CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Probation after Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ. Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. Jesus' words, "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved," constitute the Golden Text. One of the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon includes the verses from the Psalm: "I have set the LORD always before me; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved. Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoiceth: my flesh also shall rest in hope. For thou wilt not leave my soul in hell; neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption. Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore." And these words of Job are presented: "The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger." The Lesson-Sermon cites also this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every mortal at some period, here or hereafter, must grapple with and overcome the mortal belief in a power opposed to God."

With the exception of these minor differences the Book of Common Prayer in use in this country almost identical to the Books in use by other branches of the Anglican communion. Likens John Bull and Uncle Sam to Portly Torrance Police Sergeant

Entitling his article "From the Other Side," Tatsu Inouye of this city has written the following contribution to The Herald in defense of Japan's undeclared war on China. The Herald publishes Inouye's signed communication exactly as it was typewritten:

By TATSU INOUE, P. O. Box 482, Torrance

Wishing no gap in the relation between my native country and my adopted country I am asking a chance to defend the case of Japan which the great American laws give to even arch-criminal thereby showing that Japan is no worse than the rest of the world and ousting of her from the family of the nations wouldn't even satisfy their hypocrisy.

Once Japan asked for a room for her emigrants. It was denied. Next she asked for trade. It was met with restrictive tariffs.

So she went to Africa, South America, Australia, India, and China to develop her new market. But even in these parts big fellows claimed their spheres of influence. They exhausted their efforts to obstruct Japan's fair trade, resorted to the every underhanded methods conceivable. In China's case they have organized and financed Japanese racketeers to boycott Chinese goods. When they see any chance of making money they didn't mind killing few Japanese not even their own nationals. Remember, in those Indian war days it was white men who supplied guns to Indians to massacre white men. Shanghai was the hole for C. C. Julian who escaped American laws. There are full of all other nations worse than him. Just as American G-men found it necessary to cope with those big time racketeers with a little sterner methods than soft handed legal technicalities, Japan found it necessary to use force rather than to submit to slow death of starvation. In the case of Chinese civilian's death Japan is just as sorry for her potential customers as G-men are for the victims of their stray bullets.

Court Scene in Geneva. Miss China almost fainting has just finished her tearful testimony as the prosecution witness. The woman jurors as sentimental as they are did not forget to be realistic as to determine themselves that they would make this good example to show to their stronger sex that man cannot strike back even if he is scratched. Some of the ambitious gentlemen, with their eyes dancing at the carefully crossed legs of the witness secretly sighed, "what a rich trade!" The third group of jurors who had a little conscience left to remember—the Bible that only the innocents can strike the guilty, in the previous occasions, now sees in the defendant the revenging ghosts of their victims. The court as a matter of form calls for defense. But there is no answer from the defendant, for he has long abandoned the hope of obtaining justice from the begrudged and prejudiced court. So the court has finished another case with a unanimous votes of "guilty," every juror congratulating themselves for unselfish service to the humanity.

Policemen

In one of those prohibition days a Torrance youth was caught in the act of drinking. Being taken to the station he was preached by a sergeant, a portly gentleman. The youth, a bit upset, pointing an accusing finger at the gentleman's middle retorted, "Well, you didn't get that pot belly of yours by just drinking the water, did you?"

Inglewood to Pay Tribute to Rosenberg

Roy Rosenberg, managing editor of the Inglewood Daily News and former city editor of The Herald, is to receive the "Civic Award" for 1937 from the Inglewood Realty Board at a special luncheon to be held at the Potrero country club next Monday, Oct. 25. That day has been officially proclaimed by the mayor and city council of Inglewood as "Roy Rosenberg Civic Day."

Many Torrance residents remember the Inglewood editor as a progressive newspaperman who contributed greatly to the advance made by The Herald during his association with this newspaper. He is a brother-in-law of E. J. Bickfeldt, former machine superintendent of The Herald. Grover C. Whyte, editor-publisher of this newspaper, has been invited to attend the Inglewood function and will join in honoring Rosenberg.

Trout Season Ends With Current Month

Motorists who have been promising themselves a trip into the back country for a last fling at trout fishing this year are reminded that the season closes Oct. 31.

Best late-season fishing will be found on the Owens Valley side of the High Sierra, for there are still "big ones" left for those who are willing to fish away from the vicinity of their automobile. The Upper and Lower Sespe, Little Rock reservoir, and Big Bear lake hold fair prospects, the outing bureau reports.

Lamp Thief Strips Auto

The lamps were removed from two fog lights on his Dodge sedan. Ulrich lives at 1626 Acacia avenue.
