

Candidate Offers Strong Lures for Women's Vote

One gubernatorial gladiator set everyone agog last week when he vaulted into the arena ahead of a full field of opponents, and with a low, sweeping bow, dedicated his efforts: "To the Ladies!"

Unopposed, and as yet, unopposed, William Bernard Griffin of San Luis Obispo county is the first candidate for the governorship of California ever to appear with a campaign reading like a woman's club project list.

"Equal pay for men and women doing the same kind of work" is one salient point in the program of Candidate Griffin. That will ring with a note of familiarity on the ears of Business and Professional Women, who for years have struggled for just such equality.

50-50 on Jobs

Further interested is stirred among women voters generally (and among 35,000 women voters specifically) by a proposal for a twenty-five percent salary increase for teachers.

A pledge, if elected, to name as many women as men to appointive public office, is another unprecedented bid for the votes of women—at least, for those with predilections for public service.

Meanwhile, mothers will be considerably seriously another promise of ten-dollar monthly allowances to families of children in grammar school, and similar fifteen-dollar stipends to those of high school students.

Finally, a plant which would accomplish "complete abolition of child labor" appeals, in Mr. Griffin's behalf, to thousands of club women whose organizations are pledged to just such a policy.

Depends on 'Impulse'

The altruistic candidate does not propose to lower taxes—except for exemptions on property valuations under $2,500. But he does insist on "reductions in governmental operating expense."

For those of the Missourian school, who subscribe to the theory that campaign platforms are built to be torn to shreds—and Utopian plans pulled apart to find what makes them tick, Mr. Griffin supplies the answer—even before it's asked.

"An irrepressible human impulse" is going to finance the program! And the "impulse," let it be known, is gambling.

After getting all enthusiastic over the gallantry of gubernatorial gladiator Griffin, it is somewhat exasperating to learn that one of the most expensive women's platforms to see the light of day in California, must depend for its financing on a plan for a "legalized state lottery."

QUESTIONS

Right at the beginning, while you are nice and fresh, pronounce the following words: amenable, inquiry, vagary.

Where did Berkeley, California, get its name? Who was the founder of the Latter-Day Saints? "Mormons" is the name by which the sect is commonly known.

TODAY'S PROVERB

"Early to bed and early to rise Makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

True enough, we guess, but hard to subscribe to at six a. m.

ANSWERS

We hope you pronounced the words correctly. Check up and see: Amenable is a-ME-nable, not a-MEN-able. You should say in-QUIRY, not IN-qui-ry, when using the word inquiry. A vagary is not a VAG-ary, but va-GAY-ry.

Berkeley, California, was named for the Bishop of Cloyne, Ireland, whose name was George Berkeley. His story is a most interesting one.

The founder of the Mormons was Joseph Smith, son of a Vermont farmer. The church was organized in Fayette, New York, in 1830.

New-Type Train Planned by U.P.

More than two years ago W. M. Jeffers, executive vice-president of the Union Pacific railroad, started transportation circles with the announcement that $600,000 would be spent modernizing coach and tourist sleeping car equipment of a then new train named the Challenger which had been operating previously as an extra section of one of the road's limiteds.

Evolutionary, as well as revolutionary, the completely air-conditioned Challenger was operated on the same time schedule with the "crack" train; stewardess-nurses were inaugurated along with low cost meals in the diners, special coaches for women and children, reduced fares and a modernistic lounge car. For the past several months hordes of visitors have been pouring into Los Angeles and southern California in double sections of the Challenger.

Yesterday, Jeffers who becomes president of the Union Pacific, Oct. 1, with the retirement of Carl R. Gray, revealed that on Sept. 15 a new Challenger will begin the daily run between Los Angeles and Chicago. The new train will be of light-weight construction, newly designed coaches, new diners of greater capacity and new locomotives in addition to the many evolutionary policies practiced on the present Challengers.

By CHARLES J. COLDER

WASHINGTON, August 12 (Special to The Herald)—The Senate has stolen a march on the House.

We were expecting a long and acrimonious debate in the Senate on the revised Court Bill, but it went through the Senate with a bang.

Vice-President Jack Garner did his stuff. I have never heard him say it, but I always suspected that Garner gets tearfully bored with long speeches. When Speaker of the House, he had an uncanny way of looking in the other direction when tiresome speech-makers sought the floor.

When the new Court Bill came up in the Senate, he rapped it through so rapidly that some of the Senators did not know it had passed until it was all over.

Then some of them protested and made their speeches after the bill had passed, instead of before. And Speaker Bankhead banged it through the House in a like manner. But it is but a ghost of the President's proposal.

The Senate also whizz-banged the Housing Bill and the Labor Bill through in quick time. Now the House has all three of these bills and also the new Income Tax Bill to consider before adjournment. The farmers also have been on the war-path trying to get their bill in the House before adjournment. Because of their inability to agree in the committee, they were unable to report out their bill in proper time.

HIS BILL PASSES

Everything is hurry-scurry these days. Those with bills on the calendar are quite nervous. I was lucky in getting H. R. 4543 passed before the big jam during the last few days. This bill provides that foreign ships entering our ports for bunkering fuel can buy ship's stores as well as foods, as provided under the old law. It will enable our ship chandlers and merchants to make a good many sales which were prohibited under the old law. The bill also passed the Senate without amendment and is now before the President.

AMENDMENT LOSES

Southern California had to take a drubbing on the Boulder Dam amendment to the Bonneville Bill. The Rivers and Harbors committee reported the amendment favorably. When the bill came up on the floor of the House, the upper-basin states succeeded in kicking the Boulder Dam amendment out of the bill.

The same bill had been reported out of the Senate committee, containing the Boulder Dam amendment. We California members in the House thought we would have another chance, but the bill was referred back to the Senate Commerce committee and the Boulder Dam amendment stricken out. It was reported back to the Senate and, at the request of Representatives from California and Nevada, Senator Copeland, chairman of the committee, sent it back again for a hearing. But in spite of all the battling, the upper-basin states succeeded in preventing an amendment in the committee, and when the bill appeared on the floor of the Senate, the Senators from California and Nevada decided not to inject the Boulder Dam issue; so we are just where we started, and will be obliged to fight the battle again.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Nearly 30 million people are sharing in the benefits of the Social Security Act, passed by Congress. That includes the workers' annuities, the old-age pensions, aid for the blind, dependent mothers and children, and the unemployed. The total Federal appropriations for the aged for the quarter ending June 30th was approximately $150,000,000; for the blind, nearly $6,000,000, and for dependent children, over $17,000,000.

In California, $2,000 aged have qualified and the Federal Government has appropriated $1,695,760.39 for the months of July and August of this year; and 4,800 blind persons have received $129,071.99 from the Federal Government. These amounts supplement the pensions paid by states.
