

Former Torrance Boy Scout Honored at Monterey

Grandfolks Here Proud of Youth

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bush of 1303 Cota avenue are candidates for the title "Proudest Grandparents-of-the-Week." And for a good reason.

Their sturdy young grandson, Clarence M. Allen, became the 993rd young fellow in the United States to be awarded the highest honor in the gift of the Boy Scouts of America when the quartermaster badge of the Sea Scouts was pinned on his uniform at the climax of a simple but very earnest and dignified ceremony in the Elks lodge rooms at Monterey Monday evening.

Now in Navy

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Allen, and 11-year-old brother, Gene, witnessed the ceremony from seats on the rostrum with the exalted ruler of the Monterey lodge. Young Allen, who lived with his grandparents here in 1930 and was a member of the Scout troop No. 3, has been active in the Monterey Sea Scout unit since its inception. He won his Eagle Scout rank several years ago. Now attached to the U. S. S. Dobbin, destroyer tender at present in Mare Island navy yard, Allen obtained a two-weeks' furlough to finish tests for the quartermaster rank and took an additional four days' leave to come to Monterey and receive his badge.

Pet Crow Plays Dead; Relishes Steak Dinner

TOMAHAWK, Wis. (U.P.)—Father William Smiths, pastor and bird fancier, lists a once while crow as his smartest pet. Told to "play dead dog," the crow will roll over on its back and lie perfectly quiet with its claws drawn up.

The crow also likes to swing upside down by its claws from the priest's fingers. The bird's favorite meal is beefsteak and mushrooms.

No Accidents Mar 3-Day Holiday Here

Torrance was typical of other cities and communities of the Harbor district which passed the three-day Labor Day holiday without serious injury or other difficulty. Only a few arrests for speeding, two for intoxication and one for drunk-driving were made here over Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

No traffic accidents or injuries to riders or pedestrians occurred in the district throughout the unusually quiet extra-long week-end. Likewise, the fire department here enjoyed a no-alarm three-day period.

DETOUR

Col'm Under Construction By BETSY BYRNES

"A little learning is a dangerous thing,
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring,
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again."

—Alexander Pope.
In this day of digests, reviews, and reviewers, we are very likely to forget that we are taking shallow draughts of learning as we glibly quote the words and ideas of others. No one else can do our thinking for us. If we would really learn, we must study.

QUESTIONS
If one of your friends said you were myopic, what would he mean?

What is rubber?
One of the customers sent us these words—grinace, harass, adult. Can you pronounce all three correctly?

TODAY'S PROVERB
"Though you seat the frog on a golden stool,
He soon will jump back into the pool."

—Dutch.
ANSWERS
Perhaps you wouldn't know what your friend meant, if he said you were myopic. You might even think he was calling you a horrid name! Myopic means near-sighted.

Now, about rubber: Rubber is a gum resin. It exudes from several species of trees of the genus Hevea. These trees are extensively cultivated on plantations in the East Indies.

So you think you pronounce grinace, harass and adult correctly? Let's check up. Grinace is not GRIM-ace, but GRIM-ACE, with the accent on the second syllable. In the word harass, however, you must accent the first syllable, saying HAR-ace, not har-ASS. An adult is neither an A-dult, nor an AD-ult, but an A-DULT. That word, adult, is commonly mispronounced.

ADIOS
May tears never blind you,
Nor misfortune find you;
And should fear assail you,
May hope never fail you!

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Forty-four out of every 100 pounds of milk produced in the United States is churned into butter, according to the Consumers' Council of the Department of Agriculture.

Of the remaining 56 pounds, 41 are used in fluid form, six eaten as cheese, four poured into cans in the form of evaporated or condensed milk, three made into ice cream, and the rest consumed by calves and used in miscellaneous products such as malted milk, powdered milk, and so on.

Scenic Beauty Hides Big Guns at Point Loma

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 9 (U.P.)—Historic Point Loma is being converted into one of the strongest fortified points in the world—a veritable Gibraltar—to protect San Diego harbor, where the U. S. Navy maintains its largest base.

Working quietly, the U. S. Army is installing the most modern of coast defense guns upon the jutting point, which is regarded as one of the seven most beautiful views in the world.

Well Guarded

Used often by motion picture companies as a "location" when filming pictures in which Honolulu's famed Diamond Head appears, much of the Point is forbidden territory for tourists as the Army proceeds with its fortifications. Armed guards halt all automobiles at the two entrances and warn against sketching. Cameras are forbidden.

While army officers are loath to discuss the work being done, there is every indication that soon Point Loma will become the most strongly fortified spot in the continental United States.
