County, City Officials Meeting Here Tonight

Firemen Hosts to Kids Here Dec. 21

Whether Santa Claus can return to Torrance for the Firemen's annual Christmas party for all Torrance youngsters, next Tuesday night, Dec. 21, at the Civic Auditorium will not be known until the night of the big event itself. But even if St. Nick cannot get away from his North Pole workshop, the firemen are going to give local boys and girls a grand party and at the end of the entertainment, present them with gifts of candy, nuts and apples.

Every boy and girl in the city is cordially invited to be at the Civic Auditorium next Tuesday night to enjoy the festivities. L. J. Gilmeister, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will be master-of-ceremonies introducing the various numbers on the program. These will be:

A march number followed by Christmas selections, played by the Torrance Municipal band. Processional by the Junior a capella choir, directed by Mrs. Marjorie Eischen. Selection by the Harmonica band, directed by Miss Hollenbeck; numbers by the Torrance Junior Musicians of America under the direction of R. Leggett.

Dance numbers will be staged by two groups of young entertainers, one under the sponsorship of Dorothy Crandall and the other by the Zabelle Junior Starlets. The municipal band will play while the gifts are presented to the youngsters attending the party by the city firemen.

The Junior Musicians group is making its first appearance on this program as a unit since they staged a brilliant recital last March. The first number will be a snappy march, followed by an arrangement of "Even Song." A guitar ensemble will play "Silent Night" and the closing number will be a characteristic Spanish composition, "Don Juan."

The director, Leggett, announces that any child musician may join the club and he will be at the Woman's club Mondays and Fridays to give full information about the group.

Fire Chief Issues Annual Warning

Fire Chief A. B. Stevenson issued his annual warning this week regarding the safe use of Christmas lights and decorations. He said:

"Trees will soon be in place in our homes and other decorations appropriate to the Christmas season distributed to add their festive notes to the rooms. Stores, churches and schools also bear witness to the approach of the holidays and unless great care is exercised, the added fire hazards which accompany such decorations will cause unnecessary pain and sorrow."

"Don't use cotton batting for decorations on your Christmas trees. Don't use lighted candles for window decorations—electric ones are more satisfactory and safer. Be careful not to overload the electric circuit in your home, store or church. "Remove trees and decorations as soon as possible after Christmas. In the stores which are crowded during the pre-holiday season it is especially important that decorations of an inflammable nature should be avoided and that wiring should be installed by a competent, licensed electrician and inspected."

"Accumulation of holiday packing materials hold dangerous fire possibilities and all scraps should be removed. It is especially hazardous to allow such materials to pile up under counters and on stairways. The fire department asks you to make it a rule to keep all fire exits clear and unobstructed at all times."

CLUB PLANS PARTY

With Rev. Frank Porter as program chairman, members of the Kiwanis club will hold their annual Christmas party at Daniels cafe Monday night.

C. A. PAXMAN, PIONEER CIVIC LEADER, DIES

One of this city's first business men, a civic leader and a man whose loyalty to Torrance was never questioned, Chester A. Paxman, succumbed early Monday morning after a long illness. His passing, was not unexpected because "Pax," as he was familiarly known by hundreds of friends here, had been gravely ill for many months.

"Pax" came to the end of life's trail as he had lived—a quiet, friendly, counselor, a storekeeper who always had time to contribute his help to any community service. He passed away at his home, 1428 Post avenue, serene in the love and affection of his devoted wife Helen and two sons, Carl and Richard. He was born at Montpelier, Vt., the son of a farmer, on Nov. 20, 1876, and he was more than 61 years of age when he passed away Dec. 13.

Mr. Paxman came to Torrance in 1913 when this city was just emerging from a bean field. He opened a hardware store and soon began to enjoy the confidence and business of early-day residents who recognized in him the attributes of a community-builder which later residents quickly observed. He was a charter member of the Torrance Kiwanis club and a member of the Masonic lodge.

When his health failed early this summer, his place at the store was taken by his oldest son Carl. Not a day passed but that Carl had to answer many queries about his father's health and when his death became known, many a Torrance man and woman realized that this city had lost one of its most esteemed citizens.

The funeral service yesterday afternoon at the Stone and Myers' chapel drew an overflow attendance and hundreds of floral offerings were banked around the bier. The local Masonic lodge and Rev. B. H. Linnefelter were in charge of the rites and interment was at Pacific Crest. Katherine and Charles A. Curtiss sang, accompanied by Tom Ulrich.

The pallbearers, all old friends of Mr. Paxman, were Wallace Post, Dr. Norman Leske, G. M. Calder, A. H. Bartlett, Sam Levy and Harry Dolley. Honorary pallbearers were John Holm of Lomita, W. H. Stanger, John Fess, Alfred Goudier, Jesse Sprout, and Paul Dynes of Redondo Beach.

Lomita Acreage Sold to County for Park Site

A resolution of intention to purchase six acres on Eshelman avenue near Lomita boulevard for a county park in Lomita was approved by the board of supervisors last Thursday. The land will be purchased from the Howard estate thru John W. Welte, Lomita realtor.

The price of $7,500 was judged fair in a report to the supervisors by the county purchasing agent. A five-room house and outbuildings are included in the sale.

Dairymen's Barbecue Menu Surprises Torrance Guests

Anticipating the presence of gallons of sweet milk, butter, milk and ice cream, lavish plates of butter and dishes brimming with cottage cheese on the table, four Torrance men responded to the invitation of the Milk Transport association and attended that organization's annual barbecue at a huge milk depot in Clearwater last Saturday.

"Imagine our surprise when we joined nearly 400 others at the long tables and we couldn't spot a single glass of milk, butter was almost unobtainable and these wasn't a bite of cheese to be had," Mayor William H. Tolson said on returning. City Councilman James E. Hitchcock, Captain John Stroth and William H. Stanger, superintendent of the municipal water plant, accompanied Tolson to the affair.

"But the line-up of other refreshments was the most impressive I've ever seen," the mayor commented.

Yoder Asks $15,000 For Injuries; Hit By Falling Plaster

Damages for $15,000 are sought in a civil suit on file today in Los Angeles superior court for injuries received during the reconstruction of a Torrance business building last January.

T. R. Yoder, an employee of the Southern California Edison company, was struck by a large piece of falling plaster as he sat at his desk in the building atop which a second story was being added.

The action names as defendants Dr. Clarence Ingold, George Beckwith, A. U. Robinson and F. L. Parks, doing business as the Torrance Plumbing Company.

YULE MUSIC PROGRAM IN AUD MONDAY

Christmas music—a part of the beauty of the Yuletide spirit and a part no one wants to miss—will be featured at the annual Christmas program to be presented without charge in the Civic Auditorium next Monday afternoon and evening. The matinee at 1:30 o'clock is for school children aitho adults are welcome to attend. The evening program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

The high school music and art departments are cooperating with the Torrance Ministerial Union in presenting this Yuletide entertainment. The Madrigal Singers, Junior a capella choir and P. T. A. choir will be heard.

Several impressive tableaux are planned by the high school art department, using authentic costumes from the famed Palestine Museum in Los Angeles. The rose motif, carried out in the decorations and words of the early German and Spanish Christmas songs, will be explained by Richard Keith, well-known reader whose fine resonant voice has been enjoyed by many Torrance people. Echo effects from choir to choir will enhance the carols.

Mrs. Marjorie Eischen, music director, is planning some novel methods of employing community singing by the audience after the stage presentation. A cordial invitation is extended to all residents to attend this beautiful entertainment.

Peace Officers Honor Stroth

Capt. John H. Stroth was elected president of the Peace Officers Civil Service Association of California at the annual meeting held Monday night at Culver City. Approximately 42 cities' police and fire departments are members of the association whose retiring president is Harold B. Atkinson of Huntington Park. Stroth will be installed early next month.

Last year the local police officer was a director of the Association and two years ago he was its treasurer. He will retain his directorship for the coming year and will be a member of the executive committee. Sergeant Ernest Ashton and Officer Percy Bennett of this city have been named members of the Membership committee.

'Bookie' Control Law Under Study

A "model ordinance" will probably be the basis of a city law to be passed here in the near future designed to license and regulate what Attorney General U. S. Webb terms "bet forwarding agencies" but what the man-in-the-street knows as "bookie offices." Because the present city license ordinance allows "any other business not otherwise classified" in its sections to operate here for only $12 a year, members of the city council Tuesday night indicated that speed is necessary to amend this law to provide a much greater revenue from the bookies.

City Clerk A. H. Bartlett told the council that he had already three "tentative applications" made for such permits. Mayor William H. Tolson commented: "They're going to make themselves a lot of money and the city should get its share. We don't want to be behind if someone wants to come in here and open up a legal bookie joint. We must be in a position to get our just..."

"Gratt" suggested Councilman Robert Deinger. "Gratt" is alright. It will help pay for supervising the bookie offices," the mayor concluded. So, on motion by Councilman Robert Deinger.

Condemnation Suit, Six Years Old, Is Ordered Dropped

A condemnation suit started by the city council back in 1921 when P. G. Briney was city attorney, will probably be effaced from the superior court records because none of the present city officials know anything about the matter. City Attorney C. T. Rippey told the council Tuesday night that the case was coming up Friday before superior court. He was instructed to drop the proceedings.

Torrance Greets Visitors With Open Arms

SEE SECTION B

On pages 2-B and 3-B of today's Herald will be found civic information about Torrance which will be of special interest to those attending the County League of Municipalities' dinner and to new Torrance residents.

Framed in a Persian garden setting of unusual charm, the city of Torrance will be host tonight to the Los Angeles County League of Municipalities at a ladies' night dinner meeting followed by stage entertainment and dancing in the Civic Auditorium.

Well aware of the possibilities of using this gathering as a sounding board to broadcast the exceptional progress made by Torrance during the last few years—especially the development of the civic center buildings—city and Chamber of Commerce officials have cooperated to make the function a memorable occasion for the 350 expected to attend from nearly every city in the county.

Not content with installing elaborate decorations in the Auditorium and commissioning the American Legion Auxiliary to supply a luscious baked ham dinner, local officials have gone steps further to make the visit of the out-of-town guests noteworthy.

Buildings Flood-Lighted
Boy Scouts are stationed at principal intersections of the city to direct the incoming city officials, their wives and guests to the Auditorium.

A new system of colored flood lights has been installed in the lawn fronting the Auditorium and the Administration building to bathe the structures in soft colored lights. This is a permanent addition to enhance the beauty of the civic buildings.

All of the civic center structures will be illuminated and open for inspection of the visiting officials and guests tonight.

League Officers Listed
Tall palm trees and billowing canopies of rich colors have been installed in the Auditorium, together with scores of the new large round tables which were used for the first time when the adjoining administration building was dedicated last Oct.
