Wants College to Probe Perfume Project

PERKIN PLEADS AGAINST PARTY AT NEW HOME

Officer Tom Perkin and his wife moved into a new home at 1806 Amapola avenue recently and his fellow officers on the police department are not going to let him forget it until he "throws" them a good, old fashioned house-warming.

This week on the bulletin board of the police station appeared a notice informing all officers of Perkin's new residence and asking each one to sign up when he could attend the festivities. All signed up at once.

Perkin denies putting up the sign, declares that self-invited guests will be forcibly removed.

F.C. Morgan Returns; Reopens Shop Here

F. C. Morgan, owner of the Torrance Auto Electric Service at 1320 Cabrillo avenue, has returned from a three weeks vacation trip and wants everyone to know that he is again open for business. Together with his wife and son, Morgan motored to Pittsburgh, Pa., to visit old friends. His service shop was closed during his absence.

from the premises, is pleading with the other guardians of the public peace to "wait until after pay-day."

Mrs. Venetta Jensen, of 1605 Amapola avenue, entered Jared Sidney Torrance-hospital Tuesday for surgical treatment.

Building Permits for Week Total $1,730 Here

Building permits totalling $1,730 were issued by City Engineer Frank R. Leonard during the past week. The Torrance Auditorium company is altering and repairing a store front at 1405 Sartori avenue, the work to cost $200, according to building records.

Mrs. Flora McDonald is having a new roof put on the Torrance Bowling Academy at 1951 Carson street at a cost of $120 and W. E. Gainsley is constructing two chicken houses, each 20 by 120 feet in size, one-half mile east of Walteria on Highway 101. The work will cost about $1,310.

Alondra Park Flower Plan Under Study

Research work to determine whether Los Angeles county, especially Alondra Park, is suitable for growing perfume flowers should be carried on by the state College of Agriculture rather than by the board of supervisors, in the opinion of Dr. George P. Clements, manager of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Clements, one of a committee of five citizens named to report on the feasibility of the Alondra Park project, said he believed "the whole thing should be dumped in the lap of the college of agriculture." The supervisors have before them a request for $25,000 for a survey to determine whether perfume flowers could be grown here.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the state college is thoroughly equipped for the necessary laboratory work, and $25,000 would not even buy the necessary laboratory equipment, he stated.

Synthetic California climate is comparable with that of France and Bulgaria, which is the backbone of the industry," Dr. Clement wrote, but the humidity is not similar. There are summer showers in France and Bulgaria, while in California it would be necessary to irrigate. Irrigation causes the plants to take on a different character.

"Our understanding is that the perfumes of commercial origin are predominantly synthetic, and that the plant producing districts in both France and Bulgaria which were so prosperous are now in the main under relief."

Other members of the committee are expected to report to the supervisors shortly.

Offers Children Souvenirs of Coronation

Low Allen, owner of the Home Furniture Mart located next to the Bank of America on Sartori avenue, attended the British Coronation ceremonies in London last spring with his family and brought home some unique souvenirs of that impressive event which he is offering to local youngsters.

"I had a wonderful time in dear old England where my wife and I were born and we certainly enjoyed seeing the King's horses and the new King's men during the Coronation," he said this week. "I brought home with me 50 Coronation pencils and am going to give them away free to the first 50 children accompanied by their parents who will call at the Home Furniture Mart to inspect my stock."

"I can only give one of these souvenirs to a family because I only have 50 of them," Allen said. For the past 16 years he has been engaged in selling furniture wholesale and before leaving for Europe last May he was manager for the Empire Furniture company of Los Angeles. He said today that he has filled the Home Furniture Mart here to capacity with "only high-grade modern furniture, gas ranges and bedding and I will give my customers in Torrance, Loma and surrounding communities a square deal always."
