates you buy, give to the lady, and she can use it anytime... no so bad! not so bad!

NECKTIE CATASTROPHE

In conversation with Jess Shippe of the Torrance Investment Co. the other day I learned that at his wedding he plunked himself up before the minister with his necktie on WRONG SIDE OUT! Which shows to go ya... I mean goes to show ya... well, what does it show? That he had his necktie on wrong side out, I guess.

HAY! HAY!

Monsieur Lovelady of the Torrance Feed and Poultry Market, broke out this week with a new Chevrolet truck in which he carts about sundry and divers bales of hay, sacks of grain and squawking chickens. Lovelady reversed things and got one for two... he traded in his old Cheve and an ancient Pontiac for the new buggy.

EVEN SANTA GETS THEM!

A certain Santa Claus in a big store uptown takes time out to gripe about the type of woman who lugs little Johnnie up before him and yells in a loud voice, "Are you the same Santa Claus who was here last year?" Ain't it awful?

THIEF!

Harvel Guttenfelder frantically shouted through the phone one morning last week that his Christmas Treasure Hunt deposit box AND all the stubs had been stolen, got lost or had wandered off; asked my advice as to what to do about it.

While I was floundering about for an answer he suddenly broke through the deep dark funk that had gripped us both and announced that from where he was standing at the phone he could see the stub box over in the corner atop a can of oil.

And to think that I wilted down a nice fresh collar all for naught.

KEEN OBSERVER

In the midst of the recent British crisis involving "I Would Be Queen" Wallis Simpson and "I Don't Want To Be King" Edward the Eighth, a small and boggled newsboy stood on a corner in Los Angeles and with his newspaper out before him, bellowed "Look what love has done! King Edward abdicates!"

HAPPY DAYS!

Scarcely a merchant do I talk with these Christmas days who doesn't feel pretty good about the way gift dollars are pouring into his cash register. Almost every one exclaims that so far this month his business is far ahead of the same period last year and by Christmas eve a very satisfactory mark will be reached. Last year, you know, was far ahead of 1934. Some even expect this holiday trade to exceed that of 1929, the peak year.

OPEN GARAGE RANSACKED LAST NIGHT; $40 LOOT

The open garage door at Mrs. Mark A. Wright's home, 1728 Andree avenue, was an invitation to burglars last night and they responded by taking garden tools, valued at $10, and smashing a glass window to Mrs. McDonald's auto parked inside and making off with two blankets and removing the spare tire. This loss was estimated at $30.
