Congressman Colder at the Capitol

By CHARLES J. COLDER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5, (Special to The Herald)—At last the signs indicate that adjournment is not far in the distance. You detect it by the bills that are brought out by the Rules committee, by the suspension of hearings by committees, and by the general rush to get special and private bills on the calendar through the House. There is just one uncertain quantity that might tie us up for an indefinite time—that is the Court Reform bill.

The President's program has been dehorned and devitalized, and practically thrown on the junk heap. The opposition in the Senate was too strong. The bill that will be reported out will retain only minor features of the President's proposal. There will be some attempts at amendments, and this is where a jam might happen. But members are so tired that it is not likely that long debate will now occur.

The Court bill that will be passed will not settle the issue by any means. You are very likely to hear much for and against the President's program in the next campaign. It is an issue of tremendous importance and will continue to agitate the public mind. The Supreme Court has encroached on the authority of Congress to such an extent that some conclusion must be reached as to the jurisdiction of both the Supreme Court and Congress. Not only has the President seen his most important measures invalidated, but Congress has also received body blows from the decisions of the Court.

Another subject of legislation that the President recommended is the farm program. This, too, has been scuttled and will be passed at this session. Congress is not altogether to blame on this subject, for the farmers' organizations themselves are very much divided; so the members of the committee from various sections of the country are likewise divided. So, farm legislation will go over to the next session of Congress.

Another important part of the President's program is the labor legislation, which establishes minimum wages, maximum hours and regulates child labor. It has similar objectives to the N.R.A., which was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. The present bill approaches the same problem from a different angle. Like the N.R.A., it is receiving violent opposition, but a peculiar phase of this battle is that most of the opposition now comes from the southern states, where labor is cheap. Many industries have been gravitating to the southern states for a number of years, because of climatic conditions, the nearness to raw materials, and particularly the cheapness of labor.

This bill has already passed the Senate, and it is very likely that it will pass the House. For the second time, it will put the questions of wages and hours and child labor up to the Supreme Court. The interesting question arises—will the Supreme Court stand pat on its former decisions, or will it reverse itself and uphold this wages-and-hours and child-labor bill? As you will remember, the Supreme Court held for many years that the States could not regulate wages and hours, but in a recent decision, reversed itself.

Find No Clue To Attacker Of Little Girl

So far as it is known here, no clue leading to the arrest of the lead-burned, be-whiskered fiend who attacked a little-eight-year-old Redondo Beach girl in a corn field just within the western city limits has been unearthed by authorities working on the case. After the attack, which occurred the afternoon of July 19, the child made her way to a house and told what had happened. Local police have traced every clue without success, according to Police Chief G. M. Calder.

SPORT SHOTS

not be placed on the honorary team because Loyola is not in the city school system. Jack, although only five feet 11 inches tall and weighing 165 pounds, will be a good man to watch in the annals of basketball.

TRACK TIPS

In track, Troy is fortunate in having George Sangster, five feet 10 inches and 160 pounds, the brother of Bill Sangster, who is now a Sophomore at the Trojan Institution and who was somewhat sensational last year as a Freshman hurdler and quarter back. George is credited with a 23.7 sec. 220-yard low hurdle race, which marked him as the best intercollegiate low hurdler in U.S.A. last year.

In John Dills, Troy gets a pole vaulter who will enter from Modesto, Cal., as a Junior, thus being eligible for next year's varsity competition. Dills has a record height of 14 feet 3 inches and is quite consistent at 14 feet. He ought to be just what the doctor ordered for Dean Cromwell inasmuch as Meadows and Sefton are through with collegiate competition. However, things won't be so gloomy with Howe back for two more years and "Bud" Day, who stayed out of competition last year, entering again. It rather looks like Troy will again have three pole vaulters on one team that will be able to do 14 feet or better.

W. Brown, Louisiana high school boy who was a member on the 1936 Olympic team in the event of hop, step and jump, will do a little broad fall if nothing happens. He is capable of doing better than 24 feet.

The most sensational high school boy of the present day is Bob Peoples, of Oklahoma City, who has thrown the javelin about 220 feet. Bob was also an "all Oklahoma City" football star for two years. Yes, sir, Bob is a prize athlete if ever there was one. He is wanted by almost every school in the states. As yet, the young star has not committed himself to any university, but Southern Calif. has high hopes of landing him.

BONTHON BACK

Bill Bonthon, of mile running fame, who just failed to make the 1936 Olympic team when he was defeated by Cunningham, Venzke and San Romani, has recently been quoted as saying he may again return to the track next year merely to get the exercise. Bonthon says he never felt better physically and mentally than he did while he was in good training. Golf is Bill's favorite sport. He shoots anywhere from the 70, to 120, but wants to become a consistent 80's golfer.

Calder, With Redondo Beach and sheriff's officers, the city authorities have been working on the crime constantly, trying to get some lead on the discovery of the degenerate. He is described as being six feet tall, medium build, wearing a dark blue shirt, dark trousers, black shoes. He may be far away long before this, Calder said.
