Horses Ridden By Torrance Youths Sink In Quicksand

A wrecking truck equipped with block and tackle was called to rescue two horses belonging to the Santa Fe Riding Academy, of Long Beach, Saturday afternoon, after the steeds had bogged down in quicksand in the Los Angeles river bed. Police and volunteer workers had labored for an hour to get them out but the horses only sank deeper. The equines had been ridden by two Torrance youths, John Young and Walter Claus, who were attempting to pass under the Willow street bridge when the horses sank to their knees in the treacherous sand.

SPORT SHOTS

By Bob Lewellen

Now is the time of the year when writing material for football begins to run low and all of the newspaper "eggsperts" start to pick their all this or all that teams. If the readers of the Torrance Herald can stand it yours truly, with the help of his many assistants, offers you the All-Marine League teams. They are as follows:

FIRST TEAM

G. Johnson	L.E.	Torrance
L. Savant	L.T.	Narbonne
Ford	L.G.	El Segundo
Moses	C.	Gardena
G. Smith	R.T.	Torrance
J. McGinnis	R.T.	Torrance
J. McFadden	R.E.	Torrance
VanRiper	Q.	Gardena
Henderson	L.H.	Gardena
J. Javens	R.H.	Torrance
Hayward	F.	Leuzinger

SECOND TEAM

S. Angelich	L.E.	Narbonne
H. Bond	L.G.	Torrance
J. Selby	L.T.	Torrance
J. Grubbs	C.	Torrance
Grace	R.G.	Gardena
Irby	R.T.	Gardena
Kinsey	R.E.	Gardena
H. Smith	Q.	Torrance
H. Watson	L.H.	Torrance
Xbarra	R.H.	Gardena
T. Adzovich	F.	Torrance

Tomorrow Bernie Donahue will gather his champions and equipment together and journey to Los Angeles to play in the Coliseum. This event will long be remembered by students and townspeople of Torrance. Torrance will be playing Polytechnic high school, one of the best teams in the Los Angeles board of education circuit. Torrance should be able to score in their 20 minutes of playing. Many local people are planning to see this big game. Torrance has been given a special section for their fans.

At the present it looks as though the Tartar team will be minus their star end, Johnny McFadden. Johnny is one of the best ends ever to be developed at the local farm. But his dreams of being able to play in the Coliseum may be smashed. McFadden injured his right leg in the South Gate and has been under doctor's orders ever since. Well maybe Torrance will get another chance next year and Johnny's dreams will come true.

Orchards to you, Ben Comrada and your Narbonne Gauchos. Ben brought his football team to Torrance last Thursday to help Bernie Donahue get his Tartars in shape for the Polytechnic game. The Gauchos had closed their season and turned in their suits but were good enough to don them once again to help Torrance in a scrimmage game. Lomita plays the same system as the Polytechnic team. This certainly shows good sportsmanship after being beaten by the Tartars a few weeks ago the boys were willing to come back and take a few more knocks that come in the game just to help a rival win a game. May you have a great football team next season Ben Comrada. Here's luck.

Dick Hassler, nephew of Bob Sleeth local sports follower may be the winner of the C. I. E. championship this year if his Cathedral high school team plays as good football in the playoff as they have been playing all year. Hassler has been head of athletics at the Catholic school for several years and has won championships in his league in baseball and football year after year but hopes to win the State title this year. Hassler is a graduate of Santa Clara and will be remembered for his ability in football while playing for the Broncos. Miles Regan, former San Pedro high school and Santa Clara football star is Hassler's assistant. Ask any boy on the Tartar squad of Torrance if these boys from Cathedral are tough. Especially their fullback.

Wingless Chicken Favored Pet
PAINESVILLE, O. (U.P.)—A five-month-old Rhode Island Red hen, born without wings and only about half the size of other chickens hatched at the same time, is a special favorite in the coops of Mike Marano. The fowl is in perfect "health."

New Device to Improve Police Marksmanship

LOS ANGELES, (U.P.)—Peace officers may soon be equipped with an attachment for their service pistols which will make each officer a deadly marksman in the dark.

The device, known as the Automatic Nite Sight, the invention of A. B. Scott, Los Angeles engineer, soon will be in quantity production, although offered for sale only to city, county and state peace officers.

The invention, which fits securely on the muzzle of a regulation police pistol, consists of a small flash bulb, a clover-leaf shaped aperture and a system of lenses.

In operation it throws a clover-leaf shaped beam of light along the path of the bullet, with the bullet striking the point where the inner points of the four beams of light meet. The secret of the device is in the lenses, which enable the light to illuminate the object aimed at, although a person in front of the pistol cannot see the rays.

Each set of the equipment will bear a serial number and sales will be registered just as the sale of pistols is now recorded.
