

Business-Professional Women Hear Mayor Tolson at Dinner

Gala Thanksgiving Spread is Enjoyed by Group Monday

Picturing Torrance as an ideal spot for a junior college, a suitable center for one day conventions and all in all a grand place to live, Mayor William H. Tolson in speaking before the National Business and Professional Women at their dinner meeting Monday evening gave that group a new appreciation for their home.

Town. Mayor Tolson spoke of possibilities for community growth, compared taxes with those of other cities of like size and explained the various departments that fall under city management and the workings of each.

Mme. Teala Billini played several piano selections and group singing completed the program. A gift of a lovely electric clock was presented to Miss Ethel Ward, who will become the bride of Gilbert Derouin on Thanksgiving Day.

Welcome New Members
As this was the annual Thanksgiving dinner turkey and all the "fixins" were served with the meal. Thirty-six members and guests were seated at the long tables decorated in nature's rarest contributions of fruits, nuts and oak leaves. Clusters of tiny oak leaves, dates, figs and nuts were placed the length of the tables with large wooden bowls laden with choice fruits serving as centerpieces. Candies wrapped in cellophane and made to resemble bunches of grapes served as favors.

Loy Maupin, Mae Leake and Ann Carrioco were welcomed as new members. Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Josephine Parsons and daughter Dorothy of Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Julia McManus, Mrs. W. H. Tolson, Fay Parks, Roland Sanderhoff and Dorothy Arundel.

A Bay section meeting will be held in Gardena Friday evening (tomorrow) at 6:30 p. m. Two Torrance women will speak. Lute Fraser, district research chairman, on "Research" and Esther Maxwell on "Research Work in Our Club."

Ask for these at the Library

In the November number of the Wilson Bulletin, which is a publication devoted to book publishing houses and libraries, there appears the current list of best sellers and also the current list of library favorites. The last list is compiled from reports from 26 libraries from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and lists ten titles in fiction and ten in non-fiction.

The local library is rejoicing that eight of the fiction titles are having rapid circulation here and the remaining two are on order and expected daily. The list follows:

Gone With the Wind by Margaret Mitchell.
Northwest Passage by Kenneth Roberts.

And So—Victoria by Vaughn Wilkins.
Drums Along the Mohawk by Walter Edmonds.

The Years by Virginia Woolf.
Lost Horizon by James Hilton.

Of Mice and Men by John Steinbeck.
Three Comrades by Eric Remarque.

On Order—
American Dream by Michael Foster.

The Citadel by A. J. Cronin.
In Non-Fiction—
How to Win Friends and Influence People by Dale Carnegie.
Present Indicative by Noel Coward.

Live Alone and Like It by M. Hillis.

American Doctor's Odyssey by Victor Heiser.

Return to Religion by Henry C. Link.
The Nile by Emil Ludwig.
Man the Unknown by Alexis Carrell.

On Order—
Mathematics for the Millions by L. Hogben.

Life With Mother by Clarence Day.
Conversation at Midnight by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Torrance Musicians Attend Broadcast

Thirty members of the Torrance Musicians' Society, Inc., and nearly 150 other local residents attended the Sunset broadcast at the Figueroa Playhouse in Los Angeles last Sunday night. The Musicians were special guests of the sponsoring oil company, thru the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham, local Sunset distributors at their service station on Carson street.

The presence of the Torrance society was announced from the stage before the air program started to the audience of some 2,000 people attending the broadcast.
