

Congressman Colden at the Capitol

By CHARLES J. COLDEN
WASHINGTON, August 28, (Special to The Herald)—Speaker Bankhead brought his gavel down with a bang at 22 minutes past 7 o'clock August 21 and adjourned the first session of the 75th Congress. Back in the House chamber the pages turned loose loud yells and shrill whistling. Members, who had been in session since 10 o'clock in the morning, moved out wearily from eight months of arduous labor. A few of the Members linger in Washington to look after unfinished business, while a vast majority started homeward Sunday morning. The Senate had adjourned at 6:50 o'clock 27 minutes ahead of the House.

APPEAL WINS . . .
The last action of importance was the adoption of the conference report on the Deficiency Appropriation. It contained two controversial sections. After the House had passed the bill, the Senate tacked on an amendment providing for a 55 million dollar appropriation for cotton loans so as to keep the price pegged at 10 cents per pound. When the conference report came to this section, there were signs of rebellion from many northern Democrats, who were very much displeased by the coalition of cotton Democrats on the Rules committee with the Republican minority, thereby strangling the Wages and Hours Bill. But general Sam Rayburn, floor leader, and the Democratic and oratorical Speaker, William Bankhead, both appealed to the House for support of this appropriation and the conference report was approved.

ADD TO FOREST . . .
This conference report also provided for a two-million dollar appropriation to add about 700 acres of sugar-pine forest to the Yosemite National Park. The opposition was defeated by a wide margin. So California participated in the benefits of the conference report, which occasioned the last roll-call of the House. The roll-call was demanded on the cotton appropriation, being the 152nd session. There were 200 yeas and 128 nays, and 102 members failed to answer to their names. Most of the absentees had already started for home.

PLEDGED TO FUTURE . . .
There was much disappointment among members that the Wages and Hours Bill got stuck in the Rules committee. A caucus was called for the purpose of forcing this bill out, but it was held Thursday night and a sufficient number of members did not appear. The number required for a caucus is 165, and the roll-call disclosed but 157 members present. One reason for the failure was that many members were tired and worn out and did not feel inclined to attend during the last week when the pressure is heavy, the hours long and everybody tired, and some not in very good humor.

At the caucus, Speaker Bankhead, Democratic floor leader Sam Rayburn, and John O'Connor, chairman of the Rules committee, all pledged themselves to secure action on the Wages and Hours Bill in the early part of next session. The Farm Bill is also one of the measures to which this Congress has pledged itself to early action at the next session. The House passed the President's Reorganization Bill, but it was not acted upon by the Senate.

GARDEN ACRE HOMES . . .
The Housing Bill was also one of the last measures to receive the approval of Congress. It may be of help to the slum districts of the large cities, but it does not promise much outside of these limited areas. The criticism against the Housing Bill as passed is that it encourages a fixed and permanent tenancy instead of ownership. I am one who believes that if the government provided garden acre homes and moved these people from the slums outside to suburban areas, and provided for the sale of these homes on a long-time basis, at a low rate of interest, it would be a much better solution.

NEW POSTOFFICE . . .
Among the bills of this session of interest to the 17th District, was the appropriation bill providing for public buildings. It appears that Wilmington is assured a new postoffice building at approximately $190,000. Other cities in the 17th District that have postoffice buildings on the approved list, but without appropriation as yet, are Avalon for an $80,000 building;

Gardena for a $75,000 building, and Terminal Island for a $75,000 building.
NO DEAD ISSUE . . .
The last hours of the Senate were enlivened by a belated Supreme Court battle. Senator Guffey, of Pennsylvania, in a radio speech, had severely chastised some of the Democratic Senators who had not supported the President. These Senators took occasion on the last day to pour out their wrath on the Pennsylvania Senator. It is another indication that Supreme Court reform may be blocked for a time, but is not a dead issue.

HOMEWARD BOUND . . .
Mrs. Colden landed in New York August 20 and arrived in Washington next evening just as Congress was adjourning. She will visit her mother near Seattle before returning to San Pedro. Abbie Bel is driving to California, and we plan to open the San Pedro office October 1. I will take a few weeks' rest and will arrive about the same time. Meanwhile, the office in Washington will be maintained by my secretary, Carl T. Lindsay, who will take care of the inquiries and wants of the district until the San Pedro office is open. Adios, and I will be seeing you soon.

Labor Day Sales Offers Savings To Motorists

Why spend your Labor Day outing patching old worn tires and cranking your car when you can replace tires and batteries at real savings during Western Auto Supply Company's great Four-Day Pre-Labor Day event that closes Saturday night?" asks E. E. Murchison, local manager of the famous accessory firm. He advises that, in addition to offering extra trade-in allowances on old tires and batteries, the pre-holiday sale also features special reductions on prices of motor oils and many other needs.

"Insure yourself against laborious tire repairs on your Labor Day trip and your family against the accident danger that always accompanies using old worn out tires, by availing yourself of the special low prices on Western Giant Tires featured in this Four Day event," the Western Auto man urges. Pointing out that other extra values offered motorists during this Four Day period Murchison advises that by trading in their old battery on a new one from Western Auto before Saturday night automobile owners may equip their cars for winter at a saving that will please the purse. He also urges motorists who "change their own" to stock up on oil now while the special low prices are in effect. Outdoor lovers, too, will be pleased at the reduced prices that are offered by the accessory store.
