No Man's Land No Longer

This may be one of the rewards of growing a moustachio for Centinela Days, Ingewood's Annual observance, which starts on August 9 this year.

Something new under the sun? Well, maybe not, but anyone who ever heard of a man getting a permanent wave put in his whiskers—and a crimp put in his pocketbook by the same operation—and especially a he-man preparing for one of those pioneer celebrations, seeking to bring back the Old West and the wide open spaces or places where men are men and the women invade the barber shops?

Be that as it may, Dick Ahrendt, Ingewood man about town, is having his facial fringes frilled, all in the spirit of good clean fun and it's for Centinela Days, Ingewood's annual fiesta of the August moon, the 9th to 14th inclusive.

There will be fried chicken luncheons every noon from Monday to Friday, dancing under the moon to a fine orchestra every night, an hour of free theatricals, all in the open air, and free, before the dancing.

Two outstanding events, the Bridge Tournament under the Stars on Wednesday night, August 11, with an entire block roped off and 1000 players after costly prizes.

Saturday, August 14, the Grand Opera "Aida" with 300 voices and 90 in the orchestra, playing in the famed Centinela bowl at popular prices.

Thursday there's a pet parade sponsored by the Kiwanis club and Friday a 50-mile bicycle race, a tri-cycle race and a style show of the latest in sports wear for bicycling.

200 Guests Attend Rites at St. Andrew's Wednesday

Masses of huge white dahlias, white larkspur and gleaming candles at the back of the altar and chancel of St. Andrew's Episcopal church formed an attractive setting for the wedding of Marian Agnes Hodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hodge of Lomita, to Hiram Harold Carpenter of Harbor City Wednesday evening. Rev. Thomas R. Marshall officiated in the presence of some 200 guests.

The bride, lovely in shimmering gown of white tulle, her finger tip veil held with a halo, carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, lily-of-the-valley and orchids. She was given in marriage by her father.

Many of the members of the Torrance club National Business and Professional Women, who attended the meeting Monday evening at the home of Aida M. Chase, 2117 1/2 Carson street, felt the need of brushing up on their spelling, geography and history.

After papers had been marked each contestant drew a paper with a number from 1 to 100 and added the number to their combined marks. PARIS (U.P.)—Draped effects provide the most intriguing of summer evening gowns in Paris. Draped bodices, swathed waistlines and skirts draped a dozen different ways may be adapted to suit the individual.

Sleek crepes are used to fashion sophisticated draped gowns and some are shown with skirts that fall in uneven pointed hemlines.

The romantic silhouette with voluminous skirts flaring from a tiny waistline is seen in organzas, tulles, and mousseline de soie. Dainty trimming follows the youthful mood, and puffed sleeves often complement the broad, low necklines.

Laces are adapted to many types of summer evening gowns and ribbons in long streamer sashes, tiny bows and insets are frequently used for trim and color contrast.

Dinner gowns, designed for the most part, with high, close-fitting necklines, are outstanding because of their severity and smartness, of line. The gowns themselves are simple in detail, but many have jackets ranging from bolero to finger-tip length that vary as to design and fabric.

Birds, flowers and butterflies deck day summer prints, and embroidered, flowers are sometimes used on white organza to lend a note of color.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP Draped effects are decidedly new for summer evening gowns. Embroidered white organza is a youthful favorite.
